

FOCH AND PREMIERS PLAN MID TO POLAND

Steps Taken to Combat Advances of Bolsheviks.

ARMY MEETS SUCCESS

Battered Lines Are Being Tightened and Military Situation Is Reported Improved.

SPA, Belgium, July 10.—(Havana)—Marshal Foch had a conference this morning with the head of the Polish delegation at which dispositions were made under which the allies might help Poland in their fight against the bolsheviks.

Better news from the Polish bolshevik front was received by Polish circles here today, the messages seeming to indicate that the Poles were succeeding in stabilizing their lines. The Polish question was the subject of a conversation yesterday between Premier Lloyd George of Great Britain and Premier Millerand of France, the two prime ministers considering whether if anything could be done to help the Poles in their present military difficulty.

Premier Lloyd George is understood to have said that in view of the agreement just concluded between Great Britain and the Russian soviet government, he did not feel disposed to do anything more than give diplomatic support to the Poles. Premier Millerand is reported as having replied that, this being the case, France could not go further.

The note of the Polish government requesting peace with the Moscow government was received today by the Polish delegation here to be communicated to the allied premiers. It was stated by those connected with the delegation, however, that the note which was in code, had been translated into transmission by telegraph that the delegation could not determine what it really contained.

REPORTED RETREAT DOUBTED

Withdrawal of Forces Said to Be On From Three Points.

PARIS, July 10.—Polish forces are withdrawing from Brest-Litovsk, Vilna and Pinsk, as a result of the great Russian bolshevik offensive, according to a telegram received by the newspaper L'Information this morning.

The Paris report of a withdrawal movement by the Poles from Brest-Litovsk, Vilna and Pinsk is not confirmed from any other source. Pinsk is not far back of the last reported Polish bolshevik fighting line but the other places named are far removed from it.

Advices received today declared the Poles were holding up the bolshevik advance. This would seem to throw additional doubt on the correctness of the Paris advices.

MOVING OF CAPITAL DENIED

Polish Minister Says Situation Is Better and Government Stays.

WASHINGTON, July 10.—The Polish government is not considering moving its capital from Casimir Ludomirski, the Polish minister, in a statement today denying a report called from Germany yesterday that the intention of Poland to move her seat of government from Warsaw.

The statement declared that news was received by the legation today from Poland to the effect that the Polish army was holding up the bolshevik forces, that the entire nation, as well as the army, was full of patriotic enthusiasm and that all the parties are united in an unbroken front.

Six Americans Fly for Poland.

NEW YORK, July 10.—Six members of the American Flying club have responded to the recent call from Poland for members to volunteer for service in the Kocutko escadrille against the bolsheviks.

WELFARE WORKERS OUT

(Continued From First Page.) 1919 and it devolved upon me to appoint three members. I made every effort to select a high class personnel and individually I think I succeeded in so doing. But various elements in this commission do not seem to mix and almost from the first there was continuous complaint in regard to the workings of the commission as a whole.

Commission Important One. "The great authority which the law gives this commission over all child-caring agencies of the city makes it one of the most important bodies of state government, and it is quite essential that as such it work along harmoniously, and as efficient lines so that the various institutions and child-caring agencies concerned are kept in complete harmony. As I stated in my letter to each of the retiring commissioners, I hold the highest regard for the past work and it is with the keenest regret that I feel that this commission, as it was constituted, cannot function in a manner which is for the best interest of the state. In the selection of the new personnel I believe that this can be done.

"It is my understanding that the new members of the commission will sever any connections which they may hold with any of the child-caring agencies coming under the control of the commission, and that they will devote all of their energies along child welfare lines to the work of the commission itself. All of the new appointees have had large experience in child welfare matters and have been actively interested in such work for many years."

NEW PARTY IS STARTED

(Continued From First Page.) the producers' league and consumers league and several other organizations. The committee of 48 embraces a number of well-known liberal leaders, some of whom were prominent in the "bull moose" movement eight years ago.

The committee was formed last year at St. Louis with a member for each state. While delegates debated rules and resolutions today their committee continued negotiations with the labor party. Both conventions expect to be ready Monday to take up and complete in one day's session their platform, which, it is expected, will be almost identical.

Only two names, so far as known, will be presented to the labor party for consideration as presidential nominees, Senator LaFollette and Frank P. Walsh of Kansas City, ex-chairman of the United States industrial relations commission and leader of the friends of Irish freedom. James Duncan of Seattle, a leader in the shipyard strike there during the spring of 1919 and later a labor candidate for mayor of that city, entered the convention as a delegate. He was elected chairman of the Washington state delegation and took an active part in the proceedings.

Developments of the convention are being watched with interest by a number of labor, liberal and radical leaders who are not directly participating. Robert LaFollette Jr. attended the opening session on the third half of his father, but refused to comment on the elder LaFollette's prominent course if the presidential nomination were tendered him.

W. Z. Foster, secretary of the general committee which conducted the strike in the steel industry a year ago and who figured in the senate investigation of the strike, watched progress from a gallery.

W. G. Calderwood, formerly of federal office on that ticket, sat in the Minnesota delegation. George L. Rector of New Jersey was elected chairman of the platform committee and H. E. Wilkie of Maryland chairman of the committee on political procedure. Both bodies held executive sessions lasting well into the night but arranged to carry on their work with the assistance of outsiders tomorrow.

The procedure committee devoted its efforts to drafting a tentative plan under which the various groups may lend their support to a single presidential candidate. The committee is an independent work in the interest of their particular sets of ideas, or local requirements.

"Group autonomy" was the objective to be worked for, participants stated.

After two hours of argument over rules and permanent officers, the convention adjourned at 2 P. M. for lunch and met again at 6 P. M.

While the convention got under way the friends of Irish freedom arrived, set up a booth on the sidewalk and unfurled banners urging the third party to "recognize Irish freedom."

Speakers said that the convention would draw great charges being spread that all work done here was by "packed" committees. Debate grew heated and great charges being spread that all work done here was by "packed" committees. Debate grew heated and great charges being spread that all work done here was by "packed" committees.

A motion by Mrs. Frank Page of Massachusetts to name a committee to study each state was defeated overwhelmingly.

Permanent officers of the convention were installed without oratory when the convention assembled for its second session.

Support of Labor Sought.

C. J. France of Seattle introduced a formal resolution of appeal to the labor party convention which opens Sunday, asking its delegates to unite as a body with the committee of 48 and to be considered by the latter as a party to "recognize Irish freedom."

"We realize that there is no material difference, either in purpose or ideal, between us," it said in part.

"We feel deeply the obligation resting upon us to support the movement for a united front and we feel that slight differences which might keep us from uniting into one great successful political movement.

"Should we give our common enemy the unutterable joy which would follow our failure to unite in a solid phalanx?" it asked.

Conference Is Suggested.

"With these thoughts which we know are your thoughts, we suggest that your convention provide for a sub-committee selected from your platform committee to confer with the sub-committee selected from our platform committee; that these two committees meet with a firm determination to attain a platform of general appeal to the people, we can both unite, a method for concerted political action and common candidates."

We further suggest that all through the proceedings of our two conventions, such joint conference committees be appointed from time to time, so that we may work in mutual harmony to the end that our two conventions may come together in one great body and present such a challenge to the autocracy of America that this movement will go down in history.

Differences between the committee of 48 and the labor party remained acute on the railroad problem, leaders of both groups said. Both groups stand for government ownership but differ as to the amount of "democratic management" which would be attached to the transportation systems if taken over by the government.

Non-partisan league representatives who were represented to have pledged their aid in organizing the farmers of the state, behind the new party announced that they were attending the conference in a personal capacity only.

Government to Aid Air Service.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 10.—E. B. Smith, confidential secretary to Postmaster-General Burson, who called on government officials in Seattle today, said the postal department will aid air mail service in the northwest in every possible way. With Mrs. Smith and Judge and Mrs. Cooper Griggs, collector of customs for Florida, Smith is returning to Washington from the San Francisco convention by way of Canada.
