HURLERS ENGAGE IN DUEL

Jack Bromley of Yipper Aggregation Has Advantage Over Jones, Holding Locals Safe.

kland—Sacramento 3, Portland 2, Angeles—Vernon 7, Oakland 2, Francisco—Los Angeles 4, San 2, -Salt Lake 6, Seattle 4,

BY HARRY M. GRAYSON. When Umpire Bill Guthrie, in his high falsetto voice, which sounds like the notes of a split reed, ruled Harry Wolter safe at second base in the eighth inning of yesterday afternoon's baseball matines it may be said that marked the first defeat for Carroll Jones on the local lot. ... It was another pitching duel between

Jones and Southpaw Jack Bromley, with the honors going to the Yipper. Bromley allowed four hits—remarkable when you take into consideration the manner in which Portland has been hitting. Bromley became a prohibition of the property of the promise when it can be promised when it can be presented in the promise when it can be presented in the presented in the promise when it can be presented in the presented in st when it came to permitting safe hits after the Beavers registered their brace of tallies in the third and only two of McCredie's hirelings reached the key-stone following the lone Portland trench raid. Bromley whiffed five, but Pinelli Makes Hit.

Pinelli's first hit of the week—a slow roller to Rader, which Ralph beat, Rader's error, Bromley's sacrifice, and doubles for Fisher and McGaffigan resulted in two runs and tied the count in the fifth.

the "break" of the game went against the Beavers, for Wolter scored a moment later on Art Griggs' slashing single over second with what proved to be the winning run. Final score, Sacramento 3, Portland 2.

It gave Bill Rodgers his first victory of the week and stopped the Beavers' winning streak, for, let it be related, that they had captured five in a row prior to yesterday. That decision marked the first defeat for Carroll

WALKER WILL RETIRE

Successor at University of Oregon Is Not Selected.

BASKETBALL FIVE ELECTS

Herman Lind of Portland Is Named Captain of Team for Next Year. Fowler Is 1919 Captain.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, EUGENE, June 7.—(Special)—Dean H. Walker, present graduate manager of the University of Oregon student body will not be a candidate for re-election according to a report which he has sanctioned as correct. The athletic council, which has the power to select the graduate manager, has not picked his successor, although the cour held several meetings during the last ten days. Mr. Walker has served as graduate manager during the present college year, succeeding A. R. Tiffany late last spring.

There are several men who are con sidered as possibilities for the vacancy Don Orput, graduate of the university in 1915, and later instructor at the Washington high school in Portland and at present serving as assistant to Mr. Walker, has been suggested. James Sheehy and Carl Nelson have been mentioned, but according to Mr. Walker, will not enter the race During the year that he has served During the year that he has served as graduate manager, Mr. Walker has put over the state basketball champlonship track meet. Mr. Walker says that his term as graduate manager was a "war time measure" and now that the war is over he does not expect to continue in office. It is thought that he will continue on the faculty as instructor in the physical education department.

Jones Allows Eight Hits.

Jones gave eight hits, but should not have been scored on, save in the fifth when Sacramento carned two runs by hunching hits. The big right-hander from Hughey Jennings' stable walked but one man—Wolter, who scored the winning run aided by Umpire Guthrie's explained in the foregoing.

Sweep On, W. R. Coc's 3-Year-Old and elected Herman Lind, of Portland, captain of the team for next year. No captain had been previously selected for the team of 1919 so at the same meeting Ned Fowler was selected for this position. Lind is a letter man in two sports, baseball and basketball. During the season of 1918 he was one of the substitutes on the varsity won the classic suburban at one mile was $5200 and the gelding, after a driving finish all through the final fur-whining run aided by Umpire Guthrie's decision and the base knock of Griggs explained in the foregoing.

Manager McCredic has one consolation. Joues, incapacitated since the San Prancisco series with an injury to the little finger of his pitching hand, displayed fine form and proved that he is ready once more to take his turn an the hillock.

With the count two and two in the eighth, Jones issued his lone pags to Wolter who led off for the southerners. Then came the "break". Brick Eldred hit to Lew Blue who threw to Don Radar in an effort to force Wolter out at the keystone. The throw might have been a little wide, for Umpire Guthrie roled Wolter safe which would indicate that Blue's toss pulled Rader's foot off the sack.

Rader loudly protested and Blue was greatly enraged, but it did no good Griggs smashed one over Siglin's head, wolter counting, and the game was lost.
