Interstate Body to Reopen Intermountain Question.

COAST STATES INVOLVED

Basis of Contention Lies in Rail and Water Competition; Change to Be Protested.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 6.—(Special.)—A request of the commercial organizations of Boston and other eastern cities, the interstate commerce commission has reopened the intermountain rate case...

This information was received from Washington, D. C., today by the transportation bureau of the Seattle chamber of commerce and Commercial club.

No Decision Given. The commerce commission took the case under advisement after the Salt Lake hearing and has not handed down its decision.

The whole structure of trans-continental rail rates, the coast cities contended, is based on competition between rail and water carriers.

Petitions Protested. The Pacific seaboard cities protested against the change on the ground that ocean carriers are in competition with the railroads for the business of the coast cities.

The Seattle Chamber of Commerce and Commercial club will be represented at the supplementary hearing.

CONVICTIONS COME HIGH

East Case of Anti-Profitteering Costs More Than $1000.

LONDON.—Twenty-four convictions obtained before the 1920 anti-profitteering tribunals set up throughout England have cost more than $1000 each.

Captain Benn summarized the results of the act, during its first six months of life, by stating: "Nineteen hundred and sixteen cases have been appointed; 1935 cases have been heard—one case per committee; 24 convictions have been obtained; $25,000 has been spent, and the cost of living has gone up."

Supporters of the bill argued that six months had not given the administrators of the law fair opportunity of demonstrating its worth.

effect of imprisoning the occupants for a week. Ordinary rowboats could not pass through the garden gates, so some beleaguered householders were provisioned by canoes, but in many instances the current was too strong for these frail craft.

MISSION LEADERS SUED

HUSBAND ALLEGES ALIENATION OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS.

Head of Institution Said to Lay Claim to Possession of Supernatural Powers.

Teachings of the Apostolic Faith mission wrecked the home of Frank M. Chance, in the allegation in a $25,000 suit filed in the circuit court yesterday against the mission charging alienation of the affections of Mrs. Edith H. Chance.

The worst sufferers were the inhabitants of Masons-Affort and Alfortville, suburbs situated at the confluence of the Seine and Marne just above Paris.

The action filed yesterday by Attorney Leroy Lomax and W. W. Taylor, it is contended that the mission was founded "for the sole purpose of pecuniary benefit to the Crawford," and that "wonderful, wifely, perniculous and superstitious doctrines and practices" were taught to draw members into the society.

Doctrines Declared Harmful. Doctrines espoused are alleged which are harmful in that they taught that Mrs. Crawford was possessed of supernatural power, by means of which she could dispense eternal salvation or damnation to faithful or disbelievers.

Mr. and Mrs. Chance were married December 25, 1918, and have two children, Beryl, aged 20, and Delbert, aged 14. Mrs. Chance embraced the teachings of the Apostolic faith mission in May, 1914, it is said.
