—At one of our monthly meetings not long since, a visitor from one of the model yachting clubs in Scotland declared that in his opinion the pastime of model yachting is one that is of vital importance to the welfare of the nation.

—The distance of our races in this country depends, of course upon the size of the lake or pond on which they are sailed. Usually the races are about one-half mile, or two or three times across the lake. We generally have ten or 15 races which leave the starting line at 10-second intervals. There are three heats to each race and at the end of the season the yacht which has scored the most points wins the cup or some other suitable prize in their particular class. There are four different classes. Some of the classes are closed to members of the yacht club holding the races, but others are open to whoever is desirous of entering a model yacht either of his own design or of the design of some one else. This any boy who can build a boat or buy one can enter.

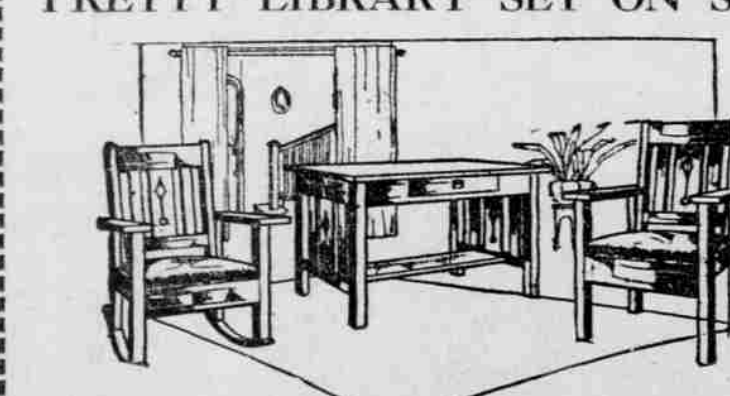

—The first-class is that of boats with line of 26 inches not more than 14 inches draught, nor more than 350 square inches of sail. Then we have a 42-inch ward line class; an alpha class, not more than 27 inches on the ward line, and also a power boat division of which the boats are approximately 14 inches in length, weight of no more than 15

MODEL YACHT RACING FASCINATES ON COUNTRY'S MANY MINIATURE LAKES

Men as Well as Boys Become Devotees of Sport That Demonstrates Skill of Amateur Designers and Craftsmen of Real Championship Types.

Model Yacht Maker Completing Hull of Tiny Craft.

THE model-yacht racing season of 1920 has recently been officially opened. Although lots of boys derive great pleasure from indulging in it by no means is it confined to them as some may think. In fact, it is yearly becoming in this country more and more popular with men folks of all ages.

Some of the most enthusiastic owners of model yachts today have passed the half-century mark of life and declare that model yachting is the greatest pastime in the world. Among them is also a short, stocky, bushy haired young man to whom more than any one else is perhaps due the increased popularity of model yachting in the United States. William Richards is his name and six days of every week he may be found the central figure of a setting that at first glance seems to have been lifted bodily from the pages of a fairy story.

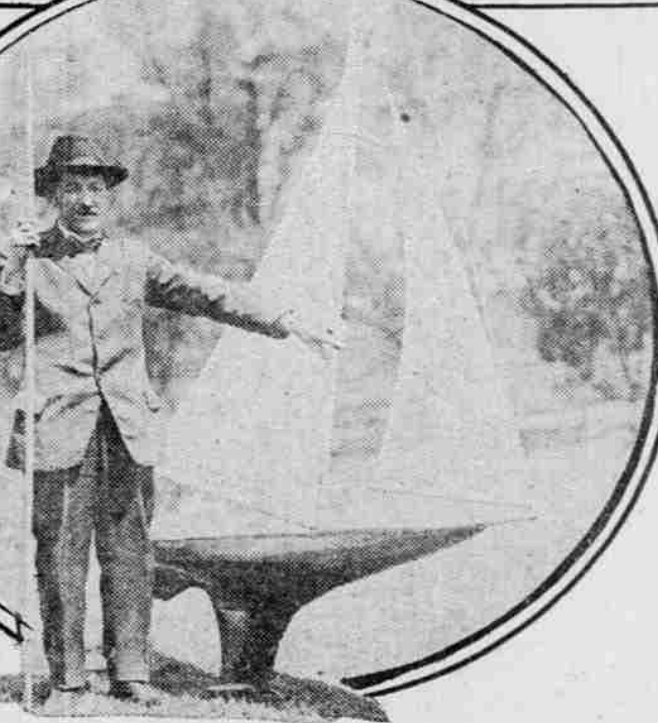

Those persons who are privileged to witness model yacht races in which the skippers, although they do not leave the shore, are as much wrought up and quite as desirous of victory as will be the skippers of the Vanitie and the Shamrock IV, doubtless often wonder where all of the beautiful little white-winged craft which dot the water come from.

Who has the honor of bringing out their graceful lines and perfect finish? Evidently they are not the work of amateur boat builders, being quite beyond such skill. The answer is William Richards. He designs and builds most of these yachts, and his occupation is probably unique.

"Although model yacht racing in America has been carried on for perhaps 30 years," he said recently as he deftly continued his work of hollowing a hull of a tiny boat from a solid block of wood, "it has only been active for the past three years. In fact, real interest in the sport is just about beginning. It is in the Central Park (New York) Model Yacht club 33 active members and quite a few associate members, while the main purpose is to develop natural ingenuity and create an interest among boys in the sport of model yachting."

"At one of our monthly meetings not long since, a visitor from one of the model yachting clubs in Scotland declared that in his opinion the pastime of model yachting is one that is of vital importance to the welfare of the nation. The distance of our races in this country depends, of course upon the size of the lake or pond on which they are sailed. PHOTOS BY THE GALLIUM SERVICE.

These models were made by him. Later he was called to Washington as an expert model maker by the navy department, bureau of construction and repair. He was also engaged as an expert ship modeler by the camouflage division of the intelligence department of the navy.

The pastime of building and racing model yachts, Mr. Richards continued, "is an outgrowth of the practice on the part of shipbuilders of making miniature models of the vessels under construction. These were usually copies of the original on a small scale. These sailing models were often fitted against each other on small bodies of water—hence the modern pastime."

THE CHICAGO franchise, surface lines, provides for a division of profit between the company and the city, the city receiving 35 per cent of the net return and the company 45 per cent. The original franchise was granted in 1907. This applied to the surface lines in the city. The valuation of the company's property was set in the franchise at $50,000,000.

The consolidated franchise, surface and elevated lines combined, provides for a surplus reserve fund of $2,000,000. If this reserve should be drawn down to $1,000,000, fares must be increased. Fares may be decreased if the accumulation in the surplus reserve fund is sufficient to justify it.

The returns allowed the company in Chicago are 5 per cent on prior obligations, with 8 per cent on the capital remaining above such obligations. A large sum, more than $200,000, has already been accumulated in the city treasury due to this division of the profits provided for by the franchise.

Elevated Fare Raised.

The rate of fare over the elevated line has been raised to 7 cents. The franchise provides for nine trustees for the administration of these railways. These trustees are appointed by the city council. The franchise is too great for a successful and effective administration. This difficulty is partly overcome by the use of an executive committee of three.

The Cincinnati grant contains a combination of profit-sharing between the city and the company, together with a sliding scale of fares. The sliding scale in this city is rather peculiar. When the rate of fare is 5 cents or less, the company's share of the net receipts is 45 per cent; when the fare is 5 1/2 cents the company's share of the net receipts is only 30 per cent; if the fare be 6 that state may tax the cities in which the railway operates for an amount sufficient to make up the difference. It is further provided that a board of five persons, as trustees, appointed by the governor, shall have control of the property for ten years. A board of directors is provided for, but it has very limited powers.

Trustees Fix Rates.

It is provided in section 14 of the act that these five trustees "shall fix such rates and fares as in their judgment will produce sufficient income to meet the cost of service, which shall include proper maintenance of the property, operating expenses, taxes, rentals, interest on bonds, serial bonds and other interest payments and stated dividends on preferred stock at 6 per cent on the common capital stock of the new company; make allowance for depreciation of property, rehabilitation and for loss in respect to property sold, destroyed or abandoned as they may deem adequate, or as may be required by the public service commission, and all other expenditures and charges, which, under the laws of the commonwealth, now or hereafter in effect, may properly be chargeable against income or surplus."

In section 15 it provides for four different grades of fare—two above and two below that in effect. It is further provided that any city may prevent an increase in fare by making an agreement with the company and paying up the difference. After the expiration of ten years the property should be returned to its owner.

Boston Not Complaining.

These acts establish a very favorable situation for the company. The rate of fare in Boston is now 10 cents. This fare is being paid at present without complaint. After the first few months the falling off in passengers due to the high rate ceased and full traffic now is reported in that city. This plan permits a city to keep down the rate, if it desires to do so, by making it up to the company from city taxes.

These service acts cost franchisees seem to give satisfaction both to the public and to the owners of the street railway property. It is a fair way to establish a rate both for the public and for the company. If the company can get a certain percentage of the value of its property it will be enabled to raise money for its future wants, while the public will get the service at the lowest rate possible.

TEXAS WOMEN HOLD REINS

Energetic Programme Mapped by New City Administration.

JEWETT, Tex., June 12.—Women who now hold the reins of government in Jewett have mapped out an energetic programme for their administration. They came into power at the spring election.

Mrs. Hattie Adkins is mayor and she has five sister aldermen. The only man remaining in office is the town marshal. He used to be supported by fees but the new regime put him on a salary.

The women have already started a clean-up campaign. They are considering street improvements and the collection of back taxes, or new taxes if necessary, to pay for them. Revision of the traffic law and enforcement of the stock law are also projected.

The women came into office by slight majorities, 26 votes in several instances being sufficient to overturn tradition.

HOUSE TO BE MONUMENT

Move On to Save Place Associated With Scientist Galileo.

ROME, June 12.—A movement has been started to make the house at Arcetri, called "Jewel," where Galileo lived from 1631 to 1642, a national monument to collect there all Galileo relics. While Galileo lived at Arcetri he was called to Rome to answer a charge of heresy before the Inquisition.

On his return he witnessed the death of his daughter who was a nun. In this particular house he dictated "Dialogues of New Sciences" which he considered was his masterpiece. It was there also that he received the poet Milton and was presented by Holland with a golden chain in acknowledgement of his services to science.

WILD PIGEONS PLENTIFUL

Acorn Crop in Curry County Gives Good Chance for Feeding.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—Wild pigeons and acorns are great numbers from Curry county, where they are feeding on acorns of last year's crop that are still lying on the ground. The information states that the wild and domestic hogs in Curry made little inroads on the acorns. The crop was an unusually large one.

Deer are said to be living off the acorns and their presence is reported. The presence of so many wild pigeons in Curry county is not an ordinary occurrence. It has been a number of years since there were such large flocks staying there to feed.

FISH BUYERS NOT THERE

Plenty of Halibut to Be Procured but No Market.

MARSHFIELD, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—There is a good opportunity for fish buyers to secure supplies at Port Orford, according to reports just received from that Curry county port. For some time a number of fishermen had been ready to start the 1920 season, but they could not procure gasoline to operate their boats.

This drawback was overcome and they then learned there was no buyer on the ground who would take the fish. Port Orford is near the great halibut banks discovered two years ago. The port is an open roadstead and great quantities of fish should be coming in, if there were a market.

SHERWOOD TO CELEBRATE

Many Amusements Are Prepared for July 5.

SHERWOOD, Or., June 12.—(Special.)—A big celebration for July 5 is being planned here as the 4th is on Sunday. It has been decided to wait until Monday to celebrate that day's events of every description are being prepared and one of the largest crowds ever in Sherwood is expected. The celebration will be held in the ball park, which has been recently purchased by the city. A baseball game will be scheduled for that day and the usual vim of the "Sherwood Sluggers" will be displayed.
