

THIS sale of clothes for men and young men has caused favorable newspaper comment from New York to California—from Montana to Texas. It has served to bring down clothing prices in Portland, not only, but its influence has been felt far beyond the borders of the state. It has been, and still is, just what I intended at the outset that it should be:

—a Real Clothing Sale!

It includes every man's and young man's suit in my store—and there are hundreds of them. It includes much of the best clothing that American manufacturers produce—such famed makes as Hickey-Freeman, L System and Skolny Clothes. It includes, too, every suit that has been received since the sale began. It will include every suit that shall be received during its progress. It affords genuine, visible economies for men, because it eliminates profit. I earnestly invite all men and young men to take advantage of so potent an opportunity for lowering expenditure. This week will witness high tide in this, the most important clothing sale Portland has witnessed in years.

WELCOME BEING PLANNED

FORMER MINNESOTANS PREPARE FOR SHRINERS.

Arrangements Being Completed for Housing and Entertainment of Delegates to Convention.

Minnesota delegates to the Shrine convention are sure of an enthusiastic welcome from former residents of the state who are registering at the Title & Trust company, which has been designated as the official headquarters of the Minnesota Shriners. Elaborate preparations have been made to provide for any possible wants of the visiting delegates at the Title & Trust company. In the basement of the building shower baths, lockers, tables and chairs and cots have been provided for the men. In a vacant suite of offices upstairs conveniences have been installed to take care of the wives and feminine relatives of the visiting Shriners. All persons living in Portland who have friends or relatives in Minnesota are urged to register at the Title & Trust company by Robert E. Smith, chairman of the reception committee. It is expected, he said, that not less than 1500 Shriners will be present from Minnesota and every effort will be made to provide them with entertainment during their stay. Electric ranges have been installed and every facility for providing meals for the delegates in case any shortage of restaurant accommodations exists has been made. The committee has ding the amusement programme for the Minnesota delegation says that no contingency has been overlooked in guaranteeing a successful visit for the Minnesota visitors.

COLLEGE TO RUSH WORK

New Buildings to Rise at Corvallis in Time for Next Fall.
OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, June 12.—(Special.)—Work will be rushed on new buildings at the college to provide adequate accommodations for students next school year. The board of regents of the college has authorized the early completion of a new unit to the home economics building at an estimated cost of $135,000; a women's dormitory to cost $100,000; completion of the engineering laboratory, $25,000; addition of a story to the mechanical hall, $30,000; another unit with pool to the men's gymnasium, $61,000; completion of the library, including installation of steel stacks, $55,000, and extension and completion of the heating system, $40,000.

BIG MILL IS PLANNED

Portland Men to Have Plant With Daily Cut of 250,000 Feet.
HOOD RIVER, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—F. E. Arnold of Portland, who was here recently, announced that he and associates are making repairs to the old Howe sawmill on the Little White Salmon river in Skamania county, Washington, and that they soon will begin cutting 60,000 feet daily.

"We will increase our capacity to 250,000 feet, just as quickly as we can install equipment," said Mr. Arnold. "We now have 100 men employed and 13 miles of flume."

George Broughton, W. D. Arnold and W. B. Wiggins, all of Portland, are associated with Mr. Arnold in the big lumber deal.

Hood River Water Pure.

HOOD RIVER, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—City Health Officer Eddington has received notification from the state health department that samples of water, both from the upper and lower reservoirs here, have been examined and found pure. It is the custom of the city health department to have the water analyzed annually at the beginning of the warm season.
