BY HARRY M. GRAYSON.

Casey Smith, savage Apache who registers from Healdsburg, Cal., made Portland look as sad as the wind that sighs through the fir trees yesterday afternoon, and San Francisco copped for the first time this week. Final score, Seals 6, Beavers 2.

Up until the ninth, when he eased up, the Bear state aborigine permitted nary a run to trickle across the rubber, being exceedingly tight in the pinches. Some of the home town crew came to the conclusion that Casey Jones Smith was shooting bullets instead of dishing up the stitched Reach. The Apache obtained sweet revenge for the 8-to-2 licking he had taken on Tuesday.

Exactly 2948 rabid Beaver boosters were out to enjoy the sunny afternoon and pulled to the last minute for the Mackmen, who, up until yesterday's setback, had the southerners on the run. Many of the fair sex watched the bronzed 25-year-old chief from Healdsburg win his first game on the local lot. Casey twirled three or four games for the Seals here in 1917 and always took a trouncing as he did on Tuesday.

Oldham Is Inconsistent.

Lieutenant John C. Oldham, famed red-head, who, up to yesterday's scrimmage, had won four straight, was as inconsistent as the sharpest antithesis, for in six of the nine innings he fed the slipping Seals a brand of pitching food hard to digest, but in the other three namely, the fifth, eighth and ninth, Charley Graham's hired men did nothing but smite the pellet and run like a bunch of track stars.

Outside of Smith no one save Maurice Schick, center fielder for the enemy, shone especially. The former Angel played hog in the swatting line, gathering five hits out of as many times up. It was this husky chap's third single of the matinee that chased Jimmy Caveney and Willie Kamm over the top for the first brace of Seal Rocks City runs in the fifth.

Schick scored Graham's third run in the eighth when he beat out his fourth hit, a slow bounder to Don Rader who tried to throw the ball into the right field bleachers, Schick pulling up at second from where he went to the difficult corner on Justin Fitzgerald's bingle and tallied when he beat Siglin's throw to the plate, after the Beaver field chief had fielded Herbie Hunter's tantilizing bounder.

Schick Puts It on Ice.

Schick's fifth single helped put the game on ice for the visitors in the ninth. Caveney singled and went to second when Lew Blue let Oldham's throw slip through his paws. Kamm and Baldwin singled, Caveney scoring. Smith forced Baldwin but Schick singled past third scoring Kamm. Fitz forced Schick, but Smith and Justin pulled off a double steal, the pitcher adding the third marker.

Portland tried hard to stage a comeback in the eighth when Speas singled as first man up and Dixie Walker doubled, putting Billy on the torrid bag. That's as far as it went, however, for Siglin, Art Koehler and Delmar Baker, batting for Sailor Richard Cox, were easy outs. Jack Farmer finished in right field.

With nothing to worry about, Smith loafed long enough in the ninth to permit the brace of McCredie runs. A walk to Rader, singles by Oldham and Blue and Tex Wisterzil's sacrifice fly, did the work. With Blue on the keystone Speas lined to Karl Crandall, who touched second for the third double play of the day, ending the contest.

Carroll Jones, for us, is due to oppose Long Tom Seaton this afternoon. The battle begins at 2:30 o'clock. The score:
