FRANK NICHOLS OF TUMALO, 95, YET RADIATES OPTIMISM

Man Who Figured Largely in History of Oregon, Despite Extreme Age and Two Broken Legs, is Serenity Itself and Enjoys Life.

MARSH AUBREY (ON LEFT) AND UNCLE FRANK NICHOLS.

WHERE you go over into any part of the old territory of Crook county, such territory being now subdivided into the counties of Jefferson, Deschutes and Crook, and ask for Frank Nichols, many people who have moved to that section within the last 15 or 20 years would not be able to give you any information; but if you ask for Uncle Frank Nichols, for Aunt Moll or Marsh Aubrey, almost any man, woman or child in the territory would instantly tell you that they reside in Tumalo, on the Deschutes river, about a dozen miles north of Bend.

But Marsh Aubrey is no longer there. He was taken to the Old Soldiers' home at Roseburg a few months ago, the care of him and Uncle Frank becoming too great a charge for Aunt Moll. It will be remembered that when Marsh was brought through Portland many articles appeared about his career, so it will only be necessary for me to say that the bond binding the two was not unlike that which bound David and Jonathan as one, and to say that they were both born in one neighborhood in Missouri within three or four days of each other, and the ties that began as playmates at school, at the "old swimmin' hole" and later in "Indian fighting" and business ventures, are stronger today than ever before.

Big Territory Covered. "I had a pretty big territory to cover, many times more than any man properly could cover," he said, "and I never saw more than a small fraction of my hallowick; but I did the best I could to perform my duties, the principal one being to collect the taxes."

Couple Take Up Claims. The claims taken by the newly married couple when adjoining the lands of the late R. P. Boise. On this land he lived for many years, and there seven children were born to the couple, two boys and five girls, all of whom have passed away save Aunt Moll and Mrs. Kate H. Winkler, who resides in California.

There is nothing better for sore, weak or inflamed eyes than common witch hazel, camphor, hydrastis, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash. The camphor and witch hazel soothe and relieve the inflammation; the hydrastis and other ingredients have tonic and antiseptic properties. We guarantee a small bottle Lavoptik to help ANY CASE weak, strained or inflamed eyes. Aluminum eye cup FREE. Skidmore Drug Co. and all leading druggists.—Adv.

MACKAY INFLEXIBLE IN MILK ACCUSATION

Not One Word Retracted, is Declaration.

ATTACK HELD EXPECTED

Deputy City Attorney Asserts Investigation is Absolutely Free of All Bias.

Despite denials by officials of the Oregon Dairymen's Co-operative league of the truth of certain sections of the Mackay report, Lionel C. Mackay, the author, who was detailed from the city attorney's office to investigate the milk situation, yesterday refused to retract a single word of his first statement.

Mr. Mackay insisted that he made a careful and truthful report and that he fully expected Alma D. Katz, president of the league, to accuse him of bias.

In my report to the mayor under date of July 10," Mr. Mackay said, "I gave the facts exactly as I found them. My investigation was as fairly made as the facts permitted. If anybody, there is certain to be a comeback. When I wrote that report I knew that Mr. Katz would come back at me with all his well-known ability."

Blas Charges Not Surprised. "I was not surprised that he accused me of being biased, nor was I surprised at his calling that a 'youthful, inexperienced deputy.' I expected such things and more, and in spite of those expectations I wrote the report and I stand by it today without retraction of a single word."

Mr. Mackay yesterday issued a statement calling attention to certain portions of his previous reports which he cited in connection with certain statements issued by the league in an advertisement in The Oregonian Saturday.

Admission Is Cited. "In a letter written to J. C. Martinazzi, a former league member, Mackay is plentiful, and that the league allowed the milk to run loose the price would be broken quickly there. Such a city would be there now had water been honestly delivered to the settlers. But that Mackay and Uncle Frank were right in their selection of a location to spend the later days is a truth easy to illustrate by any person visiting the place and noting a townsite graded by nature with as fine building stone as there is in the state on all the surrounding hills and the beautiful Deschutes flowing for more than a mile along its eastern front."

Deliveries Are Mentioned. "I desire to call attention to the fact that in the city of Portland there are operated approximately 131 wagons by producer-distributors. These are men who own their own herds and deliver their milk direct without the intervention of the city distributors. There are in Portland approximately 63 wagons operated by the Portland distributors, men who buy their milk from the producer through the league or otherwise and prepare the milk for distribution and distribute it to the consumers."

During the period April 1 to July 1, 1920, the league's milk was delivered to consumers at a rate of 13 cents a quart. During the same time these 131 wagons operated by the producer-distributors delivered their milk at a price of 13 cents during the period from April 1 to July 1, 1920.

Intoxicating Liquor May Be Used in Food for Sale. WASHINGTON, July 17.—Intoxicating liquors may be used in the manufacture of food products, under a ruling today by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Williams, provided such food is for sale, and not for consumption on the premises where manufactured. Hotels and restaurants will not be permitted to use liquor in the preparation of food. Permits are necessary to enable food manufacturers to use liquor.

Katz Replies to Mayor. In a letter received yesterday by Mayor Baker, Alma D. Katz, president of the Oregon Dairymen's Co-operative league, replied to a letter from the mayor regarding the milk situation.

Why Children Catch Disease

CHILDREN whose teeth are looked after by a good dentist are less likely to catch the measles, mumps, diphtheria, whooping cough and scarlet fever. Good teeth stand for good health, and good health is the best insurance in the world against the diseases of childhood. Weakly children are the first to get a disease when it appears in a neighborhood. It depends upon parents whether their children shall have good teeth when they grow up. A little care and attention to the teeth in early life means better looks and better health in later life. Also it means more success in whatever pursuit a boy or girl may follow, for success depends more upon health than any other thing.

Registered Dentists using the E. R. Parker System invite parents to bring in their children for free examinations. Advice from experienced dentists, if followed, will have a good influence all through life.

For Beautiful Hair Take the advice of highest medical authorities

THERE have been many conflicting claims as to the proper treatment of the hair. There has been much confusion and ignorance. Now the confusion is ended. The way is known definitely—safely. The most eminent authorities known have prescribed the way to prevent the loss of the hair's life and luxuriance. The scientists tell us that the Council of the American Medical Association (the highest authority known) has recognized Resorcin Monoacetate for the treatment of dandruff (seborrhea) and baldness (alopecia)—the common foes of beautiful hair.
