

AUSTRALIAN TREATY IS STILL HANGING FIRE

Pact Cannot Be Finished for Some Days Yet.

NEW PROBLEM CONSIDERED

Little Five Now Much Concerned Over Bolshevik Hungary—Turkey Also Serious Problem.

BY LINCOLN EYRE.
(Copyright by the New York World. Published by arrangement.)
PARIS, July 19.—(Special Cable.)—The tendency to drive, which is never far away from the councils of the little five, has set in again with a vengeance at the Quai d'Orsay. It was believed by the American delegation that the Austro-Hungarian treaty would be finished today, but that document still hangs fire, and it certainly will not reach Dr. Renner, the Austrian plenipotentiary, before next week.

Neither the statesmen nor the military men can make up their minds what to do regarding Bolshevik Hungary. Russia is held up until the views of President Wilson can be flashed from Washington. Proposed plans will be blocked if he disapproves, for no matter how much the British and French may approve of a given policy, there can be no action except as an inter-allied measure.

As for Turkey and the complex mosaic in Asia Minor, several months are likely to pass before even the groundwork for settlement can be laid. With the best will in the world the allies must keep Turkey in suspense until the position of the United States shall be defined in respect to the query whether the American government will consent to administer Armenia, Constantinople or other parts of the ex-Ottoman empire, under the league of nations, or until the American senate shall reject the treaty. Even ratification of the treaty by the senate does not imply acceptance of the mandatory over Turkish provinces. As an American diplomat put it today, Turkey may still be awaiting her fate when Thanksgiving comes around again.

The little five got a rude jolt today when the matter of repatriating Germany's Russian prisoners of war was laid before them. Since the armistice these helpless soldiers have been fed and clothed at the expense of the allies. As there are 240,000 of them, the expense is heavy and cannot be borne indefinitely. It is supposed the majority of them have been shipped and so it would be unwise to ship them back into Russia to reinforce Trotsky's red army.

ARMY CHAPLAIN WHO ACHIEVED DISTINCTION IN WAR SERVICE RETURNS FROM FRANCE.

MAJOR THOMAS J. DICKSON.

CHAPLAIN IGNORES PERIL

MAJOR THOMAS J. DICKSON HAS RARE WAR RECORD.

Soldier Dead in His Division Given Honorable Burial Regardless of Shellfire of Teutons.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Major Thomas J. Dickson, senior combat chaplain on the American front in the great world war, arrived this week on the United States steamer Mount Vernon. He went to France two years ago as chaplain of the 8th field artillery, which division fired the first shot. He wears all the battle stars of the immortal 1st division. He also served with nine other divisions.

Major Dickson lost three orders at the front. He had his horses shot five different times and was twice ordered off the battle field on account of the great danger to which he was voluntarily exposing himself. Three times he was officially offered relief from the front and declined it. He remained at the front until the last shot was fired and crossed the Rhine with the first American troops. He ran a machine gun during the battle of Verdun.

Major Dickson was cited in general orders for distinguished conduct in exposing himself to heavy shell fire in burying the dead during battle. He disregarded his personal safety and insisted on rendering his dead every hour possible.

Chaplain Dickson conducted almost daily funerals for months. The French would bring great masses of flowers and render every honor possible. One private had the same military honors as a colonel and the dead usually placed to rest in great numbers of flowers. American soldiers were deeply moved by the sympathetic regard of the French soldiers and civilians. They were usually present in great numbers and almost daily expressed their gratitude and sympathy in music, songs and flowers.

Major Dickson has been assigned to Mount Angel college, returned yesterday from a trip to St. Louis and Chicago. He left the college in June and attended the national education meeting held in St. Louis. After spending a week in St. Louis he left to attend the first United States Benedictine meeting, which was held in Chicago.

Mount Angel college for the past two years. He said he believed that Mount Angel college will have a record-breaking attendance during the coming year.

The president of the college was proud of surface water, the improvement made in the college library.

COOS EXPECTS NEW MILL

Eastern Men Visit Timber Lands Near Marshfield.

MARSHFIELD, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—The visit of several large eastern timber holders, who own property on Coos river, has started rumors of a new sawmill to be located somewhere on Coos bay. The timbermen, Isaac Lincoln of Aberdeen, S. D., C. P. Fioette, C. E. Lennan and J. C. Hill, from the middle west, while here inspected some of their holdings for sites for logging camps and delivery systems.

The boom in lumber demand, according to one of the visitors, is sufficient encouragement to owners of standing timber to consider operating.

REGENTS AT GRANTS PASS

PARTY ON INSPECTION TRIP REACHES SOUTHERN CITY.

GRANTS PASS, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—Producers of Oregon Agricultural college, Walter M. Pierce and wife, La Grande; Jefferson Myers and wife, Portland; George M. Cornwall, published of the Timberman, and Mrs. Cornwall, Portland; J. K. Weatherford and wife, Albany, and Addison Bennett were in the city today. They represent the boards of regents of Oregon Agricultural college, and are just completing a trip of inspection of the seven experimental stations in the state, and have already traveled about 1200 miles.

They speak very highly of the work of Dr. Reimer at the Talent station, which has been of much value to the pear growers. Dr. Reimer had expected to leave today for San Francisco on a China on an investigation trip, but was unable to do so, as his passports had not arrived.

Mr. Cornwall, in commenting on the forest fire situation, said he telegraphed to H. S. Graves, head of the United States forestry department, requesting that he ask the war department for troops to be used in helping to extinguish the forest fires in Idaho and Montana as was done with such success a few years ago.

DEFINITIONS IN LONDON MARK ERA OF PEACE

Britons and Allies March in Triumphant Victory Parade.

U. S. BOYS LEAD PROCESSION

Prayers Are Said in Every Town and City of Dominions for Fallen Heroes of World War.

LONDON, July 19.—(By the Associated Press.)—Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig was taken ill and had to be removed to his home in Kingston in an automobile after the victory parade today. Many had noticed that Field Marshal Haig looked ill while riding at the head of his men.

LONDON, July 19.—Land, sea and air forces of the British empire and her allies were represented today in the triumphal victory parade to mark the return of peace.

Several million persons watched the gorgeous spectacle. When the British contingents came in sight the applause became a great roar, above which could be heard at times the shrill voices of women. The patriotic fervor had its climax in the great demonstration along Pall Mall and about the pavilion before Buckingham palace, where King George, Queen Mary, Premier Lloyd George, the cabinet ministers, the American ambassador, John W. Davis, and other diplomats reviewed the parade.

Jubilee Greatest Since 1867.
General Pershing, leading the American forces, was given a hearty reception. So also was Marshal Foch and the French and the other allied leaders and their contingents.

London has not witnessed such a celebration since the late Queen Victoria's diamond jubilee in 1897. Buckingham palace was decorated on its exterior for the first time in its history. Huge flags of the allies floated from the upper windows and a wide streamer of purple and gold stretched across the facade. The royal pavilion, erected close to the Victoria memorial monument, added color to the striking scene.

King George, from his seat on the scarlet dais, had a clear view through a colonnade of ornate white pylons reaching for more than a half mile to the admiralty arch. The troops marched past the reviewing stand to the music of dozens of military bands.

The Americans led the procession. It was 12:30 when they came marching with spry step and smart precision. As the Americans approached the stand King George and others, including Queen Mary, the aged queen mother, Alexandria, and Princess Mary, arose. The king, in the uniform of a field marshal, kept his hand to his visor in rigid salute until General Pershing, sitting on his horse like a cavalryman, had passed. The American troops were compliments on their formation. The bayonets of many were decorated with flowers and Union Jacks.

General Pershing dismounted 100 yards beyond the king's stand and returned to it, where he was greeted by all. He stood with King George during the remainder of the review.

Peace was celebrated today, not only in London, but in every part of the vast dominions over which floats the Union Jack.

Everywhere the returned heroes of the war were honored. Those who did not return from the battlefields, however, were not forgotten. In every town and city there were prayers for the fallen.

HOOD PROTEST MAY FAIL

Cascade Avenue Site Picked for New Postoffice.

HOOD RIVER, Or., July 19.—(Special.)—Although the protest of business men in practically unanimous against use of the Cascade-avenue site for a new postoffice home, the opposition may be unavailing, according to a telegram received by representatives of the representative Sinnott. Mr. Sinnott, whose assistance was sought by telegrams from merchants, visited the first postmaster-general, who learned that a bid from C. A. Cass, who offered to erect a new office home, had already been accepted. The proposed site, Mr. Sinnott telegraphed, had approval of a postoffice inspector and Postmaster Reavis is quoted as stating that it is a desirable site.

Mr. Reavis, who has been severely criticized following the Sinnott message, however, denies having made any recommendation of the site.
