GENERAL FLEES IN CART

AIDE TO GENERAL OBREGON HIDES IN SACKS.

Mystery Surrounds Fate of Roberto Cejudo; Carranza's Nephew Kills Self.

MEXICO CITY, June 5.—One of the exciting incidents preceding the revolt against President Carranza was the escape of General Benjamin Hill, chief lieutenant of General Alvaro Obregon, who fled from the capital hidden in a pile of sacks in a milk wagon.

General Hill vanished from the capital on the same night as did General Obregon. April 13. The wagon in which Hill was hidden was stopped by the police in the suburbs of the capital because it did not carry a light. While the driver was bribing the policeman to pass the lightless vehicle, General Hill dropped out of the back of the wagon and hid in the shadow of a building until the policeman was mollified. Then the general crawled back into the wagon and continued his flight.

Mystery surrounding the fate of Roberto Cejudo, to testify in whose trial General Obregon was summoned to the capital, furnished one of the tragic high lights of the Carranza evacuation. With General Arnulfo Gonzalez, captured by Carranza government agents near Nuevo Laredo on April 20, and the aged rebel General Gaudencio de la Llave, Cejudo was taken from the military prison of Santiago Tlatelcoco here the night of May 6, when the Carranza adherents fled. Whether he was taken on the Carranza trains the next day and escaped, or whether he was executed, together with the two others, remains a mystery. None of them has been located, although several other generals, arrested prior to the evacuation, have returned to Mexico City.

Cejudo was arrested, with his staff and 150 followers, at Jalapa, V. C., on March 28, after he had surrendered, received amnesty, been given the rank of general in the Mexican army and placed in command of a district near Jalapa, where previously he had led a revolt against the Carranza government for six years. He was charged with surrendering merely to secure arms and munitions with which to aid Felix Diaz.

The Carranza government charged that he had offered to aid Obregon, but Obregon, in an interview given the Associated Press, branded the Cejudo charges as a scheme to bring him to Mexico City, involve him in charges of treason and block his campaign for the presidency.

The progress of Ygnacio Bonilla, formerly Mexican ambassador to the United States and Carranza's candidate for the presidency, from the Mexican embassy in Washington to a camp in the jungles of Vera Cruz and back to a prison in Mexico City, was reported here to have figured in a shooting affray which occurred on March 28 near Tlalpam, a suburb of Mexico City, which the papers supporting his candidacy intimated was an attempt to kidnap him.

The special train carrying him to Guadalajara was stopped near the city by a missing rail. He reached Guadalajara safely, but the incident was the basis for numerous alarming reports. Then came his flight from Mexico City with Carranza, starting May 7, and ending in a dash from the beleaguered trains on May 14.

His good fortune saved him from death when Carranza was slain in the camp at Tlaxcalantongo, and he was brought here to be imprisoned until the provisional president decided his fate.

When Captain Felipe Sanchez Carranza was captured near Texcoco, a suburb of Mexico City, after he had been injured while making a forced landing in his big bombing plane, he shot himself. Captain Sanchez was a nephew of President Carranza. He attempted to reach Vera Cruz via the air route when Mexico City was evacuated on May 7.
