

RACE FOR SECRETARY DECLINED BY BRODIE

Publisher to Continue Newspaper Activities.

WIDE SUPPORT PROMISED

Oregon City Man Sees Opportunity in Influencing Public Opinion in Home Field.

OREGON CITY, Or., Jan. 10.—(Special.)—E. E. Brodie, publisher of the Morning Enterprise, announced today that he would not be a candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state at the primary election next May.

"My many friends among the newspaper editors of the state," said Mr. Brodie today, "were the first to propose my name in connection with the office of secretary of state, and I have already received, without my solicitation, the endorsement and promised support of more than 20 papers throughout the state."

"This, of course, is extremely gratifying and flattering, and I am deeply appreciative of it," he said, "but it has been said about me. This is the first time that I have ever been even a prospective candidate for public office, though I have been honored by election and appointment to non-salaried positions in the state, and have been for four years chairman of the republican county central committee for Clackamas county, which gave a plurality of 1015 to the republican nominee for president four years ago, and a clear majority for Mr. Hughes of 237 over all other candidates for president."

"After long reflection, I cannot separate myself from a profession with which I have been connected since boyhood. The publishing of a newspaper, in my opinion, is of greater duty and shorter hours, but if he is true to the calling of his own choosing, he will stick and resist the temptation to forsake legitimate business wherein he should be engaged in influencing public opinion within the radius of his newspaper's circulation."

"The Enterprise was established 54 years ago, and has been published continuously in Oregon City since 1866. Only two newspapers in Oregon are older. My connection with the Enterprise covers 15 years, the last 12 years as publisher. We have just purchased and remodeled a building and have the finest newspaper home in the state, outside of Portland. The Morning Enterprise is healthy, its growth and progress have been marked and I expect to continue as its publisher and do my part in making Oregon a better state to live in for many years to come."

SUGAR PROBE IS SLATED

GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE PROFITTEERING CHARGES.

Four Portland Grocers Are First to Be Arrested in District—Investigation Due This Week.

Investigation of four local merchants arrested last week by the federal authorities charged with profiteering in sugar will be taken up by the federal grand jury this week. The cases are expected to attract more than usual interest because they are the first of this nature in this district.

The four men arrested were: A. W. Anderson, L. J. Jacob, Ross and E. F. Eckert. All were charged with selling sugar at an excessive price. Rossi and Eckert were arrested Friday, and the other two men earlier in the week. All were released on their own recognizance, to appear before the federal grand jury this week.

That the men were selling sugar for 14 and 15 cents a pound, an advance of from two to three cents a pound over the legitimate price, was the contention of United States District Attorney Humphreys.

Figures from local clothing merchants relative to the volume of their business, their overhead and operating expenses in detail have been asked by Mr. Humphreys in an effort to aid the federal fair price committee here to bring about relief from the high prices of shoes and clothing.

A week ago questionnaires were sent out by the commission to 42 clothing merchants.

SEDITION BILL IS PASSED

SENATE ACT PROVIDES FOR SEVERE PENALTIES.

Offending Aliens Made Subject to Deportation After Serving Imprisonment Period.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10.—An anti-sedition bill prescribing severe penalties for acts of propaganda advocating overthrow of the government by force or violence, was passed by the senate today without a record vote. The measure now goes to the house.

Under an amendment to the bill proposed by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, and accepted by the senate, persons having radical literature excluded from the mails may secure a hearing before any federal court and thus avoid the delay and expense of bringing suit in Washington against the postmaster-general.

Senator Borah reiterated his objection that the bill would give the post-office department press censorship powers, but Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, declared the measure would affect only propaganda and activities in which use of violence to overthrow the government was advocated.

Maximum penalties contained in the bill are a fine of $5000 and five years' imprisonment, applying to all acts of circulating literature in furtherance of forcible overthrow of the government.

Mail Exclusion Provided. The bill also bars from the mails any matter advocating force or sabotage.

The principal attack on the bill was aimed at the mail exclusion section, which opponents declared would confer press censorship power on the postmaster-general. Advocates of the measure, however, denied that the bill would limit constitutional rights of free speech or free assemblage.

Under an amendment by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, accepted by the senate, persons against whom this clause is invoked can appeal to federal courts.

The bill prohibits persons from advocating and from advising by speech, writing or printing, the forcible overthrow of the United States government or by physical injury to person or property. It also would penalize attempts or acts hindering execution of laws, or federal agents in their duties.

Flag Displays Prohibited. Another section prohibits display of flags, banners or emblems intended to symbolize advocacy of force against the government.

Aliens violating the act would be subject to deportation and permanent exclusion after serving the imprisonment period.

The bill drawn by Senator Sterling, republican, South Dakota, has been heralded as a measure against "reds."

It goes to the house for consideration in connection with sedition legislation now being prepared by the house judiciary committee, and in a measure is a substitute for legislation recommended by Attorney-General Palmer.

Senator Sterling told the senate today that the bill did not penalize peaceful agitation looking to changes in the government. This was criticized by Senator McKellar, democrat, Tennessee, as an alleged weakness. The Tennessee senator declared the bill would not reach dangerous anarchists and other radicals who preach insidious propaganda against the government, suggesting violence, while disclaiming advocacy of force. He offered an amendment designed to extend the bill's penalties to peace-

ANOTHER SLEEPER DIES

MRS. LUCY WILLIAMS GADDIS VICTIM OF STRANGE MALADY.

J. F. Ewing, Educational Director of Church, Is Improving, but Change Is Coming Slowly.

The mysterious sleeping sickness claimed another victim in the person of Mrs. Lucy Williams Gaddis, 707 East Nineteenth street North, for whom funeral services were held yesterday at the Portland crematorium. Mrs. Gaddis died Thursday at her home in this city.

Another sufferer from the same disease, James F. Ewing, educational director of the First Presbyterian church, was reported to be improving gradually, following a seven weeks' illness at his home, 610 Spring street.

Mrs. Gaddis was a daughter of the late Major George Williams, who came to this state shortly after the Civil war. She was also a niece of Richard Williams, pioneer and attorney of Portland. She was born in Salem, Or., July 29, 1875, but had been a resident of Portland for years. She was the wife of Fletcher A. Gaddis, who survives her.

Mr. Ewing is said to show some improvement, although recovery is slow. He is said to be able to walk about a little at times now and also converse a little with members of the family.

He was at first thought to be suffering from a nervous breakdown.
