IRRIGATION IN STATE HITS LIVELY STRIDE

Considerable Progress Made During June.

ACTIVITY IS IN SURVEYS

Unfavorable Condition of Money Market Holds Up Bond Issues for Much of Work.

SALEM, Or., July 17.—(Special).—During the last month considerable progress has been made in irrigation development in Oregon, notwithstanding the adverse condition of the bond market. However, most of the activity has been along the line of investigations preliminary to the issuance of bonds.
Owing to the unfavorable condition of the money market irrigation districts in general have been urged to withhold bond issues until conditions were more favorable, excepting in those cases where construction work is in such condition that failure to proceed would entail a loss.
Arrangements have been made whereby bonds of the North Unit Irrigation district in the amount of $50,000 have been purchased by the Ralph Schneeloch company of Portland for the purpose of making a construction survey and preparing plans for the reclamation of the 100,000 acres of land in the district.

Reservoir Will Be Built.
The reclamation of this project will involve the construction of the Benham Falls reservoir, which Professor W. O. Crosby, the noted geologist of Massachusetts, recently made a favorable report. It is planned to utilize the Benham falls reservoir for the reclamation of all the units of the Deschutes project which aggregate 200,000 acres.

The investigations will be in charge of an engineering commission composed of A. J. Wilson of Boise and Fred Herman of San Francisco, representing jointly the district and the Ralph Schneeloch company, the latter having an option on the remainder of the district bonds.
Investigations are under way to revise and bring up to date the information secured by the state and federal government on the John Day project. The John Day Irrigation district was organized by Lewis & Clark, engineers of Portland, to make the necessary surveys.

300,000 Acres in District.
This district includes some 300,000 acres of land lying along the Columbia river in Gilliam, Polk, Morrow counties and Umatilla county, Oregon. One of the largest projects in Oregon. The officers of the district are Clay C. Clark of Arlington, president, and F. R. Brown of Heppner, secretary.

The Harney Valley Irrigation district, which includes about 85,000 acres of partially irrigated land, lying along the Silvers river in Harney county, has arranged with the engineering firm of Sarr & Cunningham of Portland to make the necessary surveys and prepare plans for the construction of a reservoir on the river for the complete utilization of the waters of this stream and to give full water right to the partially irrigated lands. Surveys are now under way on this project.

An investigation has been made during the past month by the irrigation securities commission of the Mountain Sheep Irrigation district in Wallowa county. This district contemplates the irrigation of approximately 10,000 acres of land with the waters of Big and Little Sheep creeks, and action on the certification of $150,000 in bonds is awaiting the submission of additional information.

Lake County Survey Ordered.
An investigation has been ordered by the irrigation securities commission of the Summer Lake Irrigation district in Lake county, which district contemplates the irrigation of approximately 7000 acres of land lying along Summer lake, with the waters of the Ann river. This district has requested the certification of $250,000 in bonds.

Very gratifying reports have been received from the Wapinitia Irrigation district, which has stored 2,000 acre feet of water this season for the first time in its new reservoir, which, together with the regular flow of the Malheur river affords ample water for the irrigation of 6,000 acres of land in the project, and reports indicate that crops will be excellent this season.
One unit of the Talent Irrigation district in Jackson county has been completed and water has been applied to the lands thereunder. This district on the second unit of this project has been postponed for the present on account of the unfavorable condition of the sale of bonds. The district fortunately is in a position that it could suspend further construction without adversely affecting it.

Josephine Pumps Completed.
The preliminary pumping units on the Grants Pass Irrigation district in Josephine county have been completed and water is being delivered to the lands in this district. Plans have been approved for the construction of the permanent gravity system, and work on this system is under way.
When the appropriations committee of the house of representatives recently visited central Oregon an inspection was made of the big Ochoco dam which is now nearing completion. At one end the big dam has reached its maximum height of 135 feet and requires only a small additional amount of work to complete it throughout its entire length.
About 25,000 acre feet of water has been stored in the Ochoco reservoir this season, and a large part of the 25,000 acres within the district has been irrigated this season.

DIME TRICKERY COSTS $250
Advertiser Offers $1 for 1901 Coins and Readers Nibble.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Nineteen hundred and one dimes may be worth a dollar if one gets $190.10 worth of them, but the attempt to put his scheme into effect cost Bert Paul $250 in Federal Judge Tripper's court.
Paul, alias Lally & Miller, had received about $19 in dimes in answer to his advertisement offering $1 for 1901 dimes, when he was arrested by Postoffice Inspector Cookson.
