THE house committee on immigration is confronted with an important task, due to the importance of preventing the entrance of dangerous aliens. The members are: Chairman Albert Johnson of Washington, Isaac Siegel of New York, William N. Valle of Colorado, John C. Kleozka of Wisconsin, King Swope of Kentucky, John C. Box of Texas, Benjamin F. Welby of Ohio, Riley J. Sath of Illinois, John E. Raker of California.

Lulu Alphe, a young Jersey cow, owned by J. J. Van Kleek of Ashburn, is credited with having broken all records for a cow of any breed in butter production. The year's record was 13,569 pounds of milk, which produced 1099 pounds of butter—399 pounds more than the weight of the cow. The milk tested 5.85 per cent butterfat.

Twelve young women, seven of them natives of Poland and all of Polish ancestry, recently departed from New York for service of one year in work of the Young Women's Christian association in Poland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis, St. Louis, Cleveland and Rochester are among the cities represented by the young women.

An airplane view of the United States battleship New Mexico gives a comprehensive view of everything above decks. It was taken recently while the flagship of the new Pacific fleet was off the coast of California.

Federal Judge John W. Killits of Toledo became a trolleyman for a few minutes while he drove the first of the trolley cars back into that city, following the cleanup of traffic. The people of Toledo voted to revoke the franchise of the company, which retaliated by running all of its cars out of the city and beyond the border of the state. City officials asked for the restoration of service.

The mural decorations in the dome of the capitol at Washington are to be finished after a lapse of 30 years. The frieze is regarded as the finest in the world and was undertaken by Brumidi, the famous Italian artist, whose brush was stilled by death. Charles Ayer Whipple will complete the work, which is a portrayal of American history. The sinking of the Lusitania and the battle of Chateau Thierry will be included in the modern scenes.

Peter Cooper Hewitt, scientist and inventor, has developed an airplane which he declares will rise straight up into the air without a preliminary run and will land in a space 30 feet square. Speed is claimed for the plane, and the ability to reverse direction while in flight without turning around.

Harry Lauder, Scotch comedian, is a golf enthusiast and is reputed to play an excellent game. Recently while in San Francisco he defeated Chief of Police White in a match on the Presidio links.
