EGLIGEES become more and more like pictures. Indeed, there is evidence that designers of these garments before it agrows are wonderfully beautiful and artistic. Negligees are getting away from the stereotyped and conventional standards of a decade say, when wrappers and kimonos were the only things one thought of having for room-wear and tesgows are gotting and with a long train that tangles up in the furniture, as one moves about.

A modern teagows is really a work of art and much care and skill are given to the designing of these garments. Lines are as important a consideration in negligeea as in front side. The simple proportions gathered to a skimpy looke; a garment in which even a first that tangles up the the stereoty of the season.

FINE WEATHER IN CORNWALL DOES NOT SUIT EVERYBODY

Cobblers Find Season Dull Because People Neglect Having Shoes Repaired Until "Leakin' Wet" Days Come and Water Runs In.

Several of the brave soldiers whose names are engraved upon it received comforts from Portland during those dark days when they were fighting or lying wounded in hospitals.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for a friend," is the text which is engraved below the list of names. Had I been here when the monument was dedicated I should have taken my place in the procession among the nurses. As it happened, only one nurse was present, and she told me she felt rather embarrassed when a commanding voice called out: "V. A. D. nurses, full in line!" and she stepped forward, all alone. We worked together at the naval hospital, and she had hoped I should be in time to walk with her. Several of the brave soldiers whose

I few mornings ago I was coming or the winding road which leads from the village to the holy place upon the hill when a small animal ran out of the hedge in front of me. I thought at first that it was a baby rat, but was not sure whether it might not be a young weazel or a baby stoat. There were two little children just behind me coming home from school. behind me, coming home from school, and I thought they would be sure to know, so I turned around and said: "What is that running along the

I have come back to my first love—the Cornish sea. When I was a tiny child, just able to toddle, my nurse took me down on the beach. She says I gave one look at the big, glittering blueness which was the sea and ran to it with both my little arms outstretched, ran into it, fell down in it and kissed it. She fished me out, all dripping wet, and brought me to land, but I rushed back to the sea

BY EDITH LANYON.

T. NEWLYN, East Cornwall, July 17.—(Special.)—There is an old west country saying that "Rain in June keeps everything in tune." If that be true, everything here has been well tuned up the last few days. I bought a joyous jazz parasol in London, so many-colored that it has Joseph's celebrated coat beaten. It is a parasol calculated to brighten up any village, but Sol hasn't come out to be parried lately.

Fine weather does not suit everybody, though. One lovely day last week I took some shoes to the village shoemaker to be repaired. He is a demobilized soldier who learned his trade in the army, and learned it well. I asked him if he were busy, and he said: "No; business is never very good in fine weather."

"Oh" I said. "Don't people wear out the light of the sea greeted me with gray sullen looks after our years of separation. The seagulis were mewing on the cliffs and a sea mist blowing inland. Even the lighthouse on the distant headland was hidden from sight. Next day when the sun shone out spasmodically a few jade-green lights glittered in and out upon the surface of the sea. Just a hint of the treasures of emerald, sapphire and a mind to," as they say down this way.

To Ward Off Summer Complexion Ills

To keep the face smooth, white and beautiful all summer, there's nothing quite so good as ordinary mercolised wax. Discolored or freekied skin, so common at this stason, is gently, gradually absorbed by the wax and replaced by the newer, fresher akin beneath. The face exhibits no trace of the wax, which is applied at bedtime and washed off mornings. Greasy creams, powders and rouges, on the other hand, are apt to appear more conspicuous than usual these days of excessive perspiration. Just get an ounce of mercolised wax at any drugstore and use it like cold cream. This will help any skin at once and in a week or so the complexion will look remarkably clear, young and healthy.—Adv.

Actually Removes Hair Roots-Something New! (Harmless Method; Works"Like Magie"

To have the superfluous hairs come our roots and all, before one's very eye sounds almost too good to be true. To many thousands of women have proved their own satisfaction that this can be accomplished—easily, quickly, harmlessi—by means of the wonderful phelactin

Process.

This method is not to be compared at This method is not to be compared at all with any liquid, powder or paste, now with electrolysis or anything else. Nothing like it ever originated. It dauses the hair to come out entire, roots included, leaving the skin smooth and hairless as a babe's Phelactine is non-nodorous, non-irritating non-poisonous—a child could asfely eat it Get a small stick of phelactine from your druggist today, follow the simple instructions, and you will have a most agreeable surprise.—Adv.

It's Easy Now to Curl Hair to Stay Curled

To curl the hair to stay curled, nothing equals the simple silmerine method. If a little liquid silmerine he applied with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair, the lovellest wavy effect imaginable will be in evidence in three hours, and this will last a long time, regardless of temperature or humidity.

This harmless method is not to be compared with curling by means of hot from because, instead of injuring the hair, it we really beneficial. A few ounces of liquid silmerine, which may be procured at any drug store, will last for months. The best way is to divide the hair into atrands and moisten each of them from root to tip. The curliness will look perfectly 'natural,' and the hair will be beautifully glessy, yet without the least greatiness or stickiness.—Adv.
