

JOHNSON'S LEAD IN STATE IS 1759

Incomplete Count Not Bright For Wood.

LOWDEN RUNNING THIRD

Abraham Is Defeated by Stanfield by More Than Two to One.

KOZER FIRST FOR SECRETARY

Buchtel Is More Than Two- to-One Favorite for Serv- ice Commission.

At midnight, upon the basis of complete returns from several counties and incomplete returns from all other counties except two small ones, Johnson and Wood were running neck and neck outside of Multnomah county. At that hour, however, Johnson had a lead of more than 1500 votes over Wood in Multnomah county. While the result was still in doubt, the indications were favorable for Johnson as the plurality choice for presidential candidate of Oregon republicans.

The vote as herein given was complete for all but about 30 precincts in Multnomah out of a total of 413, and the entire vote was probably more than 60 per cent of that cast in the state as a whole.

Missing Figures Scattered.

Due to the fact that the missing figures were scattered among districts of varying sentiment as between the two candidates, the outlook that Wood could make up the gap between him and Johnson was not particularly bright for the Wood supporters. The figures counted at midnight gave Johnson a lead over Wood of 1759, and of this lead all but 121 was from Multnomah county.

Relative Standings Given.

The vote on all candidates stood: Presidential preference, republican: Johnson 37,428. Wood 35,669. Lowden 12,908. Hoover 12,305.

For vice-president, Henry Cabot Lodge had a lead of more than 22,000 on the incomplete returns, with Elwood Washington running second. The figures were for the state at large, including Multnomah county: Lodge 32,529. Washington 10,301. Webster 9,226. Lodge's lead 22,228.

For United States senator, Robert N. Stanfield has defeated Albert Abraham by a more than 2-to-1 vote. The incomplete totals were for the state at large, including Multnomah: Stanfield 52,156. Abraham 22,863. Stanfield's lead 29,493.

MR. OLCOTT AT BLAINE IS READY FOR HOP-OFF

GOVERNOR TO START FLIGHT TO STOCKTON TODAY.

Seattle Club Captures Oregon Executive and Flyer and Calls for Several Speeches.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 22.—Accompanied by Governor Ben W. Olcott of Oregon as a passenger, Lieutenant R. M. Kelly, ninth aero squadron, who tomorrow will attempt a one-day flight from Blaine, Wash., to Stockton, Cal., hopped off from Kent, Wash., between Seattle and Tacoma, late this afternoon for Blaine. Governor Olcott, it was announced, will accompany Lieutenant Kelly on the flight to Stockton. Lieutenant Kelly arrived at Kent last night from Eugene, Or. Governor Olcott joined him at Salem, Or., on the trip north.

Governor Olcott and Lieutenant Kelly hopped off for Blaine, Wash., at 4:29 o'clock. They reached there at 5:30. It had been planned to leave at 1 o'clock. As Governor Olcott and Lieutenant Kelly were leaving their hotel in Seattle they were called to take them to the aviation field, a committee of the Aero Club of the Northwest steered them to another plane and instead of going to the field landed them at the Arctic club where a large gathering was present at a luncheon in their honor. Both Governor Olcott and Lieutenant Kelly made short speeches. Governor Olcott told of the advantages of a good landing field. Seattle has none yet.

When the party finally arrived at the Munter field a large crowd awaited them. The start was made in short order. A favorable wind prevailed. Governor Olcott apparently anticipated the flight with a keen enjoyment. Calls from the crowd for a speech were in vain. As the plane sailed away it circled over the field and the governor waved to the crowd below in response to a cheer.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The population of Portland, Or., according to the 1920 census, is 258,288. It was an increase of 51,074, or 24.6 per cent. Other cities whose population was announced were:

Baltimore, Md.	733,826	Increase of 175,341, or 24.4 per cent.
Oakland, Cal.	216,351	Increase of 66,137, or 44.1 per cent.

Baltimore Shows Growth.

Baltimore ranked as the seventh most populous city in the United States in 1910, with 538,445 inhabitants. It was 24,000 larger than Pittsburgh, eighth city, whose 1920 census is 538,123.

Portland, Or., took rank as the 25th city in 1910, with 207,214 inhabitants. The Oregon metropolis then was about 6000 smaller than Denver, 27th city, which has reported 258,369, or an increase of 20.1 per cent for 1920.

Columbus, O., ranking as 19th city, just below Portland, has not been reported yet, while the population of Toledo, O., 50th city, is 243,109, or an increase of 44.3 per cent in 1920. Louisville, 24th city, has 224,081 population and St. Paul, 26th city, 224,595 this year.

Oakland, Cal., ranked as 32d city in 1910, with a population of 150,174.

Portland first was recognized as a town in 1845 when it was composed of but 16 city blocks. To gain some idea of the primitive nature of Portland in those days, one must remember that Broadway, the present main artery of the city, was the western edge of the town and that Tenth street was considered far distant from the embryo city.

The first census of Portland was taken in 1850 when 821 persons were counted as being residents of the town. At the time this enumeration was taken the city was the original townsite of 16 city blocks, but a year later it was enlarged to include a square mile of territory, whereas today the city of Portland includes approximately 66 square miles.

Portland has always shown a rapid growth.

KAISER'S TRINKETS NOT IN BIG DEMAND

GEORGEOUS GOLD HANGINGS OF THRONEROOM SOLD.

Ivory Beer Mug, Bringing $200, Causes Only Spirited Bidding at New York Auction.

NEW YORK, May 22.—Americans today evinced no great determination to become possessors of articles once belonging to ex-Kaiser Wilhelm.

Seven lots of gold-embroidered velvet hangings from the throneroom of the imperial palace at Berlin were knocked down under the auctioneer's hammer here today for only $395.

The gorgeous hangings, embroidered with imperial Prussian eagles, brought a mere $35 to $75 each, or about $5.65 for each royal bird.

The entire collection, valued at about $50,000, went for $7877.50. Dealers and professional buyers bid in most of the articles.

Spirited bidding, however, met the offer of one of the ex-kaiser's carved ivory beer mugs from the Bavarian chateau at Munich. It was bought by Paul Block, an advertising man, for a private purchase. He paid $200 for it, and after the sale announced that he had been instructed "not to let it get away under $2500."

DEMOCRATS SHIFT TO COX OF OHIO

Party Leaders Change Front Again.

M'ADOO PLACED IN DISCARD

Wilson's Oregon Telegram Causes Reaction.

WASHINGTON, May 22.—The democratic situation has changed again. Being wholly a matter of leaders and not a matter of primaries, it is easy for the democratic situation to change.

The naming of the democratic candidate is within the power, broadly speaking, of the 52 members of the national committee, plus as many other leaders, official or unofficial, as would make a total of, roughly, 100.

The consequence is that what is spoken of as "the democratic situation" changes as the minds of these men change. Every once in a while some of them come together in Washington, formally and informally, and exchange views and information. In proportion as their information varies and their views change, the democratic situation shifts. Last February it was all Palmer. From a week or two ago it was all McAdoo. Today it is all Cox.

It is fairly certain to be strongly affected by what the republicans do. But as it is today, the outstanding factors are two: first, a complete about-face from the recent intention to name McAdoo, and second, a strong consensus of feeling in favor of Cox.

Wilson's Telegram Resented.

There is a reason for the change of front on McAdoo. One day last week President Wilson gave out his Oregon telegram, insisting that the democrats must condemn the Lodge reservations to the league of nations must stand by the league in its original form, and must guarantee "the territorial integrity" of the nations of Europe. The net effect of this telegram on the democratic leaders throughout the country is one of resentment and hostility; and they are now disposed to give expression to their feeling against Wilson's act by refusing the nomination to his son-in-law. In this there is not much logic—but there is emotion. And for the moment it is emotion that is moving the democratic leaders.

Not all the democratic leaders were offended by the Wilson telegram. A few really believe as he does about the league, and a few others think that whatever their convictions as to the league may be it is good party policy to stand by the president. But the bulk of the democratic leaders are outraged by Mr. Wilson's act. They think he is considering himself alone that he is looking primarily to making a record for posterity, and that he is leaving out of consideration the important matter of electing democrats to congress this year, which may not mean much to posterity, but, in their view, is the immediate business of the present generation of democrats.

New York Hostile to McAdoo.

At the present moment the democratic organization of McAdoo's own state, New York, is implacably hostile to him. They may shift this attitude again before the convention meets. Either through change of feeling or for other motives, they may yet decide to give their votes to the candidate.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 22.—One person dead and more than 10 injured was the toll of two tornadoes that late today swept Castle Rock, Minn., a town of 200 population, 60 miles south of here, and a strip of countryside near Red Wing, Minn.

Five persons were injured at Castle Rock when a number of buildings were struck, while the second storm wrecked the farm home of Godsey Swanson, near Red Wing, killing his 11-month-old son and injuring Swanson, his wife and her sister.

Harm buildings in northern Stole county and southeastern Rice county were wrecked.

Telephone officials in St. Paul reported total suspension of service of towers in the immediate vicinity of Castle Rock, which is between Northfield and Farmington.

MULTNOMAH FAVORS DEATH FOR MURDER

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT MEAS- URE LEADS BY 1367.

Local Bonding Bill, Eminent Do- main and Four Per Cent Debt Carried in County.

Voters in Multnomah county centered special attention on the measure to restore capital punishment, the much advertised 4 per cent road bonding bill and the state elementary tax.

Indications are that the voters of Multnomah county favor capital punishment by a small majority, on the basis of returns from 358 precincts in the county.

The children's bill, to levy a 2-mill tax for the support of elementary schools has overwhelmingly carried in Multnomah county, having a majority of over 25,000.

The measure to establish a blind school at Portland seems to have the record majority, more than 41,000 votes, and less than 5000 votes having been cast against it.

The millage bill for higher educational institutions seems to have carried in Multnomah county by a substantial margin, early this morning having a lead of more than 19,000. The soldiers' bill carried by 29,000.

Provision by which a successor to the governor could be appointed in case of need has been provided by the voters of Multnomah county, the successor to the governor measure having a majority early this morning of 24,000.

Crook and Curry counties' bonding amendment, by which those counties plan to redeem their warrants, was recognized by the voters as purely a local measure affecting those counties, and carried by a majority of more than 19,000.

Comparatively small opposition was made to the measure permitting logging roads to extend through private property, and known as eminent domain, leaves Multnomah county with a majority of 30,000.

A smashing defeat has been given to all the measures provided for the relief of the Portland Railway, Light & Power company.

PHelps Near Korrell.

Complete returns from 400 precincts in Multnomah county, with all but 13 accounted for, showing the following 12 high men for the representative end of the legislative ticket: Wells, Leonard, Kubli, North, Lee, Richards, Hosford, Gordon, McFarland, Hindman, Lynn, and Korrell. The thirteenth man is Phelps, who is eight votes behind Korrell, with Lonergan running fourteenth and Katz next. The returns from the 13 missing precincts will probably change only the result on Lynn and Korrell.

Delegates at large to the national convention, four to elect, show on the returns from the 400 completed precincts McCanant, Olson, Macdonald and Carey, and delegates from the third congressional district are Johnstone and Walker, with Dunne in third place.

The legislative senate ticket, as now formed, consists of Joseph Moser, Farrell, Staples and Cellars. Huse, who is sixth, may or may not gain enough in the uncounted 13 precincts to edge Cellars off the ticket.

Kozer Far in Front.

For secretary of state Kozer is running wild in Multnomah, having a lead of 4170 over Lockley, his nearest rival.
