THE social whirl of entertaining which filled the weeks of June and early July with a round of parties for brides-elect has entirely ceased and out-of-town visitors and a very few brides now form the only motif for entertaining, all of which is informal. Benefits for the art educational work of the Arts and Crafts society and the University of Oregon women's building fund continue in popularity, but aside from teas and lawn parties for these causes, everything is small and for only a few close friends.

The younger set still enjoy swimming and supper parties and an occasional small dancing party. Miss Rosetta Klockner of Port Townsend, Wash., has been a much-feted guest among her former classmates at Portland academy and many parties have been given also for Miss Helen Richards of Tacoma.

Nearly all of Portland's society folk are away at the mountains or the beaches, where they are entertaining for their guests with charming house parties at their summer homes.

A few weddings are scheduled for this week, Tuesday evening to be the most popular day and informal affairs have been given for the brides-elect, all of whom will leave to make their homes in other cities.

Many young persons are leaving this week to enter the University of California and little parties have been given in their honor by their many school friends.

The fifth of the series of the Arts and Crafts society's teas will be given Tuesday at the studio of Mrs. Ferdinand Smith on the Barnes road. Mrs. Charles F. McCullough will be hostess and presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. Edwin Caswell and Mrs. Charles E. Wolverson. Assisting about the rooms will be Mrs. Dorothy Sanford, Mrs. Herman Bohman, Mrs. Allan M. Ellsworth, Miss Dorothy Sanford, Miss Lois Macy, Miss Dorothy Parsons and Barbara Lull. Representative members of the Association of Collegiate Alumnae, the Professional Woman's League and the Wednesday morning art class are among those who are assisting Mrs. McCullough.

An exhibition of rare fillet lace and embroidery from Belgium will be on display if it is possible to obtain them. If these are not shown, some other choice art work will be in the exhibit. The teas are being given for the art educational work of the society and increased so in popularity that they were continued throughout August.

The studio offers a charming place for afternoon tea and many women take their guests there to meet congenial friends and enjoy the exhibits and a chat over the tea cups.

An exhibit of quaint, historic quilts proved of great interest at the tea last Tuesday. The quilts of grandmothers' and great-grandmothers' days, collected by Mrs. Ralph W. Wilbur, formed an attractive display. In the collection were many heirlooms, the oldest quilt being 150 years old. Another dated back 130 years and the exhibit included some of the more modern work.

Charming out-of-town visitors the past week have been Miss Margaret James of Los Angeles and Mrs. William Thornton White of Oakland. Miss "Kamp Kathona," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McEachern, was the scene of a motoring party on Sunday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Morrell, Mrs. Newell, Mrs. William A. Mullen, Miss Alma Haines, Miss Sue Truby, Miss Ona McEachern, Otto Hartman, Joseph McEachern, James Morrell, Judge Morrell and the hosts.

Fur Coats Are More Than Popular

It is quite unheard of to have a great demand for fur coats with summer days still here—but such is the case this season. Both short and long fur coats are selling now. Belted models with a wide flare as well as butterfly cape effects and great rolling collars. French seal, muskrat and marmot await your early choice. A small deposit will hold the coat you select until you wish to complete the purchase.

Time to Think of the Fall Hat

How could one fail to be reminded with all the chic little styles that are bobbing into view these days? Here you will find new ideas in the use of ostrich as well as beaver novelties in tailored and dress hats. "Mayme Taylor" is the name given to a Frenchy tailored street hat—it is decidedly smart.

A Suggestion for Economy Frocks of Taffeta and Georgette $32.50 and $35.00

They are gray, brown, navy and black in color—and as cleverly styled as you could wish. Just girlish little creations—with all the tiny ruffles, tucks and frills desired. If you wish something for informal wear for fall don't overlook these inexpensive frocks.
