Dr. K. A. J. Mackenzie Points Out Lesson of Epidemic.

START IS MADE BY COUNTY

Fair Prospect of State Building This Year on University Campus Above Terwilliger Boulevard.

Many people doubtless have died during the present influenza epidemic because of a lack of proper hospital facilities in Oregon, according to Dr. Kenneth J. Mackenzie, of the University of Oregon medical school and prominent Portland physician.

A statement of the relations of hospital accommodations to the influenza epidemic as well as a summary of what has been accomplished toward increasing these accommodations and what it is hoped to accomplish through public funds and prospective private donations was made yesterday by Dr. Mackenzie.

Hospital Facilities Needed.

"The great epidemic of influenza, which is still raging in the community, brings the attention of the people of the state of Oregon to the building of hospitals for the use of the entire community. The city and county have for three or four years past outgrown their hospital facilities. In point of fact there is an imperative need for the building at once of hospitals which shall furnish accommodations of at least 1000 beds.

"A great many people have suffered from the lack of proper facilities throughout the influenza epidemic and doubtless many have perished. Many instances are known where whole families have been stricken with influenza and isolated in their own homes, have been without care for lack of hospital accommodations and adequate nursing care.

"The utilization of the public Auditorium and the building of temporary barracks for the care of the afflicted would be a most desirable and practical need of hospital equipment that will be commensurate with the needs of the community hereafter.

County Makes Good Start.

"Happily, the County Commissioners, realizing the urgency of the situation, have set aside this year, out of available funds, the sum of $20,000 for the building of the first unit of the new County Hospital, which will have the effect as soon as it is finished of relieving a very trying situation. Plans are being considered for the construction of this building upon the university campus.

"There is likewise a fair prospect of the state building this year upon the university campus above the Terwilliger boulevard a hospital of perhaps 200 or 300 beds for the care of the very considerable number of industrial cripples, the number of which is increasing very rapidly in the present epidemic conditions. This institution might also care for a large number of men, women and children throughout the state who are known to be afflicted with medical and surgical disorders from which they could be relieved once the facilities for treatment are placed within their reach.

Crippled Children Need Care.

"This institution might likewise provide for the care of crippled children, for whose care the Legislature of 1917 provided an excellent law. Already a very considerable number of these children have been restored to efficiency by orthopedic operations of different kinds which were needed for their reconstruction.

"The State Hospital that is being considered and which has the support of the Governor and all the state officials, might be realized without added taxation from the county and funds from the State Accident Insurance Commission. It would naturally provide first and foremost for those of our citizens, male or female, who have been crippled in industry, and whatever space was available could be utilized for those crippled otherwise than in industry and needing humane consideration and professional care.

"The prospect seems to be very favorable at the present time for the building of a memorial institute of some kind which shall take the form of a hospital. This feature, which has been developed largely through the activities of the Mayor of the city, includes in its decorative and monumental features, the dedication of funds by the State of Oregon.

Private Benefactions Possible.

"The prospect was never more favorable in the city of Portland for the building of a memorial institute of some kind which shall take the form of a hospital. This feature, which has been developed largely through the activities of the Mayor of the city, includes in its decorative and monumental features, the dedication of funds by the State of Oregon.

Aid for Road Is Requested.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Jan. 25.—(Special)—County Judge Blowers has written to T. H. Judge Blowers expresses the hope that the road will be open to motor tourists before the summer is over.

building of public hospitals and there is also a very excellent outlook for the extension of private benefactions in the building of hospitals. One of our distinguished citizens is considering seriously a very handsome outlay for the building and maintenance of a hospital for sick and crippled children. The placing of this hospital is also being considered upon the university campus.

"The medical school building, the first unit of which now stands completed, would naturally be in affiliation and directly related to the treatment of all cases that are brought to these institutions through its personnel and its laboratories, the service to be rendered free always to the poor and needy of the state. ALIEN FORFEITS PROPERTY

KLIKITAT COUNTY NORWEGIAN LOSES TITLE TO LAND.

Marlus Olson, Who Withdraws First Papers to Escape Draft, Is Defendant in Suit.

GOLDENDALE, Wash., Jan. 25.—(Special)—The state of Washington has acquired title to a ten-acre tract of orchard land by virtue of a judgment signed today by Judge Darch in the Superior Court for Klickitat County in the case of the state of Washington on the relation of W. V. Tappner, Attorney-General, vs. Marlus Olson.

The case was started November 1, 1918, under the constitutional provision that a foreigner cannot hold title to land in the state of Washington, and Olson had availed himself of the section of the draft law allowing a native of a neutral country to withdraw his first papers and renounce his intention to become a citizen of the United States.

Olson was called for duty by the local draft board for Klickitat County last summer under the first draft. In taking the oath required by the selective service department, he had sworn that he understood that his action would deprive him from ever becoming a citizen of the United States. In addition to obtaining exemption from military service, Olson, who is a rancher in the Spring Creek section of Klickitat County, is unmarried and a native of Norway.

He made no defense in the case and all orders were obtained on default. This is the first case that has ever been instituted in the Klickitat courts to escheat the property of an alien to the commonwealth.

Battle-Scarred Indian Listed as Army Deserter.

Klickitat County Red Man, Although Known as Fighter, Is Not Among Uncle Sam's Valiant Sons.

GOLDENDALE, Wash., Jan. 25.—(Special)—Jake Heney, notorious fighting Indian of the Rock Creek section of Indians in Eastern Klickitat County, who boasts that he is immune from death, is a battle-scarred aborigine. His scars were obtained from wounds he received while resisting arrest, fighting bartenders and in quarrels with members of his own race.

He also, at one time, while coming up a trail out of Rock Creek, attempted to capture a rattlesnake that got in his way and he was bitten twice while trying to get a strange hold on the reptile. He also has a fight with a bobcat to his credit.

He has been wounded in the groin by a pistol shot and still carries the bullet in his anatomy, shot in the back during a charge on a man who had one eye gouged out, his face sliced open with a knife from the center of his forehead to his chin, his head is a mass of scars inflicted with rocks and bludgeons; in addition he carries the scars of two rattlesnake bites and has been shot in the chest and leg. When he came to fighting for Uncle Sam, he was not there, as he is carried on the records of the local draft board for Klickitat County as a deserter.

HOW TO PREVENT APPENDICITIS

Appendicitis is primarily due to the poisons formed by decaying food in the bowels. It is a disease caused by improper and insufficient bowel elimination. Many people have only a small passage in the center of the bowels while the sides are clogged with old, fermenting matter. They may have a bowel movement every day but it is not a complete movement and the ferment and cause trouble. Besides appendicitis, such unclear bowels cause headaches, stomach trouble and 90 per cent of all other sicknesses. The old food matter sticks to the sides of the bowels often stays in for months, poisoning the body and causing that listless feeling known as "auto intoxication."

HOW TO AVOID TROUBLE The way to avoid sickness and to keep feeling full of ambition is to watch your bowels. Just as you keep the outside of your body clean, you should also KEEP THE INSIDE CLEAN. It is even more important to keep the bowels clean than it is to keep your body washed, because the millions of pores in the thirty feet of bowels quickly absorb poisons generated by decaying food left carelessly in the bowels. Don't allow the old, fermenting, filthy stuff to stay in your bowels for weeks, but GET IT OUT and keep out. Remember, filthy bowels are the cause of most sicknesses—no stomach, liver or any other organ can do its work with a foul cesspool sending out gases and poisons. Even if your bowels move slightly each day, that is not enough. They must be an occasional THOROUGH, complete cleansing to rid your system of all accumulated poisons.
