

GREAT BREAKERS AT BEACHES PROVIDE FUN FOR CROWDS

Portland Vacationists at Seaside Resorts Enjoy Frolicking in Big Waves or Outings at Night on Sands Beside Roaring Seas, and Social Affairs Are Numerous.

Three Little Sails

Reunion of The Women's Relief Corps at a Rockaway Cottage

A Big Catch at Newport

GEARHART, Or., Aug. 9.—(Special.)—Gearhart's cluster of silver-gray summer homes are filled with summer people, bent on enjoying the beach life. A pleasing informality characterizes life at the resort; proving a welcome change from the city. Now that war activities are no longer claiming the nights and days, cottagers have relaxed to do nothing or to entertain. They see fit to waste time if they like—in any event to live in rather off-hand manner, unbothered by too many social demands.

Women who have worked so faithfully for the past two years in Red Cross and relief work seem to appreciate the present relief vacation.

There are small bridge parties and little luncheons, sometimes a supper on the beach, golf, horseback rides through the woods, often a long hike, motor trips, big bonfires or an occasional dance, but in all things there is the spirit of relaxation. Many young men and boys who have been released from the army and navy are at the coast to enjoy vacation before taking up civilian duties. Old friends who were different branches of the service kept them apart for many months are renewing friendships with real pleasure.

Although many left the coast at the end of July, others have come to take their places, so that the beach is well peopled with Portland and other visitors. There are many Astorians who come to the seashore for the week-end, for the drive by motor is easily made in an hour over splendid roads. Seattle, Walla Walla, and other Washington cities send their guests to both Gearhart and Seaside. There are many people who are making the round of all the Oregon beaches this summer, spending a few days at each.

Inland states are also well represented at Oregon coast resorts this season.

Mr. and Mrs. John Latta have joined the throng of summer cottagers at Gearhart.

Dr. and Mrs. Charles Ulysses Moore and children, Katherine and Balcum, were recent visitors at Ocean Home Farm.

The MacGregor house at Gearhart is the season shelter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Starr and two sons.

Miss Louise Hoyt is the guest of Mrs. Walter Cook for a fortnight. Miss Lucille Millard arrived Saturday to visit at the attractive Cook home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Labbe recently visited at Ocean Home Farm, where Elizabeth and Marguerite Labbe are spending the summer. Little Miss Elizabeth celebrated her birthday anniversary with a merry party, at which the children of Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett, Mrs. Elliott Corbett, Henry Labbe and Mrs. Miller were guests. The table was decked with gay favors, a big birthday cake and other dainties.

A trip to McGowan Beach, was enjoyed by Mrs. Walter Cook, Miss Mal Hirsch and Miss Mabel Beck. They were entertained at luncheon by Mrs. H. S. McGowan.

For the benefit of St. Margaret chapel at Gearhart, a silver tea was given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. P. J. Cronin. Prominent women of Seaside and Gearhart attended the affair.

Among those who spent the week-end at Gearhart were Kurt Koehler and Holt Cookingham. Mrs. Koehler and Mrs. Cookingham are numbered among the summer cottage folk.

Miss Eleanor Dittenhoefer is hostess at a dancing party at the L. Lang home. A number of the younger set were invited to attend the enjoyable affair.

Miss Jane Talbot has as her guest Miss Mary Corbett. The Talbots are spending the entire season at the beach.

Mrs. Charles Whitley of Salt Lake has returned to the beach after a sojourn in Portland. Miss Darlene Kimball was her guest.

Among the summer cottage folk at the beach is George Gordon Forbes.

C. Edward Grelle and James Henry Skuse spent a fortnight at the Cronin cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKay are guests of the Grelles for a short time.

Harper Skuse of Spokane is sojourning at Gearhart at the Cronin cottage, where Mrs. Skuse has been for the past few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Robertson and children are housed in a cottage at Gearhart.

Miss Dorothy Povey has as her guest this summer Miss Nora Habcock.

The summer months are being enjoyed at Gearhart by Mrs. Glenn Kibbey and daughter, Marjorie.

Miss Mary O'Donnell of Portland was entertained for several days by Miss

Hulda Schneider, who is occupying her attractive cottage for the season.

Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett and attractive children, Rustina, Helen, Henry and Alfred, are spending the summer months at Ocean Home Farm.

Miss Lucille Langerman is a summer visitor at Gearhart.

Misses Dorothy and Lillian Mitchell are enjoying the beach holidays at the family cottage.

The golf course never fails to attract. In addition to the transient players, there are many members who devote a big share of the season's visit to the game. Among the interested golfers who play often are Mrs. Walter Cook, Mrs. Max Hirsch, A. C. Mitchell, E. F. Sweeney, O. W. Holderman, Arnold Blitts, Henry Metzger, D. B. Whitman, Mrs. C. E. Grella, Miss Mabel Beck, J. C. Scott, Richard Lange, Mrs. Frank Robertson and Miss Mal Hirsch.
