QUINTET OF WELL-KNOWN MITTMEN WHO WILL BATTLE AT MILWAUKIE WEDNESDAY NIGHT.

GIBBONS AND DARCY PRIMING FOR CLASH

Rugged Fighters Promise Exciting Bout Wednesday.

WING WILL MEET MARTIN

Semi-Windup to Feature Bobby Ward of St. Paul Against Fast Stanley Willis.

Tommy Gibbons worked eight fast rounds in the gymnasium yesterday, four of them with Bobby Ward, the classy St. Paul lightweight, getting in the pink of condition for his ten-round battle against Jimmy Darcy. the aggressive Portland middleweight in the main event of Wednesday night's fistic card in Milwaukie.

Gibbons is in wonderful form and stepped around with his fast opponent like a featherweight. Gibbons is about the fastest light-heavyweight that has graced his class in many a moon, and Darcy will have to step some to be able to do any damage to the St.

Paul boxer.
Eddle Kane, who looks after the destinies of Tommy Gibbons, looks for Gibbons to score over Darcy and is not mincing matters when he says that Gibbons will be in the ring to stow the rugged Portlander away if Darcy will not be caught out of shape and carries a stunning wallop in either mitt. If he can land on Gibbons, the bout may be a more even affair than expected. Darcy is always willing to lead and can take punches as well as dole them out. He has more chance of holding his own with Gibbons than many of the other men at his weight on the Pa-cific const because of his extreme, ruggedness and ability to bring over ruggedness and ability to his heavy fists.

Gibbons will have a weight advantage but just how much is not known, as Tommy has not stepped on the scales since his arrival here.

The lack of training facilities and the manner in which English boxers train surprised Big Fred. "There are no training centers for boxers over there, as there are here," said Fulton. The gyms they have are very poorly equipped. Even the National Sporting club is a joke in this respect. None of the gyms have heat, hot water for showers, or even a punch-ing bag. The boxers train in a man-ner altogether different to ours. They work a couple of hours a day in a dilly-dallying sort of manner. They

FOR 1920 IS STRONG

Answer,—In my judgment you have been neglecting to "put in the day-light" ahead of your birds. You were no doubt killing the duck back of the one you were shooting at in the flock. This is consequent upon the absence of sufficient lead. It is much better to over-lead, as the load of shot will on all occasions "string," hence there is a chance for you to score your bird with the rear of the charge. The lead to be given ducks depends entirely upon the velocity of flight and the distance the moving object is from the gunner, Again, pass shooting is different from decoy shooting, as the flight is much more rapid. The lead also depends upon whether you keep the gun moving with the object or swing ahead of the bird and stop when the trigger is pulled. On pass shooting five or six feet will frequently pull them down, at times more, frequently less daylight is required. When you know and understand leads, which means instant calculation of velocity and distance, you are an expert wing shot and the art must be learned by experience.
