FOG DELAYS RESCUE PLANES

Missing Flyers in Serious Flight for Supplies.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 23.—Waiting airplanes are standing at vantage points all along the California-Mexico border line this morning, unable to work because of fog, but in instant readiness to go in search of Lieutenants Frederick Waterhouse and Cecil H. Connelly, who were last observed on Wednesday evening flying westward over Jacumba while on border patrol duty in a 400-horsepower De Havilland airplane.

The gravest fears are entertained now for the safety of the missing men. The emergency raid authorities are sufficient to keep them only for about 24 hours, so it is believed they may be suffering for water and food in addition to whatever injuries they may have, in case they are still alive.
