POLITICAL UPHEAVAL FORESEEN IN IDAHO

Party Realignments Expected if Railway Men Win Demand.

PRIVATE CONTROL FAVORED

Statesmen Say Liberal-Conservative Lines Will Absorb All Politics Unless Food Price Is Reduced.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 9 .- (Special.)-Political leaders in Idaho have their BOTTLES CONCEALED IN CAVE eyes on Washington now because of the possibility of a turn in the political tide, occasioned by the railroad brother-hoods demand for tripartite control of Fish Boat Crew at Sand Beach Un-the railroads.

If such a plan should succeed, Idaho politicians declare they can see the passing of the two old parties and the bringing into existence of new realignments that eventually may create the conservatives and liberals—parties not unlike the democrat and republican, but with decidedly different views. They do not like the socialistic trend of things national and assert that the nation may be forced to divide into different camps, bringing republicans and democrats under the banner of both liberal and conservative.

Federal Ownership Doubted. If tripartite control of the railroads, representing an investment of $21,000,000,000 can be accomplished, Idaho statesmen believe the principle can be extended to other big business which as public men of this state, do not be-lieve that it is possible to put the pro-gramme of government ownership of railroads through. However, they are closely watching Washington for de-

It is admitted by them that the prof-Iteering and the steady rise in the cost of all necessities of life has brought about an unrest in this country which must be met with the most constructive legislation that congress has been called upon to enact for many years.

Huge Profits Are Blamed. They also admit that to a great extent the discrimination in railroad rates, the making of great profits which have been divided among the few and other practices which have been just as serious, is responsible for the demand for government ownership.

It is their opinion the united brother-hoods of railroad employes would have placed themselves in a stronger po-sition if they had indorsed the Sims government ownership of railroads instend of going farther and asking tri-of Eugene.

As a lad Harvey ran away from home and entered the sea service at Mare Island. This was some time before the beginning of the European war. The boy rose rapidly in the navy and Uncle Sam gave him two years of study in San Francisco. Uncle Sam will also help him finish his education at the University of Oregon.

At the outbreak of the war with Germany Hayden was an experienced seaman. He was attached to the United States ship Olympik and made many a

States ship Olympia and made many a cruise through the submarine-infested waters. By means of short furloughs Hayden managed to visit various parts of Europe and Asia that the average sailor knows little about. The lad from Oregon spent some time in Dalmatia among the turbulent Jugo-

Slave and made the acquaintance of the people who started the trouble in Eprope. He also was in Italy. As for Russia and Siberia, he visited remote parts of those nations and was on both Pacific and Atlantic coasts. He visited Archangel as well as Vladivostok. From Russia he procured some rare, antique and valuable jewelry.

Mrs. Wheeler has known Harvey since he was a youngster. Upon the recent visit the two had a good laugh at the way in which a letter written by Mrs. Wheeler followed the boy for many months around the world. Harvey was supposed to be in Dalmatia many months around the world. Harvey was supposed to be in Dalmatia when the missive in question was started on its tour, but when it reached Spaliato the boy had gone into Russia, thence to England, France and Spain on many a long cruise, Since Hayden's return to Eugene the letter, curiously postmarked and annotated by officials in widely remote countries, turned up at Brownsville, and Mrs. Wheeler had the opportunity of handing it to him personally.

CANNERIES AT ROGUE RIVER MOUTH SPOIL SPORT.

If Special Session of Legislature Is Called Medford Men Will Ask Action.

MEDFORD, Or., Aug. 9 .- (Special.)-Thus far steelhead fishing in Rogue river has been the poorest on record unanimous in blaming the fish canneries at the mouth of the stream. Dozens of local fishermen testify that the steelheads caught in many cases are marked by net cuts, and there is vehement demand for action. Letters of protest have been sent Roderick Macleay, owner of the canneries at the mouth of Rogue river; Governor Olcott and the state fish and game commission sion. The majority of fishermen are in favor of initiating a constitutional amendment which will make fishing with anything but hook and line at the mouths of the Rogue and Willamette rivers illegal, and believe that such a measure would pass by a large majority. A bill restricting the mesh of seining nets was passed at the last session of the legislature, but was vetoed by Governor Withycombe shortly before his death.

Local fishermen believe trout fishing should be protected and they main-ing should be protected and they main-tain steelhead trout will soon disappear from the Rogue river unless salmon canneries at the mouth are eliminated. If a special session of the legislature should be called the delegations from
