

IDAHO CONVENTION BECKONS POLITICIAN

Coeur d'Alene Is Mecca of Republican Party.

HARMONY SIGNS LACKING

Borah and Wood Backers Opposed and Clash Likely to See Who Will Win Delegation.

BOISE, Idaho, April 24.—(Special.)—Coeur d'Alene is the Mecca of delegates from 14 counties in the state republican party leaders, officeholders and office-seekers, this week, for on Wednesday the state convention which will name eight delegates to the republican national convention, will be held. While party leaders are hopeful that the gathering will prove to be a harmonious one, signs are not lacking that there will be a clash among those entitled to seats in the convention, for there is a division of sentiment as to what action the delegates should take in selecting the delegates. This sentiment can be classified as follows: Those delegates who desire a delegation that will stand by and vote for Leonard Wood or who insist that men favorable to Wood be placed on the delegation, and, second, those delegates who insist on an unattached delegation at the head of which shall be United States Senator Borah and representative men of the party friendly to him.

The word that reached Idaho from Washington during last week, that Wood's managers had sent word that every effort should be put forth to prevent Senator Borah from being named a delegate from his home state, thus barring him from the national convention floor, so that he cannot present his views on the league of nations, has aroused his friends to action.

Republican party leaders declare that it would be the most absurd thing ever attempted in the history of Idaho politics to purposely attempt to prevent a senator of Borah's prominence from heading the delegation from his own state. Aside from the absurd feature they point out, they assert it would be a most unwise political move from a party standpoint.

Senator Borah has repeatedly demonstrated that he is entrenched in the confidence of the electors. At the last general election he led the ticket in Idaho with the largest plurality ever given a republican candidate, or more than 30,000 votes.

Irrespective of the alleged instructions the Wood people are said to have received, it is not likely that an effort will be made to bar Senator Borah from the delegation. If it is made, the Borah supporters are well organized to combat it, they say. It is said to be more than likely that they will accept Borah as a member of the delegation rather than attempt to arouse such bitter antagonism, but if they have the votes will endeavor to name known Wood men to travel to Chicago on the same delegation with him, or they may offer to instruct Idaho's eight delegates for Borah with the understanding that they are to go to whom they please after being released. This, it is pointed out, would permit them to vote for Wood as Borah is not an announced candidate.

That such an arrangement will not be satisfactory to either Senator Borah or to his friends over the state is well known. They say that to attempt to name Borah on an unattached delegation, with all the other delegates pronounced Wood men would be embarrassing to the senator and decidedly inconsistent.

COREANS DEFY JAPAN

RACE WILL NEVER SUBMIT TO RULE, IS DECLARATION. Open Revolt Until Independence Is Finally Won Is Promised by Baron Kim Ka-chin.

SHANGHAI.—The Koreans will suffer extermination before they will acquiesce in the rule of Japan, declares Baron Kim Ka-chin, formerly one of Korea's elder statesmen, and officials who has penetrated the Japanese cordon around Korea. He is now one of the members of the little community of Korean refugees who have found haven here in China.

"There can be no peace," he said. "The Koreans will never waver. They may not win for many years, but they will never yield."

He declared that the people are entirely without rights and without political representation. All special privileges are in the hands of the Japanese, he added, and they control all the sources of wealth and rapidly are acquiring actual ownership of the land. The Korean nation, he said, is without a mouthpiece, for he asserted that no Korean newspaper existed by Koreans permitted to exist and public meetings are wholly forbidden.

"Not more than three people, even for social purposes, may gather and talk together," he said. "All of the schools of the country are under the direction of Japanese teachers and the instruction is given in the Japanese language from Japanese text books."

He said that the history that is taught to children is garbled in such a way as to glorify Japan and discredit Korea.

"Japan's course," he declared, "has been driving the people out of Korea into Manchuria at the rate of 100,000 a year. This is because the Japanese have taken control of everything. They operate the railways, the banks, transportation lines and customs offices and in those few places where there are Korean officials the Japanese adviser is never far distant."

"Even the Japanese ricksha coolies are favored for they are permitted to solicit fares at exits of railway stations and other places from which the Korean ricksha men are barred."

"Japanese servants in private homes are empowered to check expenditures in these homes and to forbid any of which they do not approve and the Korean who desires to withdraw money he has deposited in a bank must first obtain permission from the police to do so."

"Since the revolution started," Baron Kim said, "the jails have been filled to overflowing and thousands have been put to the torture. But the people have never wavered and this is why students have thrown themselves into the streets with bare breasts when police and military turned upon them. The people may die. They will never yield."

ISTHMIAN CASE REVIVED

COLOMBIA AGAIN PROTESTS U. S. "INJUSTICE."

Treaty of April 6, 1914, Expressing "Regret" and Offering 25 Millions, Not Ratified.

BUENOS AIRES.—La Epoca, organ of the government party in Argentina, has just published a communication from the Colombian legation giving the text of resolutions adopted by the senate and house of representatives of Colombia on November 2 last, protesting against the alleged infringement by the United States of Colombia's rights over the Isthmus of Panama. The resolution of the Colombian senate reads:

"This being the sixteenth anniversary of the rebellion of Panama, fomented and supported by the government of the United States of America, with manifest infringement of a public treaty, the senate of the republic interprets public opinion in declaring, once more, that the rights of Colombia over the Isthmus of Panama are imprescriptible, and in protesting, as it does protest, before the civilized world, against the causes which have impeded the use and defense of its rights.

"Colombia reaffirms solemnly today its right to all and each one of the portions of territory bestowed upon it by its liberators, and, whatever be the answer, which time shall bring to the hopes of vindication, that its cause is the cause of justice and civilization, that of the sovereignty and integrity of nations.

"The senate, in making this protest and these declarations, expresses the wish to see substituted by the action of equity and justice the proceedings which have limited and made nugatory the rights of weak nations."

The resolution of the house, expressing similar sentiments, complains against the failure of the United States senate to approve the treaty of April 6, 1914, and protests against the proposed celebration of a new pact "quite foreign" to the April 6, convention.

By the treaty of April 6, 1914, the United States would have expressed "regret" and paid Colombia $25,000,000 for its action in Panama. That treaty has not been approved by the United States senate.

DREAD MALADY STUDIED

SLEEPING SICKNESS HISTORY LINKED WITH INFLUENZA.

Italian Professor Says Millions Needed for Experimentation in Nature of Disease.

ROME.—Sleeping sickness, or sleeping headache, as the Italian scientists prefer to call the malady which has appeared in Rome and several other Italian cities, is believed by Professor Giuseppe Sanarelli, the distinguished Italian bacteriologist, to be the same as that which followed other waves of influenza. Pope Benedict XIII died from influenza in 1730. The after-effects of the epidemic at that time were so harmful that his successor Benedict XIV, waiving the fasting of churchmen during Lent, and similar action was taken by Pope Leo XIII in 1890, when there was another wave of influenza, or grippe.

Professor Sanarelli, who has been studying the disease, says that the best way to avoid sleeping sickness is to keep the powers of resistance up to the highest point as it seems to attack chiefly persons who are in a run-down condition. He also warns the public not to be unduly alarmed about the disease, and says he is unwilling to concede it is highly communicable or contagious until the actual cause of the malady is determined. And he does not think the germ will be discovered until after extensive experimentation with the brain of monkeys, as an expensive work that it can be carried out only with the aid of the millions of some philanthropic millionaire, like John D. Rockefeller.

Professor Sanarelli says because of the sporadic appearance of the disease it is reasonable to assume that many persons carry the germs but are immune to the disease until there is some sudden let-down in their physical condition which overcomes their power of resistance. As the malady always makes its appearance at the same season as infantile paralysis and cerebro-spinal meningitis, or spotted fever, and as it persists in reappearing occasionally between epidemics, Professor Sanarelli says it is not strange that it is frequently believed to be identical with them. However, he thinks it is quite a distinct disease, as it is confined chiefly to adults and does not leave the serious effects of cerebro-spinal meningitis.

The malady has been diagnosed in widely scattered parts of the world in 1917, 1918 and 1919. At least two cases were reported from English cities in 1918, but it died out in June. Until this year it had not been reported in Italy since 1859 and 1890, when it appeared in Mantua. Many persons died then after a few days, sometimes ever hours, of lethargic sleep which could not be overcome. Bulgaria also had an epidemic at that time, and cases occurred in the United States.

In most cases the illness begins with mental depression, which is followed by sleepiness, which develops into complete prostration. Drooping of the eyelids and frequently a crossing of the eyes occur. Loud talk and even shaking will not arouse patients suffering acutely with the malady, who answer incoherently to all inquiries and fall immediately into sleep again. The face is generally colorless and devoid of expression.

Professor Sanarelli is a member of the faculty of the University of Bologna and was formerly professor of micro-biology and public hygiene at the University of Montevideo. He was also formerly under secretary of state for agriculture in Italy.

IMITATION FOODS DESCRIBED.

VIENNA.—People of this city are beginning to find out what they have been eating in various imitation foods. Experts who have investigated the composition of certain foodstuffs now on sale have reported that egg substitutes are made largely of flour, that "liver sausages," beloved by the Viennese, are based on wheat dissolved and seasoned and that some cheese is a preparation of potatoes milled with to get the proper taste. Tinned horse meat is the latest "delicacy" to appear in the shops.

SALVATION ARMY WANTED

BUILDINGS OFFERED FREE IN CZECHO-SLOVAKIA.

Bulgaria and Poland May Be "Invaded"—Work in Russia Kept Up Despite Reds.

LONDON.—The people of the new countries like Czecho-Slovakia are turning to the Salvation Army in a remarkable manner, says General Bramwell Booth, head of the army. The army never has had an organization in Czecho-Slovakia, and so anxious is the government of that country to get the army installed that all necessary buildings for the work have been offered free.

Bulgaria and Poland probably will be "invaded" shortly by this friendly army. Both of these countries are new territory for the Salvationists. The Vienna government has requested the Salvation Army to assist in the relief work in Austria, and General Booth has sent a commission to Vienna to investigate the feasibility of embarking on this labor. The German government has asked him to co-operate with it in supplying milk in Germany, and he expressed the hope that the army might be able to do this.

General Booth disclosed the fact that the Salvation Army has never ceased work in Bolshevik Russia, despite conditions there. The army has six or seven establishments in Petrograd and twice as many in other sections of the country. Apparently the reds have not been troubling the army workers, all of whom, it is pointed out, are Russians or Finns. The British workers having been withdrawn. The army, among other things, is looking after war orphans and doing such rescue work as it can.
