SOCIETY has centered around the brides of the past week and the out-of-town people who came to Portland to be present at the wedding. Mr. and Mrs. C. Walter Betts from Buffalo, N. Y., whose son married Miss Ruth Teal last Wednesday, are here. Another Buffalo man who came to Portland to claim his bride was John Raymond Robinson, who Wednesday married Miss Gertrude Towne. Mr. Robinson's family are in town, having come from different parts of the country to be here for his wedding. The marriage of Miss Barbara Bartlett and Mortimer Hall Hartwell was a smart social event on Thursday evening, and many out-of-town people came for this wedding.

One of the largest weddings this season was solemnized when Miss Ruth Josephine Teal, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nathan Teal, became the bride of Carlton Walter Betts of Buffalo, N. Y., on Wednesday afternoon in Trinity church. The bride was given in a robe of heavy ivory satin trimmed with rose point applique designed with a court train of brocade metal cloth. She wore a tulle veil edged with lace which fell to the end of her long court train held in place with a coronet of orange blossoms. A face veil was worn as she came up the aisle on the arm of her father, and was thrown back as she reached the altar. She carried an arm bouquet of gardenias and bouvardias. A pastel color scheme was used in the costuming of the matron of honor and the bridesmaids. The gowns were design 3 with the quaint extended hip effect and were made of satin and chiffon embellished with silver lace. Picture hats made of chiffon of the same shades as the rocks were worn. Mrs. Alan Green as matron of honor was in coral pink and carried an arm bouquet of Russian roses. Miss Rhoda Rumelin as maid of honor was in orchid-tinted pink and also carried an armful of beautiful pink roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Genevieve Thompson and Miss Katharine Hart in lavender and Miss Sara McCully and Miss Catherine Collins in pale green, and all carried chrysanthemums of orchid shades. The wedding procession was led by the ushers, who were Charles Holbrook, Cameron Squires, Prescott Cookingham and Alan Green. Major George Powell, who was with the bridegroom in the service, acted as best man.

The walls of Trinity church were lined with huge sprays of fragrant cedar and Oregon fir, and made a lovely background for the pink and lavender chrysanthemums which were the wedding flower. Streamers of fir hung down from the ceiling above the aisles and were divided in the very middle by the great silver star. Vine maple with its autumnal coloring was entwined with the fir which decorated the chancel.

The church was filled to its capacity. Among those in attendance were Mr. and Mrs. C. Walter Betts, parents of the bridegroom, of Buffalo, N. Y.; Mrs. Ridenbaugh of Boise, Idaho; Mrs. Thomas Lavelle of Butte, Mont.; Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dixon of Eugene, Or., and Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of Tacoma, Wash. After the ceremony a reception was given at the residence of the bride's parents at 179 St. Clair street. The guests were received by the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Teal, Mr. and Mrs. Betts of Buffalo, Mrs. D. P. Thompson, grandmother of the bride, and also her other grandmother, Mrs. Teal. Presiding in the dining room were Mrs. Cameron Squires, Mrs. Readie M. Ireland, Mrs. Nancy Zan Scott and Mrs. Henry Green Reed. Miss Helen Honeyman and Miss Katharine Hoy were at the punch bowl. Assisting about the rooms were Mrs. Curtis Bailey, Mrs. John Caben Beatty and Miss Louise Poulson. The same flower and color scheme of the church was carried out at the house, chrysanthemums, fir and autumn leaves being used.

Mr. and Mrs. Betts left the same night for an extended trip to New York and other Atlantic coast cities before going to Buffalo, where they will make their future home.

The army at Hill military academy was the scene of a merry party last night, when the officers and senior cadets entertained at their annual autumn hop. The ballroom was decorated in greenery, autumn foliage and flags. The patronesses were Mrs. John F. Logan, Mrs. Warren E. Thomas, Mrs. William House, Mrs. W. L. Brewster, Mrs. John Claire Monteith, Mrs. J. W. Hill, Mrs. Benjamin Hill, Mrs. W. H. C. Bowen and Mrs. J. W. Daniels.

The favors for the girls were hand-painted souvenirs decorated in autumn coloring. The girls on the invitational list included the Misses Gladys Bowen, Louise Allen, Dorothy Logan, Marjorie Adams, Margaret Alexander, Eulalia Belcher, Margaret Booth, Mary Blaker, Frances Baker, Pauline Bondurant, Helen Ball, Clara Baxter, Rhoda Burpee, Jeanette Carter, Helen Carmain, Gladys Collison, Beatrice Conway, Frances Cornell, Ruth Cleland, Dorothy Carpenter, Gloria Collison, Madeline Coffey, Frances Dick, Pauline Dick, Helen Darling, Janet Dittinger, Joyce Ellsworth, Florence Fowler, Marion Farrell, Frances Friedenthal,

One of the most fashionable and smartest weddings of the season was solemnized when Miss Barbara Bartlett became the bride of Mortimer Hall Hartwell, Thursday evening at Trinity church. The wedding was simple in all its details, only the altar of the church being decorated, with palms, autumn leaves and the fall flowers, making a beautiful background for the charming bride and Miss Margaret Hewett, who was the only attendant. The bride was given in an exquisite creation of ivory satin with point lace applique, designed with a court train. Her veil was held in place with the wreath of orange blossoms which had been used by her mother. She carried a bouquet of pale yellow orchids and bouvardia which she held in an old-time flower holder which also had been her mother's. Miss Margaret Hewett was robed in pink satin and chignon and wore a small pink veil, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses.

Arthur Hartwell of Minneapolis acted as best man to his brother. The ushers were Charles Miller, Harold Scoville, Robert Noyes, Earl Whitney, Lloyd Smith and Stuart Strong. The bride was given in marriage by her father, T. Harris Bartlett. After the ceremony, which was read by Dr. A. A. Morrison, a reception was given at the Highlands, the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John Latta.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harris Bartlett of Lewiston, Idaho, and Mr. and Mrs. Latta received with the bride party. Mrs. Charles Miller, Mrs. Lewis Mills, Mrs. MacCormac Snow and Mrs. Irving Webster presided in the dining room.

Mrs. Hartwell is well known in Portland and belongs to one of the pioneer families. Being a daughter of Mrs. W. K. Smith. Mr. Hartwell's family is prominent in Providence, R. I. After a wedding trip through British Columbia, the young people will make their home here and have taken Miss Sally Lewis' house on Waverly Heights for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hatchelder of Hood River, formerly old residents of Portland, have taken apartments for the winter at the Campbell Hill hotel.

Mr. Frank W. Rosenthal (Hannah Gilroy) left last week for Spokane to join her husband at the Davenport hotel, where they will stop during their visit in Spokane.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Rosenthal will visit in Montana, Seattle and other northern points, where Mr. Rosenthal's business interests take him.

Mrs. Cotter of Spokane has just left after visiting with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. West. She was delightfully entertained while here.

Mrs. Leander Martin has gone east for an extended visit in Chicago. After the first of the year she expects to travel in the south. Returning home in the spring by way of California, she will visit many places of interest and will be gone several months.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Vincent announce the birth of a son born Wednesday, October 29. He will be named for his father.

who has been a guest of her daughter, Mrs. J. F. Hill, for the past three months, has returned to her home.

Another wedding of interest to both Portland and Buffalo people was that of Miss Gertrude Towne and John Raymond Robinson, which also took place Wednesday evening at Forrest hall.

The bride was dressed in white satin with point lace and a long train of silver metal cloth. Her veil was of tulle and held in place with a coronet of point lace, and she carried lavender orchids.

Mrs. Larzatt Worthington Smith as matron of honor wore a gown of orchid-colored chiffon, trimmed with silver lace, and carried an arm bouquet of Ophelia roses.

Miss Frances O'Brien and Miss Miller as maids of honor were in two shades of pink. They carried colonial nosegays of tiny roses.

Miss Jean Stitt was a dainty little flower girl in cream chiffon, and carried a French basket of blue flowers.

Lieutenant Kenneth Robinson of Berkeley, Cal., a cousin of the bridegroom, acted as best man. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Edward Bray of Seattle.

After the ceremony, which was read by Dr. Johnson of the First Presbyterian church, a reception was held to about 100 friends and relatives.

Mrs. Stuart Zimmerman, Mrs. Fred Helling, Mrs. William Stitt and Mrs. Lella Metcalf presided in the dining room.

Mrs. Robinson is the only child of Mrs. Walter E. Towne of this city and Mr. Robinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Robinson of Buffalo, who, with their two daughters, were present at the wedding. The young couple will make their home in Buffalo after an extended trip.

Miss Jane Honeyman was a charming hostess at a delightful dancing party Halloween evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Honeyman, Jack o' lanterns, witches and black cats were used as decorations. Those enjoying the delightful party were: Dorothy Shea, Aull Greene, Lucina Prag, Frances Prudhomme, Caroline Everding, Peggy McMurray, Jane Fleckenstein, Dorothy Dunne, Suzanne Caswell, Evelyn Prag, Betty Brink, Charlotte Malbout, Rose-Agnes Kady, Jane Honeyman, John Piper, James Forestel, Jack Bernard, Jack Herring, Wesley MacPherson, Edmund Douglas, Ronald Honeyman, Ralph Prag, Bob Banks, George Walker, Tom Norby, Miller Chapman and Irwin Falop.

Mrs. Gustav von Eggenstein entertained Thursday at bridge with a few friends as guests.

Mrs. Cyrus A. Dolph has returned from an interesting visit in the east where she was the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark (Hazel Dolph). Mrs. Dolph is one of Portland's best loved matrons and she is being welcomed by her many friends. It is a privilege for her old-time friends to come in for tea occasionally. Mrs. Dolph has been entertained since her return at some of the more important luncheons given for some of the recent visitors of note.

The Portland Wesleyan club will entertain this week for Miss Ruth Hanford, who will arrive in town tomorrow. Miss Hanford is the travel-the chairman, acted as hostesses. To acquaint the new members with the work of the association a few short talks were given by the president, Miss Carrie A. Holbrook; Mrs. F. M. Warren and Miss Willa Hatch, membership secretary, Miss Elsie White, the new industrial secretary, gave a brief outline of the new work now being organized among the industrial girls of the city, and Mrs. Fletcher Linn gave a number of very pleasing musical numbers, following which all gathered around the tea table, presiding over which were Miss Carrie A. Holbrook and Mrs. Julia Andrus.

More than 500 new names were added to the membership roll of the Young Women's Christian association on Thursday, the result of a quiet membership campaign which has been going on for the past two weeks. Two sides, composed of board members, members of the membership committee, and a few interested friends, have been striving for the lead in the campaign, with the prospect of a dinner for the winning side. To meet the new recruits and to hear the result of the canvass, the membership committee held a tea in the social hall on Thursday. About 100 women were present. Members of the membership committee, of which committee Mrs. J. Roer Dickson is
