

MOTORCYCLISTS WILL DECIDE TITLE TODAY

Clarence Winger to Defend Northwest Championship.

FRIDAY'S RACES THRILLING

Ray Creviston, World's Champion, to Participate With Especially-Built Machine.

BY RICHARD R. SHARP.
Fans are asking whether Clarence J. Winger of Vancouver, Wash., newly crowned northwest motorcycle racing champion, will retain his title this afternoon on the Rose City speedway.

Winger, unknown to the majority of the racing followers and competing riders, stepped out Friday at the speedway and captured the northwest championship, covering the 15 miles in 13:01. This afternoon marks the second and final day of the annual speed carnival, presented by Fred T. Merrill under the auspices of the Rose City Motorcycle club.

The entire programme of 10 races will be repeated, although different riders may enter the events and new faces spring into the limelight.

World's Champion Falls.
Friday's meet was the best staged affair that has been held on the Rose City speedway. Although a little late in starting, due to weather conditions, every race was run off as billed and there were many thrills in the races for the most hardened fan.

The surprise of the day was the fallure of Ray Creviston, world's champion, to garner any of the calicum. The speed king could not get his eight-valve Indian out in front but may be expected to take his place in front this afternoon. "Dusty" Farnham, former far western champion and one of the most popular riders in the game, did not race Friday, to the disappointment of many, but will try to save his specially-built machine in shape for today.

Parkhurst's Rides Thrill.
"Red" Parkhurst, the eastern demon of the dirt track, put himself in solid with the "paid" customers by his grand riding. Parkhurst is a finished speed "hound" and appeared like a champion in the two races he won Friday, taking both the five-mile and 10-mile open events. Incidentally it might be mentioned that Winger, who won the northwest title, ranked fourth in the five-mile stock race.

Shrimp Burns of Los Angeles, who finished second in four races, proved to be a dare-devil rider and will have to be reckoned with this afternoon. The outstanding performance on Friday was that of R. P. Newman, the young Portland speed star, who took first place in three events, winning the five-mile stock, the 15-mile stock and the 20-mile stock races.

Newman is a comer in the racing game unless a guess is missed. He did his first riding in the Memorial day races at the Rose City speedway last year and won several events. Yesterday he rode like a veteran, negotiating the turns "wide open."

Two Have Hard Luck.
H. D. White, another fast-coming young Portlander, and Harry Brandt, former northwest champion, were the two hard-luck riders Friday who will try to even matters up today. White got off to a good start in two races, but was forced to retire in both, blowing a tire in each instance. He was giving Winger a close race for the northwest title until the 13th lap, when he blew a tire, losing the chance. Brandt suffered engine trouble in all of his times out. He started in the northwest championship event and held the lead for several laps, only to have to give up because of engine trouble.

D. H. Perry, winner of the northwest championship last year, made a great effort to repeat, but failed to place either one, two, three. He will enter again today and try to win back his crown.

Cogburn Places Second.
"Red" Cogburn of regular fame of Seattle, was very much in evidence on Memorial day, riding his special Excelsior. Cogburn placed second to Parkhurst in the five-mile stock race, and third in the northwest championship event. A race meet would not be complete if "Red" Cogburn was not one of the stars.

Although any of the riders failed to set a new record for the mile on the Rose City speedway Friday, several have hopes of lowering the time of 47-2-5 held by Marty Graves, this afternoon. Parkhurst turned off a lap in 48-1-5 seconds in the 10-mile stock race, shattering the record, if the track is in good condition. Ray Creviston, Ed Berth, "Shrimp" Burns and Red Cogburn will also try to lower the best mark.

The first race will start at 3 o'clock and will be the lightweight 5 miles. Following is the complete programme:
Race 1—2 1/2 H. P. lightweight, 5 miles.
Race 2—4 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 3—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 4—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 5—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 6—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 7—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 8—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 9—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.
Race 10—7 H. P. stripped stock, 5 miles.

Right Off the Bat.
Scoring one run in five consecutive games is the record established by the Mackmen this season in two weeks will stand up with any run performance of recent years. On May 8 Bob Shawkey set Connie's team down with one hit and the Yankees won 1 to 0. The Mackmen followed by losing two games in St. Louis, failing to score in either. Then they moved along to Chicago, won a game by the score of 1 to 0, and Cicotte followed by blanking them in the second game. Mack has several good hitters in his daily lineup, but the team was unfortunate in going against five pitchers in as many successive games while all were showing at their best.

Frank Snyder, recently returned from overseas and now here with the Cardinals, is from San Antonio, the town made famous by Dave Crockett and Rosi Young.

Rube Odging is managing the Suffolk club in the Virginia league. He recently got two young pitchers and a catcher from Connie Mack.

The Yankees have had only three batters this spring. Sam Vick posed two and Ping Bodie the other one.

Walter Alexander, formerly of the Yankees, is catching for the Beaumont club of the Texas league.

Elmer Miller's heavy hitting and fine fielding are helping to keep the St. Paul club at the top in the American association race.

Tin Hendrix is hitting close to the 400 mark after 17 games with the Louisville club of the American association.

Elmer Smith is Cleveland's leading

WALKER KNOCKS OUT NEWTON

Garlock's School Stages Memorial Day Bouts at Independence.

At a smoker held in Independence, Or., Memorial day for the benefit of the Oregon national guard, Henry Walker of Garlock's Physical Training school, knocked out Buck Newton in the first round. Bert Taylor, also of Garlock's school, fought a three-round draw with Chick Newall in the semi-final.

Garlock has three promising boys in the course and see that none of the youngsters is an ardent supporter of the youngsters and is anxious to have a large number of entries in the race. This is the only time that the boys can skate in the downtown district and he says many of them ought to take advantage of this. The streets on the course are very smooth and level and afford very fine skating.

ALL-STARS DEFEAT ARTISANS

Clark and Hunter Feature Game by Heavy Hitting.

Emil Tauscher's Liberty Artisans went down to defeat at the hands of "Sailor" Charlie Leonard's scrapping "All-Stars" to the tune of 15 to 13, Friday afternoon. The game was featured by the heavy hitting of Clark and Hunter, of the All-Stars, and sen sational fielding by infielders Klein and Garbarino.

The game was the second of a three-game series between the two teams, the first game being a 3 to 2 tie, called on account of darkness.

Batteries—Artisans: Tuma, Joseph and Johnson; All-Stars: Hunter, Gallagher and Clark.

BOYS BUILT UP INTO MEN

WAR TRAINING CAMP ACTIVITIES TASK WELL DONE.

Work Now Done in Convalescent Centers Restoring Wounded to Health Equally Important.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(Special.)—Head of the largest athletic programme the world has ever known, director of the largest coaching staff ever gathered under one head, leader in giving wounded men in the convalescent centers work which helped them to regain normal life, Dr. Joseph E. Roycroft, chairman of the athletic division, war department commission on training camp activities, completes two years in this service while returning to the United States from abroad. May 19, 1917, the commission ordered him to "go ahead" with the athletic programme he had outlined at the second meeting of the organization headed by Raymond B. Fosdick. On May 18, 1918, he was on the George Washington, returning from Europe after seeing the programme for which he was responsible carried to completion along the distant shores of the Rhine.

Between the dates, two years apart, he gathered together a staff of head coaches and instructors, numbering 108 men, and through these, the hand-to-hand fighting and with the bayonet instructor, many of whom were from the allied armies to co-ordinate the bayonet fighting. The college athletes, men who had learned the fundamental lessons of body building in their sports, were the backbone of this teaching staff. They were assigned to the schools of the athletic director, the boxing instructor, and the hand-to-hand fighting instructor, by the hundreds and in some of the camps this corps of special teachers numbered as high as 1000 men.

Adams of Minnesota, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2, and Westbrook and N. B. Barts Jr. defeated Adams and Henry W. Norton, Minnesota, 6-4, 7-5, 6-4.

BIG SCHOOLS TANGLE IN RIVALRY FOR TUCK

Oregon Aggies Accuse Oregon
With Improper Methods.

CHARGE STIRS CONFERENCE

Corvallis School Alleges Redmond
Boy Offered $1200-a-Year Job
to Go to Eugene Institution.

SEATTLE, May 31.—(Special.)—Arthur Tuck, sensational high school athlete of Redmond, Or., was the storm center of yesterday's meeting of the Pacific coast intercollegiate conference, according to information that has just become public. The discussion centered around charges made by representatives of Oregon Agricultural college that improper methods were being used to induce Tuck to attend the University of Oregon.

According to the complaint made by Oregon Agricultural college, an automobile firm in Eugene is alleged to have offered Tuck $1200 a year to work for it. The Corvallis representatives maintain that this offer is inspired altogether by a desire to get Tuck to the university, where he would doubtless star in athletics. It is understood that the position was to be open the first of the school year and that Tuck was to be allowed plenty of time for his school work and athletics. The Oregon Agricultural college men even allege that the offer was conveyed to Tuck through university students.

Complaint Long Considered.
The greater part of the time at the conference meeting was spent in discussing the Oregon Agricultural college complaint. Finally, Dean Carpenter, president of the conference, was delegated to make an investigation. A direct result of the Tuck rumormongering was the conference's action not to allow any member institution to conduct a promotion or invite to be held on its grounds any intercollegiate conference. Such contests have been a regular feature at the colleges and have led to competition for promising athletes, even before they have completed their high school courses.

The stir over Tuck at the conference meet does not come as a surprise in Portland, as it has been known here that the colleges were a rough-and-tumble contest to win the attendance of the Redmond marvel, who is probably the most promising athlete ever developed in Oregon. Eugene and Corvallis institutions have been hot on his trail, while some of the smaller institutions have also been after him. It is understood that Tuck himself has been partial to the university. John Tuck, his father, is quoted as preferring the agricultural college, while Tuck's mother is said to prefer a denominational college, specifically, Willamette.

Besides the offer from the automobile firm Roy Cramer, graduate manager of athletics at Corvallis, said before he went to Seattle that Oregon had violated the scouting rule in its efforts to land Tuck. On May 17, the day that Oregon and Washington clashed in their field meet at Eugene, Bill Hayward, noted trainer of the Eugene team, was not present at the meet. Instead it is said by Cramer that the day at the tri-county field meet at Madras in central Oregon. It took a fairly strong counter attraction to induce Hayward to absent himself from the big meet, and that attraction is said to be Tuck, who participated at Madras that day, winning about everything in sight.

Father Tells of Offer.
It is said that Oregon Agricultural college learned of the automobile firm's offer through one of its teachers who delivered an address at Redmond a few days ago. John Tuck, the father, told the Corvallis professor of the offer, being quite innocent of its nature, and, if made as an inducement to an athlete, does not conform to the rules of the college conference.

The professor immediately brought back the word to Oregon Agricultural college which caused Dr. A. D. Browne, physical director at Corvallis and secretary of the Pacific coast intercollegiate conference, to telegraph Mr. Tuck advising him to telegraph him, in his capacity as secretary, giving him the details so that the offer would be presented to the delegates at the Seattle meeting to ascertain whether or not it was a violation of the rules. It would bar him from participating in conference competition.

Instead of answering the telegram, John Tuck, who is expected to leave Eugene where he arrived Wednesday, spending all of the afternoon and evening closeted with Bill Hayward. He left Seattle at 1:40 P. M. Thursday for Corvallis, where he was shown all departments of that school, and arrived in Portland Thursday night accompanied by Professor W. L. Powers of the soils and farm management department, and Graduate Manager Cramer.

Details Are Telegraphed.
No reply was sent to Dr. Browne until the Oregonian train reached Salem, when according to Manager Cramer, Mr. Tuck telegraphed Dr. Browne all details of the alleged offer. This was brought before the Seattle meeting.

Members of the Sigma Nu fraternity had charge of Mr. Tuck while he was in Eugene. This fraternity, it is asserted, worked hard for the boy after he electrified the athletic world by winning seven firsts and one second place in the intercollegiate championships at Eugene.

Oregon Agricultural college also has been making a spirited fight for Tuck, according to reports. Phi Delta Theta of Corvallis has been on his trail much, as has Sigma Nu at Eugene. It is declared, Tuck visited Eugene about 10 days ago, to look into the advantages of attending the university. Oregon Agricultural college men heard of the trip and, according to Roy Keene, manager of the Oregon Agricultural college baseball team, the Corvallis students tried to intercept Tuck en route and change his destination to Corvallis.

O. S. Vedder Will Attend Meeting to Fix Portland Show Dates.

O. S. Vedder, western representative of the American Kennel Club, is in the city for an extended visit. The meeting of the Portland Kennel club, which was to have been held last Tuesday night, was postponed until early this week in order that Vedder might attend.

The dates for the two big shows to be held this season will be decided at the meeting. One show will be held early in July and the second later in the summer. With dogs entered from all parts of the coast, both shows promise to be successful. The first show will be held will be a one-day bench show only.

KANSAS AGGIES WIN MEET

MISSOURI IS NOSED OUT BY TWO POINTS.

Discus Throw of 128 Feet 6 1/2 Inches Is New Record for Missouri Valley Conference.

AMES, Ia., May 31.—The Kansas Agricultural college won the twelfth annual Missouri Valley conference track meet today, scoring 23 1/2 points, two points more than the total of Missouri university, winner of six of the last seven meets. Grinnell tied with Iowa state for third, each getting 21 points. Nebraska, 13 1/2; Kansas, 13 1/2; American School of Osteopathy, 10; Simpson, 9 1/2; Drake, 7 1/2; Des Moines, 5; and Southern state normal, 4, were other teams scoring.

Only one record was broken, a strong wind offsetting a fast track. Bohm of the American School of Osteopathy set a new mark by throwing the discus 128 feet 6 1/2 inches, beating the old record of 125 feet 10 1/2 inches, held by Thatcher of Missouri.

Summary:

NATIONAL SHOOT TO BE HELD

Navy Department to Test Rifle Skill; Three Stages Given.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Details of the big national marksmanship competition to be held at the navy rifle range, Caldwel, N. J., next summer under auspices of the navy department, wherein rifle and pistol shots from all parts of the country will decide small arms championships, have been made public. The matches will begin on August 25.

The test of skill with the rifle, as characterized by the national individual match and national team match, calls for the firing of 60 shots with United States rifle, a mode of 1905, using ammunition furnished by the government. The contests are divided into three stages.

In the first stage each contestant will shoot 20 shots rapid fire, on the B-target, upon which the bullseye measures 20 inches at a distance of 200 yards. Ten shots will be fired from the kneeling and from the standing position and a like number of shots from the kneeling or sitting or squatting from standing position. Each string of ten shots must be fired in one minute.

The second stage of the match calls for slow-fire at 600 yards on the B-target. Twenty shots will be fired in one string of ten shots, prone position, a second string of five shots kneeling, and a third string of five shots sitting or squatting in order named. Sighting shots are not permitted.

The third stage calls for 20 shots slow-fire at 1000 yards—the long-range test—on target C, the bullseye of which is 36 inches.
