

M'ARTHUR PREDICTS REPUBLICAN HOUSE

Representative in Oregon On Ten Days' Furlough.

SENATE CONTROL IN DOUBT

Visitor Resents Recent Action of Mr. Wilson in Bidding for Support of Democrats.

The Republicans in Congress have been better supporters of the Nation's war programme than the Democrats and it comes with poor grace for the who have carried on his campaign in his absence. Oregon's war record, according to Mr. McArthur, has won the state renown throughout the Nation. "It sure is a pleasure to note so many worthy war activities," he said, "which are a source of pride to all. The record Oregon has made in this respect is known the length and breadth of the country and has caused much favorable comment."

Stand by Your Senator

Charles L. McNary

Republican
UNITED STATES SENATOR

Indorsed by His Opponent

On April 29, 1918, in the Portland Journal, Oswald West said:

"Senator McNary is giving the President his unqualified support in the prosecution of the war, and is most active in his endeavors to advance the interests of the people of Oregon."

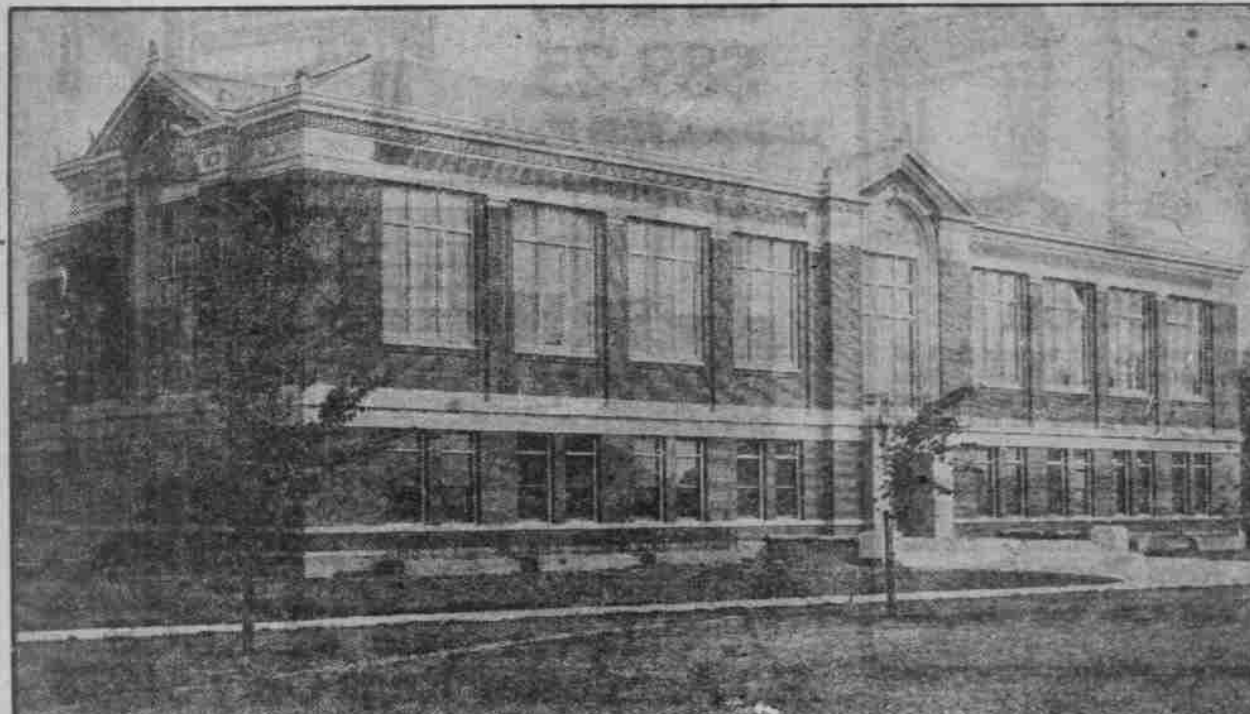

Only the day before, Mr. West in an interview in The Oregonian said:

"Although they differ in politics, Senators Chamberlain and McNary are working harmoniously together and making every effort to secure for Oregon those things to which she is justly entitled."

President to ask that Republicans be left at home regardless of the fealty of their opponents, declared Representative McArthur last night.

Representative McArthur reached Portland last night, coming direct from Washington on a brief furlough. He came not to do any campaigning, since that is at an end, but to visit his mother and brother, attend to business affairs and vote, he said.

"I did not leave Washington," said the Representative, "until I was assured by Minority Leader Kitchin that the House will have nothing essential to do until the Senate disposes of the pending revenue bill, probably about November 20. However, I will be here but 10 days."

Mr. McArthur expresses confidence that the Republicans will control the next House. Completion of the Senate is not so sure, but the President's partisan appeal is swinging votes to the Republican candidates strongly in Eastern and Middle Western states, he finds.

Wilson's Appeal Resented.
"Election of men to Congress," declared Representative McArthur, "should be determined by the free votes of our citizens and not through influence or interference of the President. It comes with poor grace for the President to have made such an appeal in view of the attitude of the Republicans of both House and Senate on war questions. The Republican members, as a matter of fact, have been better supporters of the war programme than the Democrats."

"Regardless of results on Tuesday, the Republicans will continue to back the war programme until Germany has surrendered unconditionally."

"I expect to be re-elected, notwithstanding the petty mudslinging of the opposition. Unable to find flaws in my record of patriotic support during the war crisis, they have attempted to inject false and spurious issues. Oregon voters are amply able to determine the issues of the campaign, and I submit my candidacy to them with utmost confidence that I will be re-elected."

Oregon War Record Pleases.

The Representative expressed pleasure at being able to get back to Oregon even for the brief stay permitted. It lacks but a week of being a year since he departed for Washington. He is staying at the Mallory Hotel, and asks friends to call. Organizations or individuals who have matters of interest be particularly urged to see him in person. He expressed gratitude to the Republican organizations and friends

Auto Driver Is Arrested.

When Charles O. Ellis appeared at police headquarters last night to report an automobile accident he was arrested by Desk Officer Wendorf and locked up in the city jail charged with drunkenness. Ellis, it was reported, had a collision with a streetcar on Broadway, in which the machine he was driving was slightly damaged. When he came to report the accident his condition was such that the officer did not think him in a fit condition to drive an automobile. He admitted, said the officer, that he had been drinking.

Physician Struck by Auto.

Dr. G. Horton, 551 Fifth street North, was struck by an automobile last night at Thurman and 37th streets and suffered painful injuries to his left foot. The driver of the machine, William Olson, aged 15, of 449 Blackstone street, reported that his vision was obscured by rain on the windshield. He admitted to the police, they say, that the owner of the car is F. Fisher & Co., of 725 Thurman street, and that he took the machine without the permission of his father.

Major Williams Here.

Major John M. Williams, former acting Adjutant-General of Oregon, now Camp Adjutant at Camp Lewis, visited in Portland yesterday. He went to Eugene during the day for a visit there. He will stop in Portland again today before returning to American Lake.

Laborer Injured by Fall.

Webb Glendening, aged 25, of 47 East Seventh street North, a laborer in the Brooklyn yards, suffered a severely wrenched back last night when he fell into a cinder pit in the yards. The injured worker was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital.

completed. Moving days brought strenuous work for librarians and assistants, and the institution will be open tomorrow.

The library is simple and artistic in design. The entrance is of Italian marble. The interior is in marble and the balustrades are of bronze finish. The entire second floor accommodates the library, and there is space for 300 in the reading-room. On the east side of the first floor is a lecture-room with seating capacity for 400. The west side on the first floor is a study hall for men and will accommodate 300. On the third floor Dean Fawcett will have an office, and there will be room for stenographers and clerks.

Library Shows Growth.

Mrs. Ida A. Kidder, librarian, who took charge in 1905, saw that the housing accommodations for so great a college library were insufficient, and she was largely instrumental in arousing interest for the new building. The Legislature voted the appropriation in 1917. In 1918 there were 8000 bound volumes in the college library. Now there are 25,000 bound volumes, 25,000 pamphlets and 585 current periodicals.

The library is not the only attraction under the new college plan. The hostess house, conducted by the local Y. W. C. A., has been a source of great comfort and pleasure. The primary purpose is to supply the needs of out-of-town friends and relatives of the Students' Army Training Corps, but it is also used extensively as a social center for the college students. So popular has been the venture that plans are under way to enlarge the hostess house. The upper rooms of Shepard Hall, now used by the Barometer, Mask and Dagger Club and Oregon Countryman, will be fitted up for the use of women. One room will be used as Red Cross headquarters.

Influenza About Finished.

Most of the students who had the influenza have practically recovered and the classes are large in all departments. The general health of the student is reported good.

Serenades are coming into vogue again and some of the old college spirit is in evidence, but war interest of course is dominant. Interest in athletics also is growing.

The men's fraternities are permitted by the War Department to hold business meetings to hold their organizations together, but social gatherings are barred.

The college has appointed a committee to take charge of the war service drive November 13. Patriotic work is a big part in the programme of all the societies, and the girls are doing their share to help win the war.

Why Change?

"The object of Governor Withycombe in appointing a member of the Supreme Court to fill the brief vacancy caused by the death of Justice Moore has been fulfilled in a gratifying way. The need of clearing the court docket was great and Justice Conrad P. Olson, the Governor's selection, has responded with vigor and enthusiasm. Although doubtless tempted to leave the work to engage in his campaign for election, Justice Olson has carried out the spirit of his appointment by strict application to the duties of his place. It may be said, without disparaging the attainments of other candidates for the place, that Justice Olson has demonstrated by the quality of the several opinions he has handed down and by his industry his fitness for the position of Justice of the Supreme Court."—Editorial in Oregonian, October 30.
