

WILSON SHIES AWAY FROM COMPROMISES

Move Fails to Bring President into Negotiations.

TREATY IS HELD DEAD

Irreconcilables Serve Notice They Will Take Action Monday to Bring Debate to End.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The move to bring President Wilson actively into the peace treaty compromise negotiations got such a setback at the White House today that the irreconcilable senate opponents of the ratification again pronounced the treaty dead and gave notice that they would move Monday to bring the debate specifically to an end.

Officials close to the president declared that democratic senators already were fully advised of the attitude of the executive and that compromise proposals should be addressed, not to Mr. Wilson, but to Senator Lodge, the republican leader.

It was not revealed whether the president would grant the requested conference with Senator Simmons of North Carolina representing the senate committee, in a final effort to compromise, but the White House officials intimated that they thought further efforts to inquire into the president's views would be superfluous.

Among the irreconcilables, it confidently was asserted that if the declaration of the White House officials reflected the views of the president, further delay of the ratification vote was only so much time wasted. The notice of their intention to force final action was given in the senate by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who said he would move Monday to take up at once the knotty problem of article 10.

Hitchcock Favors Move.
Senator Borah's proposal was endorsed by Senator Hitchcock, who said he and his colleagues were ready to vote "at an early date" and that it was "unnecessary" to seek the views of the president before taking final action. Senator Lodge, however, suggested that the quickest way to reach article 10 was to proceed with the program as it now stands.

Six reservations besides that relating to article 10 remain to be disposed of, the senate having acted today on the seventh of the list of 14 adopted last November. The reservations voted on was that exempting the United States from paying expenses of the league of nations without congressional action and it was re-adopted 46 to 23, after a proviso had been added excluding from the stipulation the office expenses and salary of the secretary-general.

MANY CANDIDATES FILE

STATE POLITICAL BAY TREE IS FLOURISHING.

Bert Haney and Dr. C. J. Smith Would Like to Attend Democratic National Convention.

SALEM, Or., March 6.—(Special.)—Bert E. Haney, until recently United States district attorney with headquarters at Portland, has filed with the secretary of state his declaration of intention to become a candidate for delegate at large to the democratic national convention to be held in San Francisco in June.

Mr. Haney says in his platform: "I believe that the theory of government taught by Thomas Jefferson furnishes the only sound basis for the conduct of our government; that the best interests of our people will be served by a continuation of the policies of the Wilson administration, and that it is imperative that our government enter the league of nations."

Al Waugh of Toledo, Lincoln county, has announced his candidacy for delegate to the democratic national convention. Mr. Waugh asks that the following be printed after his name on the ballot: "Your man is my man for president—let's elect him." Edison I. Ballagh of Columbia county would again represent the people of his district in the state legislature, according to his declaration of candidacy filed with the secretary of state. Mr. Ballagh's platform follows:

"Work for a change in the state highway system, so the main feeders to the state highways will receive state aid." Mr. Ballagh would have the following printed after his name on the ballot: "Economic, conservative and constructive legislation. He is a republican."

T. H. Coyne of Tillamook, seeks to serve as district attorney of his home county. "Enforce the laws impartially and for the best interest of the general public," is the platform he sets out in his declaration. He would have the following printed after his name on the ballot: "Justice to all alike." Mr. Coyne is a republican.

W. M. Duncan, 218 Conner avenue, Klamath Falls, has filed for district attorney of Klamath county at the democratic primary election. "Present district attorney, candidate for second term," is his slogan.

S. L. Burnaugh, 1500 River street, Enterprise, is a candidate for representative from the 24th representative district at the democratic primaries. In his platform, Mr. Burnaugh says he would continue to work for the best interest of the people of his district. His slogan reads: "Americanism, progress, economy, for the public and not for the special interests."

Frank P. Farrell of Medford would serve the people of Jackson county in the capacity of district attorney. Mr. Farrell is a republican. His platform reads: "Will support the constitution of the United States and of the state of Oregon, and will enforce the law." He asks that the following be printed after his name on the ballot: "An impartial enforcement of the law."

Dr. C. J. Smith of Portland would attend the democratic national convention as a delegate at large. He has neither platform nor slogan.

LABOR REPORT PRESENTED

CONFERENCE SAYS PROBLEM OF EACH PLANT SEPARATE.

Specific Recommendations Made as to Wages, Hours of Work and Women in Industry.

WASHINGTON, March 6.—The proper place to grapple with the labor problem is in the individual plant, the second industrial conference will tell President Wilson in its final report. The conference adjourned today after having held 30 sessions since its first meeting. Debatable, the report adopted unanimously, will go to the president next week.

Specific recommendations regarding hours of work, wages, women and children in industry, unemployment and similar problems have been made, and a definite stand on collective bargaining, the rock on which the first conference came to grief, has been taken. The final report makes some modifications of the organization for adjusting disputes, suggested in its preliminary statement December 19, but leaves intact the national industrial board and the regional boards of inquiry and adjustment. The final report also deals broadly with the general field of industrial relations and undertakes to prevent industrial disputes by recommending elimination of the causes of disagreement. Plans for shop organizations to facilitate voluntary adjustments between capital and labor are suggested.

STOMACH FELT AS THOUGH IT WERE ON FIRE

Sight, smell and taste are all necessary for good digestion and the fullest enjoyment of food, but there is little enjoyment in eating for the person who knows that, no matter how good his food may look, taste or smell, indigestion pains, gas and sleeplessness will follow. Indigestion is one of the very common symptoms of an anemic or bloodless condition. Increased quantities of blood are drawn to the stomach during digestion. If the blood is weak the digestive processes are incomplete, and pain, nervousness and a bloated, suffocating feeling are inevitable to be down.

It follows that if the condition of the blood is improved digestion will be benefited and the distress will end. Proof of the value of this treatment is found in the experience of Mrs. John Lee of No. 819 South Seventeenth street, Omaha, Neb.

"My blood was very weak and I tried for a long time to find the right medicine," Mrs. Lee said, when seen at her home recently. "I suffered terrible pains in my stomach after each meal and my food stayed in my stomach for hours in an undigested state. Gas formed and I had spells of suffocation and it seemed as though I wouldn't be able to get another breath. Sometimes my stomach felt as though it was on fire. My nerves were so strung and I couldn't sleep on account of the distress. In the morning I was little better and often just dragged myself around until forced to lie down."

"After several preparations had failed to help me I heard about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began the treatment. In a few days I was convinced that I had found the right remedy at last. The stomach distress became less severe and I seemed to have more strength. Continued treatment resulted in my complete recovery. I can eat a good meal now without suffering, I sleep well and no longer have headaches. My nerves are in fine shape, too. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills proved the very thing for me and I shall never again be without them. My husband has taken the pills on my recommendation and they have helped him, too. I can supply you with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills or you can order direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box. Write for the free booklet, 'What to Eat and How to Eat.'—Adv.
