MAY DAY OBSERVED BY WOMEN'S COLLEGES IN VARIOUS WAYS ALL OVER COUNTRY

Pageant at Bryn Mawr Is Most Elaborate Ever Attempted—Wellesley Girls Hold Annual Hoop-rolling Event—Sweet Briar Students Honor Beautiful Queen.

Hoop Rolling Marks May Day for Wellesley Seniors.

Queen of May at Sweet Briar College, Virginia

Dean of Bryn Mawr Rides in Pageant

WOMEN'S colleges all over the country this year observed the coming of May with the time-honored ceremonies that have formed a part of the tradition of many of the larger institutions in the east. Revels, playtime and the pageant held at Bryn Mawr were the most elaborate ever attempted by the college and proceeds from them went to the endowment fund.

Dean Hilda W. Smith as "Queen Elizabeth" mounted on a richly caparisoned horse, took a leading part in the pageant. She presided over a host of gaily dressed folk who made up her court.

Even a downpour of rain could not check the ardor of seniors at Wellesley college who carried out the historic annual custom of rolling hoops to chapel on May day. This event was held at 7 A. M. Seniors who took part were Ruth Nash of Macon, Ga.; Helen Burger of Charlestown, Ill.; Olive Brenner of New York city; Laura Erve of Minneapolis; Helen Scott of Auburndale, Mass.; Ellen Barrett of Worcester, Mass.; Mabel Buxton of Maplewood, N. J.; Margaret Nettleship of St. Louis; Mildred Batchelder of Portland, Me.; Harriet Doyle of Akron, Ohio, and Marjory Bellows of New York city.

Sweet Briar college in Virginia observed its annual May day ceremony elaborately this year. Miss Helen Reason of 1759 Oak street, Columbus, Ohio, was the very beautiful queen honored by the affair.

GATTI-CASAZZA TELLS PLANS FOR NEXT MUSICAL SEASON

Wagnerian Repertory to Be Enlarged and Given in English—List of Artists Re-engaged Includes Many Famous Names.

BY EMILIE FRANCES BAUER.
NEW YORK, May 22.—(Special.)—The steamer which left the port of New York on Tuesday carried one of the greatest cargoes of celebrities in the musical world that has gone out since the days of general exodus before the war. Among the passengers were General Director Gatti-Casazza and a number of his staff as also Gino Marinuzzi, artistic director of the Chicago Opera association.

As has been his custom for several years on the eve of his departure, Gatti-Casazza broke his silence as to his plans for next season and after expressing gratitude to the public, to his co-workers both artistic and executive and to all who helped to make a season which broke all records.

Grand Opera Made to Pay.
It was also stated that the advance sale already shows a great improvement over what had come in last season by this time and when it is understood that the 297 performances brought receipts estimated at $1,800,000, it is plain that Mr. Gatti-Casazza has made grand opera pay. The director placed some emphasis upon the fact that he planned in the future, as he had done in the past, to glean from all schools, countries and periods inasmuch as variety helped to spell success. In view of the great success made by the English presentation of "Parsifal," he decided to enlarge the Wagnerian repertory by giving "Lohengrin" and "Tristan and Isolde" also in English. "The Polish Jew," a Czechoslovak opera by Karl Weiser, libretto by Victor Leon and Richard Batka, will also be done in English.

Casts have not yet been made public but it is known that Margaret Matzenauer will sing Isolde and Otruld and Florence Easton will sing Elsa. Sembach, who has taken out American papers, is a member of the company and will sing

Tristan and probably the title role of "Lohengrin." "Cecilia's Night" in English will be retained in next season's repertory.

Caruso to Be in Title Role.
At last "Louise" is announced for the regular repertory with Geraldine Farrar in the title role and all those who know Aida's capacity, charm and adaptability in French opera are awaiting her appearance in this role as well. In Italian will be given for the first time at the Metropolitan "Don Carlos" by Verdi and Giordano's "Andre Chénier" in which Caruso will have the title role. Bolto's "Mefistofele" is planned for Mme. Aida, Florence Easton and the new tenor Benjamin Gigli, said to be one of the sensations of Italy where he has sung at La Scala and he is a favorite at Monte Carlo as well. Another Italian from La Scala is the baritone Giuseppe Danise, who has also sung successfully at the Teatro Colon in Buenos Aires.

Two returning stars will be welcome to a large number of admirers at the Metropolitan. These are Emmy Destinn, soprano who has sung in this country or abroad, include Francesca Peralta (Phyllis Partington), Maria Chames, the young American tenor whose success as a member of Scott's Grand Opera company, has been nothing short of sensational; Sue Harvard, well-known and a reigning favorite in concert, oratorio and church circles. Others are Cora Chase, a coloratura soprano who has sung in Madrid; Alice Miriam, soprano who has sung in Italy; Anne Roselle, Eivira Leveroni, William Gustafson, basso and Carl Edwards, the latter as assistant conductor.

Many Artists Re-engaged.
The re-engaged artists include Mmes. Axman, Dalossy, Egner, Ellis, Farnam, Fornia, Garrison, Musico, Mellich, Morgana, Peterson, Ponzelli, Rappold, Romine, Scotney, Sparkes,

VAMPIRE TACTICS URGED

Women Urged to Study Methods of Cleopatra and Salome.
SACRAMENTO, Cal., The way for a wife to defeat the modern vampire is to "vamp" her own husband, Miss Susan B. Smith, who addressed the California Federation of Women's Clubs, proposed the plan, not in so many words but in a very direct suggestion.

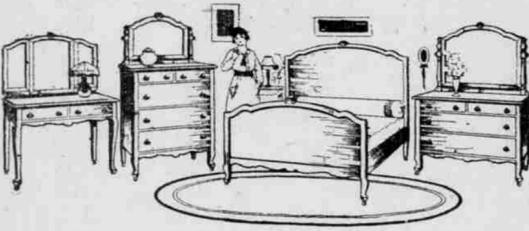

"If women would study the lives of such women as Cleopatra, Sappho and Salome," she said, "I think that husbands would be far more anxious to stay at home nights."

Miss Smith attributed the "baneful influence" of the vampire type of woman to her knowledge of men, and urged clubwomen to apply the vampire test in efforts to interest and hold the attention of men.

"The wise woman, especially the wife, should aim to add to her graces the pretty artifices of the 'vamp,' as exemplified by the great classical characters among the world's women. There is such a thing as harm in this attitude and it has been traced to a level which women scorn. But women have made a mistake in their scorn. Those wives who practiced the pretty artifices of the classical characters who have held the attention and interest of men have had little trouble in keeping their husbands at home."
