An institution may bear an old name, boast of having been in business for years and claim to have everything which is biggest and best. Yet all of those things are worthless unless they be backed by clearness of vision and honesty of purpose.

Comparatively speaking, this company has been in business only a short time. But the man whose name it bears has had twenty-four years' experience, the past twelve in this city. That thorough training gave him the breadth of vision and steadfastness of purpose we consider important. The vision to see that there has been great need of honesty in this particular business.

If you have any symptoms of eyestrain, have your eyes examined by us at once and if you do not need glasses we will tell you so. Remember the name, Wheeler, Oregonian bldg.
