

KENNY RISES STOCK FAVOR ISLAND

New Zealand Gets First Shipment in 1882.

CALIFORNIA ALSO HELPS

Later Years See Many Standard-Bred Animals Crossing Seas to Southern Lands.

BY W. H. GOCHER.

Light has been shining on New Zealand dates from 1882. In that year Robert Wilkin arrived at Christchurch from the United States with three stallions and six mares which he had purchased in Kentucky.

Two other lots were imported the same year, Andrew Town arriving with Childe Harold, a son of Harold, out of the Marine Club mare Young Fortia, the dam of Voltair, 2201, and John Kerr with Irvington and Newman's Hamming.

These horses became the foundation stock in New Zealand. Vanclieve did not get any foals on the islands, but a splendidly bred horse was bred there from New South Wales, where he was taken in 1884 with the weanling filly Franka.

From 1885 to the close of the century, almost all of the stallions taken to New Zealand were purchased in California. The only prominent exception was the importation of the Russian, 2238, a sister to Maid S, 2985.

The above named horses were in time followed by young McKinney by Seymour Wilkes, Deratta by Nutwood Wilkes and by Dan Biscara, who was imported by Binzen out of Roxana by King Wilkes and Galindo by McKinney out of the General.

Only 35 trotting or pacing bred mares were exported to New Zealand. The early breeders selected fillies by Berlin, Childe Harold and Vanclieve, as well as their sons to mate with the horses imported.

Owing to labor troubles and difficulty in securing building material, the plans for the clubhouses of the recently organized International Sporting club of New York city, will not be ready for completion until the summer. It was originally planned to open the club in February, Jimmy Wilde being one of the star attractions the inaugural night.

RUTH WELCOMES CHANGE

HOME-RUN SLUGGER TO SHOW FRAZEE REAL WORTH.

New York Fans Promised Greatest Baseball Player Capable of During 1920 Season.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—The details of the famous conference between Babe Ruth and Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees have at last drifted eastward and it develops that Huggins had to search around Los Angeles for two or three days before he finally cornered the home-run slugger and told him he was sold to the Yanks for $125,000.

Ruth spends much of his time in Los Angeles playing golf at Griffin park. He plays every day and takes long walks besides to keep in shape. When he heard that he had been sold by Frazee without his consent, he at first objected to the procedure of the Boston club owner.

Ruth, after the conference, said that he had not made Huggins any promises and that he wouldn't agree to anything until he got a slice of the money which had been paid to Frazee. Later, however, when Ruth read what Frazee had given as reasons for selling him, Ruth said that he was glad he had been sold and would not mind going to the Yanks for nothing more than to show up Frazee.

Out on the coast Ruth avoided reporters as much as possible because some of them remarked that Babe used the personal pronoun too much when he was talking. But when he read what Frazee said about him he had a lot to say.

Some delegates from the middle west either team until the final which. Both squads showed bursts of speed which at times threatened to pile up a winning score.

The guard men on both teams played sensational games, with the result that the times the forwards on either team were allowed unhampered tries at the iron loop could be counted on the fingers. At least half of the scores were made by free throws resulting from fouls. In the preliminary game the Dalles second team defeated the Lyle quintet by a score of 20 to 8.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL GRADUATES MAY LOSE LETTERS.

National Collegiate Association Starts Movement and Others Expected to Follow.

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—Professional football must go.

Many of the editors of the National Collegiate association at its winter meeting here recently.

To curb what was looked upon as a menace to the growth of football as a national sport, university legislation was urged to rescind the letter of any college football man who participates in the professional game after he finishes his course.

Other universities and groups no doubt will follow in the same trail, but not all of them.

Ohio is the center of professional football. The game has grown to a figure there, not because the fans prefer it to the college game, but because they are peculiarly situated in a state where the chances that eastern fans have to see high-class college football.

Manager of Midget Has Plenty of Wherewithal to Keep House Until Match Comes Along.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 24.—Jimmy Wilde, Moore's greatest fighting idol, is spending his first American invasion buried in the snow drifts of Wauwatosa, Wis.

Before Wilde came over it was expected that he would be the prime object of his American invasion was to show the American public that his victories over his American cousins who crossed the pond to meet him, Pat Moore and Joe Egan, were not of the fluke variety.

He was not satisfied with the outcome of their recent bout and wishes, so it is rumored, to try it again and to point the Harp in his retirement.
