OMEN'S CLUBS

The letter follows:

My Dear Club Workers, Greetings:
The Thanksgiving period has passed, any club women, together with every other American, have had great cause for giving thanks. The Christmas time is at hand; may we all make this season one of gladness and good cheer. Let the club women of this state follow the time-honored custom of the past and each piace in the window of her home on Christmas Eve the lighted candle as a token of good cheer to all who shall pass by. My greetings to each individual club member, and a wish for the best that the Christmas season can bring to each one.

(MRS. C. H.) THERESA M. CASTNER, President.

Portland Woman Writes of Celebra-tions in La Roche.

DESCRIPTION of the joy the A signing of the armistice brought to the little French community of La Roche sur You is contained in the letter of a Portland girl, Miss Jessie Nottingham, who is an assistant delegate for the Red Cross in the department of Vendee, near Nantes. Miss Notting ham's letter, under the date of November 11, follows:

"Mr. Sparks (Red Cross delegate)
and I were in the storeroom getting ciothes for some especially needy cases which could not wait for the regular day for distribution when he told me that the armistice had been signed. Presently Mile. Gallond came in with tears in her eyes, crying 'It is finished; I am so happy; no more soldiers shall be killed this night, but oh, how sad it is, for so many cannot return." "At 2:30 all the bells began to ring

They rang for half an hour, then stopped for a few minutes and began again. The boys of the military class of 1920 came by singing and carrying the flags of the allies. Madamoiselle the flags of the allies. Madamoiselle and I were at the window wiping our eyes. The boys saw me, whived the Stars and Stripes and cried, 'Vive les Americaines.' At 4 oclock we went to the market place, where the peasants had gathered for market day. The 15, 800 inhabitants all seemed to be in the streets and at the Place. Our refugees with many babies were there, wearing the clothes made by American women.

The Prefect was on the steps of the Hotel de Ville. We went over and I was presented to him. He spoke of the significance of the armistice coming at the time when the American soldiers had entered Sedan. The music began. The orchestra and chorus were composed of women with an old man for conductor. They sang the British. French and American national airs and I was glad that I knew some of the words of the 'Marseillaise.' "One young girl had an American

MRS. C. H. CASTNER, president of the State Federation of Women's it. Madamojselle asked if we each might take a leaf to send to our parents and the girl eagerly consented. Many people crowded around us to shake our hands and say 'Vive Lea Americaines.' We said, 'Vive Lea Americaines.' We said, 'Vive la France.' After a while Madamoiselle said to me. Lo, look at Mr. Sparks with all those ribbons pinned on him. The letter follows:

some one must have kissed him?"
"Later we met one of our cleanest and most attractive refugees, a woman past 80. She waved her hands and cried "To Lille, to Lille, I shall return again to Lille." We kissed her on both checkers. both cheeks. "Tonight my right hand aches from
