ORANGE OWL SELLS FAST

New Humorous College Publication at O. A. C. Makes Big Hit.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, May 22.—(Special.)—

Orange Owl, a new humorous 24-page college magazine, made its first appearance on the campus Thursday with 1000 copies for distribution. Before 8:30 every copy had been sold and students were beginning for copies, offering as much as a dollar for them.

It is planned that two or three numbers will be published next year and possibly later it may become a monthly, similar to the Harvard Lampoon and Washington Sun-dodger. Cartoons, sketches, cuts and prose and verse form the main features of the paper.

The board of editors, acting with two advisory faculty members, are: Willis F. Lathrop, Portland, editor-in-chief; Milton C. Dent, Amity, Or., associate editor; and M. C. Jasper, Baker, Or., business manager. The editorial staff includes Charles Webster, Portland; H. M. Ritter, Pasadena, Cal.; James E. Fitzgerald, Sioux City, Ia.; and Wellington Green, Pasadena, Ca.

Members of the business staff are Robert H. Watt, Bay City, Or.; Donald Morse, Portland; Leo Spittbart, Salem; William Young, Seattle; Wash. T. H. Smith, Pasadena, Cal.; Alvin Hobart, Silverton, Or.; and John Gray, Palo Alto, Cal. Advisory members are Dean M. E. Smith and Professor E. T. Reed.

DIVINE HEALERS ARRIVE

SERIES OF MEETINGS TO OPEN TODAY AT AUDITORIUM.

Head of Sect Declares Nothing Unexplainable in Cures Effected by Ministers of Faith.

Ministers of the International Apostolic congress, the faith which advocates and distinguishes divine healing by the laying on of hands, will begin a series of healing meetings today at the auditorium.

Rev. John G. Lake, who heads the series of divine healers who today open services in Portland at the auditorium.

The Auditorium, having arrived from the city where headquarters of the sect is located. Heading the healers is Rev. John G. Lake, president of the international, who until a few weeks ago was stationed at Johannesburg, South Africa. With Rev. Mr. Lake are Rev. George Halford and Rev. Charles B. LeDoux, who will assist in the services to be held here today, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, afternoons and evenings.

According to Rev. Mr. Lake there is nothing unexplainable in the remarkable cures effected by ministers of his faith. Healing of any and all diseases, he says, as worked in conformity with the Bible and the divine teaching of Christ. Fees are not charged, the healing being done on a basis of faith.

At the services in Portland to testify to the work of the international, the Rev. Mr. Lake, who is a hospital matron of Spokane and Mrs. Carter, wife of a Spokane policeman. Both women say they have been completely restored to health by the divine healing after they were given up as incurable.

Those who come to the disciples of the international for healing are prayed over. According to Rev. Lake the cure oftentimes takes place immediately. On other occasions it is not effected for some time, and when this is true, there is nothing in the outcome which does not follow natural law.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Or., May 22.—(Special.)—The University of Oregon law school has lost its "supreme bench." This is a heavy wooden bench which was stationed under a big maple tree in front of the Oregon hall, the law school building. To make it doubly secure the bench had been tied to the tree with a chain rivalling those used for logging purposes. The tree is still there, but the bench and its chain are gone.

Prominent law students express indignation over the apparent act of vandalism. "Some, however, are not yet convinced that the latest 'degradation' will not soon be the subject of an action in moot court, as was the 'holdup' of a sorority house several weeks ago and the 'hibes' of three faculty tennis players by the Emerald, the student paper, this week.

Snow Gone on Tontle River. KELSO, Wash., May 22.—(Special.)—The last of the winter snow is disappearing from the Tontle River valley and the road is open all the way to Spirit lake, so that autos can drive to the resort, where preparations are being made for the accommodation of a record number of vacationists. Spirit lake is one of the finest summer and fishing resorts in the northwest.

Fire Gets Out of Control. HOOD RIVER, Or., May 22.—(Special.)—A brush fire started by neighbors broke beyond control and burned the house and barn of J. B. University Women to Try to Pass Life-Saving Requirements. UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, May 22.—(Special.)—Girls of the university are to take tests for membership in the life-saving corps next Tuesday night. The unit, with six members, was formed here last term by Commodore W. E. Longfellow of the Red Cross life-saving service.

Among the tests which the prospective members will be asked to pass will be the shedding of garments while floating in the water. The girls will be asked to go to the tests clad in ordinary garb over a bathing suit and will be expected to remove all the outer clothes while afloat.

The present membership of the corps follows: Valerie Coffey of Portland, president; Dorothy Reed of Portland, vice-president; Marian Nicolson of Portland, secretary-treasurer; Jeanette Moss of Grants Pass, Helen Nelson of Pendleton and Emily Veslie of Portland.

Castle Rock Man Marries. CASTLE ROCK, Wash., May 22.—(Special.)—Thomas H. Carnine and bride have returned from their wedding trip. They were married in Portland at the residence of the bride's mother, John Hurst, 956 Salmon street. She was formerly stenographer in the superintendent's office of Washington high school. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Carnine, of Silver Lake, and is an ex-service man, having spent two years in France.

CANBY POST CELEBRATES 34TH BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY REMEMBERED WITH FEAST.

Civil War Veterans and Families Are Served by Members of Women's Relief Corps.

HOOD RIVER, Or., May 22.—(Special.)—Canby post, Grand Army of the Republic, organized May 23, 1886, celebrated its 34th birthday anniversary at the old Knights of Pythias building today. At noon the members of Canby Woman's Relief Corps served the veterans and members of their families with a chicken dinner.

No more bountiful feast was ever provided in Hood River. Roast and fried chickens, with all accompanying delicacies, were brought from all parts of the valley.

Newton Clark, a pioneer orchardist, who passed away three years ago, was first commander. Other officers were: O. L. Stranahan, senior vice-commander; John A. Wilson, junior vice-commander; Dr. E. G. Barrett, surgeon; Rev. J. W. Eldredge, chaplain; D. G. Hill, quartermaster; A. H. Jewett, officer of the day; Russell Dealer, officer of the guard; and George P. Crowell, adjutant.

Today but three of the charter members, Joseph Frasier, Sr.; John A. Wilson and A. H. Jewett, remain members of the post.
