

COX IN WASHINGTON MEET PRESIDENT
Democratic Nominee Greeted by Crowd at Capital.
LEAGUE TO BE DISCUSSED
Dry Leader Expresses Satisfaction
With Governor's Stand on Prohibition Issue.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The national capital gave a cordial welcome today to Governor Cox, democratic presidential nominee, upon his arrival for a conference tomorrow with President Wilson.

Met at the station by Franklin D. Roosevelt, his running mate, and other prominent democrats, a crowd of several thousand persons cheered and almost stamped Governor Cox in the reception. He shook hands with scores, posed for moving picture men and was greeted by many en route to the home of former Representative T. T. Ansberry of Ohio, his host.

Preliminary to his conference with President Wilson at 1:30 tomorrow at the White House, Governor Cox talked over campaign questions with several party spokesmen.

League Stated for Discussion.
The league of nations and other international questions, Governor Cox told newspaper men, will be the principal issues discussed with President Wilson.

"The president knows more about international affairs than anyone I know and I am here to counsel with him," the governor said. "I will be the first time since his illness, but our relations have always been very cordial."

The league of nations also was the main subject of a conference between the governor and Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, administration spokesman in the senate treaty fight. They declared they were in perfect harmony on the league of nations. Senator Hitchcock said the governor's views also were in accord with those of the president.

Dry Leader Satisfied.
Senator Sheppard, leader of the dry forces in the senate, declared after a five-minute talk with Governor Cox that he was perfectly satisfied with the governor's stand on the prohibition question and that he not only would support him but would take the stump for him.

Another conference was with Victor Murdock of the federal trade commission, who was among those considered at the San Francisco convention for the vice-presidential nomination. The governor said the information he wished from Mr. Murdock referred to the high cost of living and profiteering and "other subjects of considerable economic importance."

The governor reiterated that he would go into every state. "I think it would be very gracious to go into the southern states, although not necessary, of course," he remarked.

to the cause and that the Cox managers will be surprised at the results of the count on next election night. For example, it is asserted that the business man of living and profiteering, Massachusetts and Connecticut, who always opposed prohibition because he thought it would destroy commerce and industry has changed his mind.

Business Men Disillusioned.
By only a brief trial of prohibition he has been disillusioned. A merchant who finds the number of bad checks has diminished and that his customers meet their bills more promptly. As an employer, his labor is more efficient, more dependable and delivering a far higher per capita number of days service in each month. The temper of the help also has been vastly improved by the elimination of the "dark brown taint" and the depressing headache of the morning after.

While the most of those who worked originally to bring about prohibition predicated their efforts on moral grounds, the business man has come over from purely economic reasons and, therefore, it is said that there will be some surprises to the Tammany wags and other humorists when the issue is tried out in the coming election.

In other words, the Cox schooner is steering straight for a modern but unwelcome Mount Ararat, due to arrive there high and dry on the night of November 2, 1921. The Cox manager is not a prophet, he says, but a seer, and therefore, it is said that there will be some surprises to the Tammany wags and other humorists when the issue is tried out in the coming election.

New Coxy Army Attacks.
Already the Anti-Saloon League of America is mapping out an intensive plan for resisting the attacks of this new Coxy army on the citadel of prohibition. The old days are coming back they declare, because there is no longer any lure in promises to restore that splendid state of family co-operation existing prior to July 1, 1919, when the baby went barefooted to help papa buy his booze.

Neither, they say, does anyone care to have reinstated in the American lexicon those once inspiring words and phrases, "Spiffed," "Spifflicated," "Ginned to the guards," "Ossified," "Kicked up," and "Stewed."

Some of the leading democratic newspapers of the east, journals which have always been ardently wet, are urging Governor Cox not to straddle on the prohibition issue, but to come out squarely against it, as he always has in Ohio, challenging the anti-saloon leaders to do their worst.

Until he meets the democratic national committee Tuesday at Columbus, Governor Cox said he could not announce his traveling plans more definitely.

Early Start Is Planned.
"I plan to start at once; I mean by that, very soon after the ceremony of nomination and acceptance," he said. "I expect this will be in the early part of August."

Criticism of his touring plans were mentioned, and the governor replied: "I can see nothing undignified in carrying the cause to the people." The governor said he hoped and expected that President Wilson would aid materially in the campaign, adding: "If not by speeches, by statements."

The governor asked that attention be called to the fact that the democratic national committee would meet Tuesday at Columbus instead of Dayton.

Youth Sent to Reformatory.
CHEHALIS, Wash., July 17.—(Special)—Judge Reynolds of the superior court today sentenced Maurice Nauman to the Monroe reformatory for two to three years. Nauman formerly, an inmate of the training school here, was charged with stealing an automobile and forging a check. Thomas Paulin, who completed a jail sentence for making moonshine liquor, was rearrested by Deputy United States Marshal Sechrist. Court Commissioner Westover held Paulin in $1000 bail.

MANY LOSE ON CHERRIES

GROWERS WHO FAILED TO CONTRACT HARD HIT.
Canners Refuse to Take Other Than Contract Crops and Market Goes to Pieces.

SALEM, Or., July 17.—(Special)—Marion county cherry growers who refused to contract their product to the canneries early in the season at 13 cents a pound are destined to lose thousands of dollars for want of a market.

Several months ago buyers representing canneries and processing plants of the northwest visited the Salem district and offered cherry growers 12 to 13 1/2 cents a pound for their crops. While the bulk of the crop was sold to the buyers at that time, many of the growers believed they would get more and refused to contract.

Favorable conditions made this season's cherry crop the largest for years, and as a result the canneries received more of the product than they could handle. Consequently word was sent out that no cherries would be received by these firms beyond those for which they had contracted.

Growers who had not contracted also found the stores glutted with the fruit, which forced them to peddle their product in the competitive market. Householders also were reluctant to buy because of the high cost of sugar, which further troubled the growers.

Some of the growers this week sold cherries at 4 cents a pound, while others decided to let their fruit go unpleeked for want of a market.

Salem merchants said today that they would not be surprised if cherries retailed at 3 cents a pound next week.

CHAMBERLAIN TO SPEAK

United States Senator Chamberlain will be the principal speaker Monday noon at the regular members' forum of the Portland Chamber of Commerce. His subject will be topics of national interest to business men, according to the Chamber of Commerce bulletin.

BOY SEEKS PROTECTION

FATHER, ACCUSED OF CRUELTY, ARRESTED.
Hand Swollen and Arm Thought Broken—Body Covered With Scars, Says Doctor.

With his left arm and hand badly swollen and tears in his eyes, 12-year-old Wesley Karnes walked into the branch police station at St. Johns yesterday and asked protection from his father, who, he said, had beaten him. It was thought that his arm was broken.

W. W. Karnes, a blacksmith living at 713 North Syracuse street, was arrested by E. R. Churchill, state humane officer, and brought to the city jail, where his bail was fixed at $500.

Dr. W. J. Gilstrap, at the instance of the Oregon Humane society, had X-ray photographs taken of the boy's arm and bandaged his injuries.

"There are scars all over the boy's body. It looks as if he has been subjected to beatings for years," Dr. Gilstrap said later.

"He struck at me with his heavy shears last night," said the boy. "I put up my arm to protect my head and he hit it. I've been licked all the time, almost ever since I can remember, and my little brother has been, too."

"I was doing some work last night and impatiently threw the scissors across the room without looking where they were going and they hit the boy," explained the father. "I didn't mean to hurt him."

A hearing probably will be held in the municipal court tomorrow.

Death Inquiry Discontinued.
SPOKANE, Wash., July 17.—The coroner's office will drop the investigation into the identity and cause of death of a woman who was found dead in a bathtub at a local hotel July 6, Coroner W. M. Newman announced today. No clue to the identity of the woman has been obtained. She registered as "Mrs. H. Broch, Sumner." The coroner gave it as his opinion that the woman died from the effects of poison.
