

UNIVERSITY TO MAIL 5000 TRIAL REPORTS

Evidence in Fullerton Case to Receive Publicity.

UNUSUAL RECORD IS SHOWN

Charge of Immorality at Institution Disproven Before Jury in Label Hearing.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, March 15.—(Special.)—The University of Oregon will begin Monday morning the mailing of 5000 copies of a printed report of the trial of James Fullerton who was convicted last week and is now in the county jail for defaming the good name of the young men and women attending the institution. Such evidence as Mr. Fullerton was able to bring forth to prove his charge that "immorality was rampant" at the university is included in the report, as well as the evidence brought forth by the state, which convinced the jury that Mr. Fullerton's charge was untrue. The verdict of "guilty" was reached on the first ballot.

In answering Mr. Fullerton's charge, the university decided to put down all the cards face-up on the table, and as a result there was shown to the jury the entire moral history of the institution since 1873, the year it was founded. There are more than 1100 students on the campus today and since President Campbell took charge in 1902, between 800 and 900 altogether have been under his jurisdiction. Not all of these have been above human frailty.

Such unfortunate cases as existed were frankly brought forward and laid before the jury and the jury was challenged to consider the university's 46-year record with that of any lodge, any order, any other school, religious or secular, of any church or Sunday school for a like period.

Four Cases Shown. The university showed that there had been only four disciplinary cases of immorality among university men in 17 years and few more in 40 years, and none in 17 years among university women. In the whole 40 years and more, according to Dean John Straub, who came to the campus in 1878, the year the first class graduated, not a single university woman has "gone to the bad" or failed to become a self-respecting citizen or a useful wife and mother.

Not content with a demonstration that positive wrong-doing was at the lowest possible minimum, the university went on in an effort to show that the campus was notable for clean ideals and that the young people lived in a wholesome atmosphere, and also that the institution itself maintained a system of supervision and chaperonage so thorough and so generally respected that the authorities were in a position to know exactly whereof they spoke.

Faculty Advisers Assist. Each student has his faculty adviser as well as his particular dean, both of whom are accountable for his well-being and conduct. Besides this, it was shown that there are class advisers, faculty members attached to the various houses, and a dean of men who has charge over all supervisory work as well as a faculty disciplinary committee with ample means of obtaining information and enforcing obedience.

Each fraternity is a member of a separate national association which sends inspectors to the chapter houses each year to examine into moral well-being as well as scholarship standing. Besides this, there is a well-worked-out system of supervision in the student body itself according to which upperclassmen are responsible for particular underclassmen, and a "head" of each "house" responsible for all within it, both to the faculty and to the student council.

For the men students, also, the Y. M. C. A. employs a paid secretary who devotes all his time to association with students, offering the guidance and advice of an older man. The pastors of the local churches were called to the stand and proved that they, too, were often upon the campus, had their welfare at heart, knew conditions thoroughly and were deserving of a share of the credit for conditions which they characterized as entirely sound and healthful morally.

Women Have Supervisors. Among the girls, it was proved, there is maintained by the institution not only all the supervisory machinery described as existing among the men, but in addition a complete system of chaperonage carried out by qualified women of high standing of the widow of a governor of Oregon, who devote their entire time to the welfare of the girls in their particular "groups."

Each group consists of about 25 girls, and for every girl in the university there is some older woman who is required to know where the girl is and with whom at all hours of the day and night. Over all these "house mothers" is the dean of women, paid by the university, who devotes her entire time to the work. This is also the paid and especially trained secretary of the campus Y. W. C. A.

Not by iron rules or meticulous regulations alone is a fine moral tone to be built up, the university witnesses told the jury, but still other steps are necessary. For clean living to become natural and universal, it is necessary that the body should be healthful and the mind kept busy. Every student has his experience of the benefit of regular vigorous physical exercise under trained direction, and the physical

Catarrhal Deafness and Head Noises

TELLS SAFE AND SIMPLE WAY TO TREAT AND RELIEVE AT HOME.

If you have catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises caused by catarrh, or if phlegm drops in your throat and has caused catarrh of the stomach or bowels you will be glad to know that these distressing symptoms may be entirely overcome in many instances by the following treatment which you can easily prepare in your own home at little cost. Secure from your druggist 1 ounce of E. A. M. I. (Double Strength). Take this home and add to it 1 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar; stir and dissolve. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. An improvement is sometimes noted after the first day's treatment. Breathing should become easy, while the distressing head noises, headaches, dullness, cloudy thinking, etc., should gradually disappear under the tonic action of the treatment. Loss of smell, taste, defective hearing, and mucous droppings in the back of the throat are other symptoms which suggest the presence of catarrh and which may often be overcome by this efficacious treatment. It is said that nearly ninety per cent of all ear troubles are caused by catarrh and there must, therefore, be many people whose hearing may be restored by this simple, harmless, home treatment.—Adv.
