

GANTENBEIN LAUDED BY BENCH AND BAR

Late Jurist Eulogized at Service in Courtroom.

WAR SACRIFICE RECALLED

Multnomah Lawyers Comment on Loyalty and Generality of Departed Companion.

Bench and bar of Multnomah county paid final tribute to the memory of the late Calvin U. Gantenbein, circuit judge, in services of reverence held yesterday morning in the courtroom of Presiding Judge Gatenbein. Resolutions prepared by Wallace McCannant, Joseph Simon, Arthur L. Vesale, George J. Cameron and S. C. Spencer were adopted to be spread on the minutes of the supreme court of Oregon, the circuit court of Multnomah county, and to be sent to the bereaved family.

In the death of Judge Calvin U. Gantenbein, the bar lost one of its most distinguished members, the bench a jurist of rare talent and high ideals, the community a citizen of commendable public spirit and a public servant of surpassing usefulness. He concluded the resolutions. Mr. McCannant, who read them, and moved their adoption, added personal reminiscences of the man with whom he had maintained a close friendship which had endured without a break for 29 years. He spoke of the true, loyal and genial friendship as one of the things he had most treasured, and of the sterling worth of patriotism and public service shown by the late jurist.

Jurist Loyal Citizen. Arthur L. Vesale, who was Judge Gantenbein's first law partner, seconded the motion for adoption of the resolution, and told of a friendship and close relation since 1892, during which period—in 14 years of which they were partners and had shared a dependable nature, never crossed with hard words, and had accomplished great feats of self-education in foreign languages, military affairs and the law.

The helpful hand extended to young men of Portland by Judge Gantenbein was stressed by Walter H. Evans, district attorney, who studied law under the late jurist. He was an ideal lawyer and loyal citizen, he asserted. Despite his military training, with its stern nature, Judge Gantenbein always resolved a doubt in favor of the defendant in criminal cases, tried in his court, preferring to err on the side of humanity, pointed out the man who had directed many prosecutions in the judge's court.

War Service Recalled. The undying ambition of Judge Gantenbein to encourage young men of the country to take up military service that they might be relied on by their country in time of need and his sacrifices and service during the world war, also were touched on by Mr. Evans.

The altruism and success of Calvin U. Gantenbein was a complete refutation of the philosophy which holds that success cannot be reached but through selfish, ruthless fighting in the battle of life, declared Franklin F. Korell, one of the younger lawyers who had known the friendship and help of Judge Gantenbein.

"A man of unquestioned character and spotless integrity, the life of Judge Gantenbein was an inspiring lesson of patriotism and devotion to public welfare. His name is pre-eminently honored, esteemed and loved," he concluded.

James N. Davis, who had known Judge Gantenbein through his affiliation with the law firm of which he was a member, pointed out that the deceased was a man of three careers, entering as much success as the average man, and more, in each of them. The first was that of an educator, the second was that of lawyer, and the third that of a soldier, he asserted.

William D. Fenton and Charles J. Schnabel offered brief tributes to the life and service of the departed jurist.

Kavanaugh Delivers Eulogy. Judges of the circuit presiding at the memorial service on Friday night were Gatenbein, Kavanaugh, Stapleton, Tucker, Taswell, Morrow and McCourt of Portland and Judge Wilson of The Dalles.

On behalf of the circuit bench, Judge Kavanaugh delivered the eulogy.

"There are few relations of life which draw men closer together than service on the bench," he asserted. "The passing of Judge Gantenbein falls like a personal affliction. His greeting was always cordial, his counsel was always helpful. I have never seen him impatient or heard him criticize an associate. He was a congenial companion and a loyal friend. In the later years of his life, the heaviest affliction was met with rare fortitude, and some disappointment which followed was received with a cheerful spirit."

Legion Delegate Speaks. CENTRALIA, Wash., Dec. 12.—(Special.)—Members of the Grant Hodge post of the American Legion and local business men Friday night heard a report from Captain Earl Harkins on the recent national convention of the legion in Minneapolis. Captain Harkins, a former Aberdeen newspaper man, attended the convention as a delegate from California. He invited the members of the post here to attend a big gathering in Elma December 18, which a post of the American Legion, a women's auxiliary and organization of citizens will be formed.

Tag for Driver Favored. HOOD RIVER, Or., Dec. 13.—(Special.)—L. N. Bradford of this city has a novel plan for preventing automobile thefts. Mr. Bradford's scheme, calling not only for a regulation license plate, but an accompanying badge to be worn by the owner or driver, has interested local automobile men, and plans are under way for embodying the principle in a law. A bill, carrying the provisions suggested by Mr. Bradford will be introduced at the next regular session of the legislature.

Early Settlers Tell Astonishing Weather Yarns.

"Worst Storm" Contest Interrupted by Man Who Fears for Orange Crop.

OWEGO, Or., Dec. 12.—(Special.)—The present cold snap, with its drifts of snow and frozen water pipes brings to memory among the old settlers some astonishing facts regarding Oregon weather of olden days. There is keen rivalry among the Davidsons, the Werthingtons, the Gans, Tom Fox and several other branches of the families which settled at the present site of Owego during the days of the civil war and later, in relating the trials and hardships of the pioneers of this section. "Cold" says one sturdy old-timer. "This is not cold. I remember when a party of us was out hunting in the mountains one winter shortly after we came out here, and we were camped in the big timber out where Hillsboro now stands. One of the boys put a kettle of water on the campfire and I'll be darned if it didn't boil on the bottom and freeze solid on top."

Pioneer No. 2, winked knowingly. "Huh," said he, "I recollect one winter when the snow covered the roof of the log cabin down alongside the river. That was the winter the big snow serpent came down from his lair up where Seattle now stands. He had a scale on his belly that formed runners on which he could make 60 miles an hour. A sudden thaw came along and he died with the heat over in the Tualatin valley. The scribble thought this certainly would drive No. 3 from the contest, but it did not freeze him. "Member the winter the Willamette froze over and we could haul wood across from where Oak Grove now is?" he rattled away, unabashed. "An' then d'ye remember how Cob Webber was drowned fallin' through where the ice worms had honeycombed the ice?"

ster compared to the going, having been born in these parts and who has heard these stories before, interrupted to say that he entertained fear for his crop of oranges next year.

All agreed that so long as the thermometers did not entirely lose their reputation for veracity and remained above zero, they would be able to endure it.
