

HITCHCOCK PRO-HUN, POINDEXTER ASSERTS

War Record of Nebraskan Assailed in Senate.

"IRISH UP"; ROW FOLLOWS

Freedom for Ireland Resolution Precipitates Clash and Many Senators Mix in Verbal Melee.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—Treaty debate in the senate shifted back to the Irish question today, Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, starting a sharp discussion on the subject by calling up his resolution to declare that the United States should bring the question of Irish freedom before the league of nations as soon as it becomes a member.

Senator Walsh declared the United States would be responsible for the overwhelming sentiment of the American people if it declared in the league for Irish independence.

Senator Penrose, republican, Pennsylvania, asked whether the United States could not do more for Ireland if it had six votes, like the British empire, in the league assembly, and Senator Walsh replied in the negative, declaring if action were taken the decision must be unanimous.

Senator Lea, republican, Wisconsin, that to present such a plea to the league would be in violation of Great Britain's territorial integrity as guaranteed by article 10.

Jurisdiction Point Raised. Senator Lea also argued that if the Irish question could come within the league's jurisdiction, then the league could consider also the question of immigration, tariff and other matters regarded as purely internal.

Senator Walsh assured the senate that his resolution was offered in no spirit of hostility, either to Great Britain or Ireland, but in the hope that it might aid in a solution of their difficulties.

Senator Penrose, republican, Washington, opposing the resolution, said it illustrated how the league would operate.

"The resolution is an external attack on the territorial integrity of Great Britain," said he, "and the next thing would be action by the league against the United States for bringing economic pressure, because of the action of the senate in attacking British territorial integrity."

Declaring Great Britain would have six votes in the league to America's one, Senator Poindexter said:

Service Held Questionable. "If the intention of the senator is to create the impression among Irish voters that he is doing them a service or Ireland a service, I do not think he will do it."

Senator Walsh replied that his only purpose was to help dispel irritation between Great Britain and Ireland.

Senator Penrose said the Walsh resolution "was the crowning, most insolent effort yet to 'bunko' the Irish."

Senator Poindexter attacked the war record of Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration leader, referring to the latter's advocacy of an arms embargo and expressions of sympathy for Germany prior to America's entrance into the war.

60-YEAR FIGHT IS WON

J. L. REEDER GETS VERDICT FOR COUNTY ROAD.

Effort to Have Improvements on Sauvie's Island Is Subject of Long-Drawn-Out Litigation.

After 60 years' fight, marked by seven distinct court actions, J. L. Reeder of Sauvie's Island has succeeded in retaining establishment of road No. 911, a jury in the court of Circuit Judge Beck yesterday awarding damages totaling $5,277.70 for land condemned.

Reeder began his fight for a county road on his land 60 years ago in an effort to compel the county to construct a bridge across a slough. He failed in numerous court actions and finally bridged his own bridge.

Through the ravages of time, that bridge has fallen into decay, and the campaign just waged in the circuit court has as its object the building of a new bridge across that slough.

The road has been contested by other property holders on Sauvie's Island who have held that it would benefit only Reeder and cost them much money. There is a road there now, but to make it of the proportions of a county road, condemnation proceedings were necessary.

The case was in the local courts last spring and a jury returned a verdict to the effect that the opponents of the road should not be reimbursed for any alleged damages, except that the county should be compelled to build a fence along their property, bordering the road. Though the decision appeared equitable to the jury, it was not legal, and its peculiar provision resulted in the granting of a new trial, which ended yesterday.

George C. Shepherd was attorney for Reeder in the action. The district attorney's office was represented by Samuel H. Pierce.

BOY, 14, IS INDICTED FOR GIRL'S MURDER

Bandon Youth Steadfastly Maintains Innocence.

NEW EVIDENCE IS FACTOR

Holding of Lad for Trial Causes Surprise in View of Calm Demeanor Under Questioning.

MARSHFIELD, Or., Oct. 18.—(Special.)—The 14-year-old Bandon youth who was held in the county jail several weeks as a suspect in connection with the killing of Lillian Leuthold, of Bandon, with a .25-caliber rifle, was indicted last night by the Coos county grand jury.

The jury had believed that one piece of evidence was almost conclusive when the dead girl's brother, John Leuthold, presented two cartridge shells he found in the sandy road near the scene of the murder.

A Coosville gunsmith, who examined the bullet found in the girl's head, said the gun found after the killing at the Howell home would have caused the same marks as were gouged in the bullet.

Indictment Not Expected. Of late, owing to the inability to obtain anything in the way of guilty sign from Harold Howell, there had been a belief that the grand jury would not indict him.

The killing occurred on a Sunday afternoon in a lonely place in a wood at the eastern extremity of the city of Bandon. The victim had visited a girl friend and when she did not return home that night her parents thought she had remained at her friend's home, as she sometimes did.

Not returning the next morning, the father went out in search of her and being informed by the Jennings family that she had departed the previous evening, searched the trail leading to the main road and found the body hidden away behind a log.

Father Finds Trail. The conclusion the father reached was that the body had either been hurriedly hidden by a man or else dragged by a boy. A trail was made from the trail to the log, the body having been dragged. It was therefore quite evident somebody who could not carry the body had disposed of it.

There were later pieces of evidence said to have been produced, following the hearing in Judge Wade's court, but they have never been verified. It was said that Harold Howell's clothing which he wore on the day of the tragedy could not be found at the home and this report gave rise to the theory that it had been blood-stained.

Mrs. Leuthold, the girl's mother, was prostrated at the time and but recently recovered sufficiently to be about. John Leuthold, her brother, is a logger at the McDonald and Vaughan camp at Terbeel, and a short time ago was injured, and a short time ago was injured, and a short time ago was injured.

The trial has not been set, but probably will commence next week about Wednesday or Thursday. Charles F. McKnight, attorney for the boy, says they will enter a plea of not guilty when the trial is called.
