

CLOSING CEREMONY IS HELD ON LAWN

36 Seniors Receive Diplomas
at Reed College.

ALUMNI RANKS INCREASED

Professor Coulter Gives Address on Transformation of Spirit
Wrought by War.

Thirty-six seniors received diplomas at Reed college yesterday at the sixth annual commencement exercises. Several hundred visitors witnessed the ceremony which was conducted in the lawn under ideal conditions of weather. John Merle Coulter, professor of botany at the University of Chicago, and widely known as author and orator, delivered an address on "Progress Through Co-operation." Hudson Bridge Hastings, professor of economics at Reed and chairman of the faculty committee on administration, presented the diplomas on behalf of faculty and regents.

"The transformation wrought by the war as regards the spirit of co-operation is impressive," said Dr. Coulter. "Formerly in the realm of scientific investigation, men competed with and were jealous of each other. They believed in competition and they progressed little. The war introduced a spirit of co-operation, and the achievements of American war scientists attest to the success of the move. 'Now that peace has come, we need a moral substitute for war. The schools and colleges of the country must rise to the need.' And the spirit should not be limited by national bounds. Nations today have for their motto, 'Get what you can and give what you must.' And men must suffer for the sins of the nation."

Dr. Coulter closed with a warning to his auditors to avoid unequal emphasis of the powers of body, mind and spirit.

Address of Welcome Delivered.

The opening prayer was delivered by Norman F. Coleman, formerly head of the Reed college English department. William M. Ladd, president of the board of regents, gave an address of welcome on behalf of trustees and regents.

Professor Hastings conferred the degree of bachelor of arts on one senior in biology, presented by Professor H. R. Torrey, department head; three in the department of chemistry presented by Professor William C. Morgan; seven in economics, three in education, four in psychology, three in sociology and one general, presented by Harold C. Gray, on behalf of the department heads; seven in English, presented by Professor Ralph Boas, department head; three in politics, presented by Charles McKinley, instructor in government; two in physics, presented by Professor A. A. Knowlton, and two in physical education, presented by Dorothy Elliott, head of the department of physical education for women.

Seniors marched to the platform and upon receiving their diplomas, became members of the Reed Alumni association as they changed their cap tassels from left to right, traditional graduation procedure. With the ceremony, members of each class advanced to the standing they will have at the opening of college in September, and 26 names were added to the alumni roll which was read at the annual business meeting of the Reed Alumni association. The afternoon was spent in discussing affairs of alumni interest and electing officers for the year.

Dancing Shows on Lawn.

Commencement festivities were concluded with an exhibition of aesthetic dancing on the lawn, given by girls in the department of physical education, under the direction of Mrs. H. C. Gray.

Seniors who received their diplomas Saturday are: Howard Hopkirk, president of Portland Maritime Union, vice-president, Alhambra, Cal.; Harvey Engelson, secretary-treasurer, Boise, Idaho; Hazel Browne, Portland; Elmer Chapman, Oregon City; Emma Clausen, The Dalles; Callista Elliot, Portland; Franklin Portland; William Goddard, Portland; George Henry, Portland; Esther Hettlinger, Portland; Arthur Houser, Hood River, Or.; Herbert Huff, Rickard, Or.; Kenneth Irie, Portland; Jessie Laird, Portland; Jack Levin, Portland; Hazel Murray, Clallam Bay, Wash.; Robert Osborn, Prineville, Or.; Doris Padgham, River Hills, Or.; Vivian Patterson, Merrill, Or.; Loraine Peterson, Portland; Martin Peterson, Portland; Helen Pugh, Grant, Or.; Dorothy Poor, Burlingame, Cal.; Kirk Prindle, Spirit Lake, Idaho; Glenn Quist, Tacoma, Wash.; Bruce Shaw, Vancouver, Wash.; Lucille Skene, Goddard; Isabella Strain, Seattle, Wash.; Charles Swift, Portland; Emma Thompson, Hecla, Or.; Margaretie Twenty, Clackamas, Or.; George Watt, Portland; Esther Westlock, Portland; Rawn Wheelodon, Nasel, Wash.; Charles Wilson, Linnton, Or.

TWO GIRLS SENT TO JAIL

Salesman of Imperial Hotel Has Pocket Picked.

Rose Blake and Pan Davis, who were declared to have picked the pocket of R. G. Graham, salesman, of the Imperial hotel, Thursday night at the intersection of Park and Davis streets, taking his purse and $40 were given 100 days each on charges of vagrancy yesterday by Municipal Judge Roseman. John H. Stevenson, attorney for the two, immediately gave notice of appeal and their bail was set at $500 each.

Graham told the judge he was taking a walk at the time and the two girls came up. He said immediately afterwards he missed his purse. The girls were arrested by Inspectors Maloney and Sculpin when they were seen running down the street.

ARSON BELIEVED TRIED

Private Garage Discovered on Fire
by Truck Drivers.

Captain Roberts, assistant fire marshal, is making an investigation of what seemed to be an effort on the part of someone to burn down the private garage of Harry J. Deje, 655 Savier street, early yesterday morning.

Two truck drivers for the Columbia Digger company passed the place early yesterday morning and found the garage on fire. The fire alarm was sounded and the flames put out before the structure was badly damaged.

A bottle which apparently had contained gasoline, was left sitting in front of the structure and it was apparent that gasoline had been poured over the door.

PORTLANDER DIES AT SEA

Nine Hours in Water When Vessel
Sinks Results Fatally.

Julian Norman Bachman, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Bachman, 719 Girard street, died at sea May 9, last, from exposure as a result of the sinking of the bark Windrush, on which he was an able-bodied seaman, when the vessel was run down and sunk by the steamer Buenos Aires 1000 miles east of Sandy Hook. He had been in the water more than nine hours and died shortly after he had been taken aboard another vessel which stood by during the night but which failed to lower lifeboats until morning.

Julian was born at Stanton, Mich., March 16, 1903, but came to Portland with his parents in 1909. He had graduated from the Portsmouth public school and had attended Jefferson high school for one year. He had always wanted to follow the sea and had been working studiously to the end that he might become the master of a vessel. He had completed plans for taking the examination for mate as soon as he was old enough to hold a mate's license.

Just a few weeks before he took his fatal voyage the boy had been in another serious shipwreck off Nova Scotia. Going sight from that wreck to New York, he shipped on the Windrush, bound for South America.

"FENCE" GETS JAIL TERM

BUYER OF STOLEN PROPERTY IS SENTENCED.

Alex Goldstein, Second-Hand Store
Proprietor, Convicted on One Charge, Faces Another.

Six months in the county jail was the sentence imposed on Alex Goldstein, second-hand store proprietor, by Circuit Judge Belt yesterday, following conviction on a charge of receiving stolen property. Goldstein bought a dozen suits, four overcoats and some shoes which had been stolen from the residence of H. C. Peel, 101 East Sixteenth street, for $40, according to the evidence in the case. The thieves testified that Goldstein knew the goods were stolen and for that reason would not pay them the $100 which was demanded.

Goldstein is on trial under a second indictment before Circuit Judge Phelps, but the case was continued until Monday yesterday because of the objection of one juror to service on Saturday, his Sabbath. Asked by Judge Phelps if he had explained his scruples to Presiding Judge McCourt before being sworn in for jury service, the juror said he had.

"But Judge McCourt told me," he explained, "that I needn't worry about it, as all the judges here had conscientious scruples against working on Saturday."

The presiding judge was right. The new case against Goldstein involves the purchase of 64 pairs of shoes stolen from a box car.

Summer Fantasy Presented on University Lawn.

Ivy-Covered Walls Form Fitting
Background for Changing, Colorful
Costumes of Dancers.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, June 12. (Special.)—The women of the department of physical education presented "A Summer Fantasy," an hour of dancing, last evening on the lawn in front of McClure hall. Hundreds of university and townspeople filled the seats around the natural amphitheatre. The ivy-covered walls of old gray Villard were a fitting background for the changing colorful costumes of the dancers.

In the first part of the programme the university women, assisted by some of their small pupils, appeared in "The Pied Piper," a fantasy telling the story of the Pied Piper of Hamelin. Miss Eva Hansen of Marshfield was the solo dancer and the girls of the folk dancing and aesthetic dancing classes were the burghers, the children and the rats. Miss Vivian Chandler of Dayton, Wash., made a commanding burgomaster.

"In a Garden" formed the second part of the programme. The first number was a dance composed by Miss Catherine Winslow, teacher of dancing in the university and director of the fantasy. Miss Jeannette Moss, of Granite Pass, Miss Vivian Chandler and Miss Eva Hansen appeared as the three voices in "Back Fugue," each in different shades of pink to represent the three voices.

Miss Dorothy A. Miller of Medford danced the only solo number on the programme, a gay, joyous movement to the accompaniment of Tschakowsky's "The Skylark."

Two charming numbers were dances by children's classes, directed by Miss Hansen and Miss Miller. "Sev'ral" was interpreted by 12 little children and Kullak's "Sea Shells" by five small girls.

Miss Lucile Morrow of Portland and Miss Melba Williams of Eugene presented a stately gavotte. Miss Genevieve Clancy of Portland sang the prologue while the shepherd and his lover in quaint old-fashioned costumes stood poised on pedestals like figures from an old painting.

Schubert's delightful "Moment Musical" was interpreted by Miss Aurita Payson of Portland in the solo part, assisted by Miss Gertrude Whitton and Miss Lola Keizer, both of Eugene. The programme ended at twilight with a Grecian ball dance.

The university orchestra furnished the music and Miss Beulah Clark of Portland, flutist, played for the Pied Piper.

RECKLESS DRIVER FINED

Collisions Narrowly Avoided and Policemen Decline Bribe.

Joe F. Fila, arrested Friday night on a charge of reckless driving, was fined $50 in municipal court yesterday by Judge Roseman.

Fila, according to the patrolmen, was driving at high speed and narrowly missed having a collision at the intersection of Fourteenth and Washington streets. He is said to have skidded 30 feet in avoiding the other machine.

The officers also stated he had a near-collision at Fourteenth and Alder streets. After his arrest he is said to have attempted to buy the policemen off with a $5 bill.

WATCHMAN DIES QUICKLY

Andrew Monson Succumbs to Attack of Heart Failure.

Andrew Monson 55, night watchman at the Selling building, dropped dead in the lobby of that structure about 4:30 yesterday morning.

The body was turned over to Deputy Coroner Goetsch after the authorities had been notified by John C. Brackman, night clerk at the Frank Nau drug store. The deputy coroner announced that it was clearly a case of heart failure.

George Shadle, head janitor, saw the man fall and rushed to the drug store in the effort to get first aid. Monson, who lived at 271 1/2 Morrison street, is survived by a widow and a son, Edward.
