

TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH DEDICATES NEW HOUSE OF WORSHIP WITH APPROPRIATE SERVICES.

Portland Churchmen Attend Ceremonies—Dr. Stansfield to Talk Today on Japan's Report on Religion in America—First Congregational Church Plans Week of Activities.

ESPERTE inclement weather a large gathering of churchmen at the dedication services of the Trinity Lutheran church in Silverton, Or., on November 2. One feature that added interest to the occasion and served to swell the number of those attending was the annual circuit meeting which convened in the new church building Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Trinity congregation was organized in 1892 by Rev. A. O. Dolven of Portland. In July, 1893, Rev. N. Pederson took charge of the work and immediately began the erection of a church building. Rev. Mr. Pederson was succeeded in 1905 by Rev. A. O. White, who remained until 1917, coming to Wisconsin. He was followed by Rev. George Henriksen of Portland. Under his pastorate the membership increased so rapidly that the old church building was inadequate to accommodate the congregation and during the past summer a modern edifice was erected.

Because of the success of the conference held last week in the interest of the national-wide campaign of the Episcopal church, at which there were the most representative assembly of laymen and clergy ever called together in Portland, the Rev. Dr. Stansfield, bishop of Oregon, as determined upon a series of conferences which will carry him and a number of picked speakers all over the state this week.

The national-wide campaign is a gigantic spiritual work, to carry on an energetic campaign against the "I. W. W." and to bring about a world-wide work of international scope is to be carried on.

Chicago Report Will Aid. To participate in these conferences are arrived in Portland yesterday by Rev. E. S. Miller, minister in charge of the Atomsphere at Chicago, one of the most notable clergy in the arch and a speaker of marked ability in all over the country.

On Tuesday the bishop, the Rev. Mr. White, and Milton R. Klepper, campaign manager for the national-wide campaign, arrived in Portland for a mass meeting and dinner at Ashfield, at which leaders in the campaign at Marshfield will take an important part.

On Wednesday the bishop and Dean Alder will speak at an evening mass meeting at Ashfield, at which the following speakers: The Rev. C. H. L. Warden, minister in charge of the Epworth League at Eugene, and the Rev. Mr. Chandler, the Rev. Mr. White and Mr. Goodwin.

The four churches of Portland are going over their quotas this week in the big drive for Philomath college. The Rev. Mr. White, the Rev. Mr. Stansfield, the Rev. Mr. White and the Rev. Mr. Stansfield.

Methodists to Get Funds. About January 1, 1920, the first annual division of $125,000,000 being gathered in the Methodist churches of the United States over a period of five years' subscription under the centenary drive will be distributed.

Already the church extension society of the city has contracted for needed improvements and properties. They have entered into contracts and already have possession of dwellings for parsonages for Patton church, Leitch church, Lincoln church and Clinton Kelly church. They have authorized improvements on Epworth church to the extent of $1000 which are now going forward. They have also contracted for the new church at Garden Home and purchased two additional plots of ground there, one for the purpose of building a parsonage and another for a parsonage. They will soon build a parsonage there, if the plans are approved. Other extensive improvements are contemplated for several churches, among them Montevideo church, Central church, Sunnyside church, Centenary church, West City Park church and others. Other extensive improvements are to be made throughout the whole state.

The executive board of the city church extension society having the matter largely in hand for Portland and the Rev. Thomas Jenkins, rector of the Trinity Lutheran church, is the first of a series of community socials at the home of Mrs. W. L. Johnston, 491 East forty-fifth street, on Tuesday evening, November 18. Mrs. W. E. McElvenny and Mrs. D. B. Bickel, both of Johnston as hostesses. All the members and attendants of the church will be invited to the social.
