WORK OF PLAYERS TOLD

Vardon Makes Record, Edgar Runs Remarkable Record and Kerrigan's Playing Is Good.

By EDWARD RAY. (Copyright by The New York World, GREENWICH, Conn., July 24.— (Special.)—Harry Vardon was going well this afternoon in the match that we won from Jim Barnes and Tom Kerrigan over the Greenwich Country club course. He was very nearly at his best and as a result of his good play, the chief feature of which was accurate putting, we won the match by 4-up and 3 to play. But in the morning match, when we opposed to Kerrigan and Doug-

y them both won the match by 3-up for the morning match and that is why Edgar substituted for him and why we played two 18-hole best-ball matches instead of an all-day match for 36 holes.

ABERDEEN, Wash., July 24.—(Special.)—The Aberdeen baseball team will play a team from McKenna, Wash., at Electric park tomorrow. Chet Strayer, veteran of the major leagues, will cantain Vardon Makes Record.

T was mightly pleased that Harry Vardon finished the course in the afternoon with a splendid 69, the lowest score ever made over the Greenwich course in competitive play, I understand. play of Barnes today is not to compare to his play during the Shawnee tourney which he won last week.

I went out with him the last round of the Shawnee tournament and he was turning out unbeatable goif. But he appeared to be sadly off today. In the article published yesterday morning I talked of "slicing day" and 'hooking days," Well, yesterday was one of my "slicing days" I began slicing at the beginning of the play and could not get out of it at all. I attribute it to the extreme heat. auld not prevent the shaft from slipping in my hands. I have never ex-perienced such terrific heat. It isn' like this in England. If it were I doubt if anybody would go out to Vardon and I play best ball matches by a system that is not our own, of course, for it is almost as old as golf. Yesterday Vardon played the game, working for steadiness and soundness in his play, satisfied to make a hole in par, I played to sink my putt in iess than par if possible. That is a good pame to play in best ball matches, and by the use of that very game (kerrigan, playing steadily, and Edgar trying for and attaining brilliant shote, they decleated us.

Edgar's score Remarkable.

Douglas Edgar covered the course here today with the remarkable score of 71 strokes, which is one above par. He might have been one of the winder par if two or tries and by the under par if two or tries and the strokes had not been unfortunate.

I am under the impression that one speaks of the "breaks of the game" over here. That expression may be clearly restricted to use in discussion of your baseball, but I think well enough of it to apply it to the game of golf. There are breaks of the game of the strokes had not been sunfortunate.

I am under the impression that one speaks of the "breaks of the game" over here. That expression may be clearly restricted to use in discussion of your baseball, but I think well enough of it to apply it to the game of golf. There are breaks of the game in golf as there are in all game as with which I am familiar.

Perhaps as much depends on actual is likely to feel that he is off his game, which probably would be true enough, and yet be unable satisfactorily to explain it to himself. But when he is having unusually good results the chances are he will be constituted in his mind that he is having vinced in his mind that he is playing normal game. That is human, it is true, not only of the game of golf, but it is a good omen that such a condition does arise. A golfer going over the course in the lowest score he ever has made sets a new standard for himself and thereby gains a victory over the attitude that us spoiled many a promising golferthe attitude of utter satisfaction with a game that is neither good or bad, thoroughly self-satisfied because he is an average or a bit better than average player on his home links. Faults Are Sought, that he must retain interest. If he does that, then he is ambitious and hie game will improve. Edgar made at least six attempts to steal holes, and in most of them he came so close that I could almost hear the gallery hold its breath. He finally ran down Tom Kerrigan was one of our op-onents and this time he really was on his game. Vardon said in his article after the Siwanoy match Sun-day that Kerrigan is a good golfer. We have seen him since at Shawnee and at Greenwich today and we have no reason to change that opinion— for I was heartly in accord with Vardon in it, other than to have it strengthened.

Kerrigan Good Player.

Kerrigan on Sunday was not drivday he was driving in great shape. He was putting well, too, as his eard shows. He got a birdie four at the thirteenth hole, which is 445 yards long. Three birdies were made here. Vardon and I getting the others. Jim Barnes took up the burden in the afternoon that Edgar had borne better in the afternoon and he generally got to the green without an un-reasonable loss in spite of a stiff breeze and his slippery hands—for

He is well liked by the local baseball fraternity and his appointment by Prexy Routledge met with instant approval by the semi-pros around bush ball headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building yesterday.

This game should be one of the best on today's card. The Cendors are perched half way up the percentage column, having won five and lost five. The Hillsboro team has lost several close-score games and, with any kind of assistance from the breaks of the game may upset the dope and annex a win from Manager Thomas' crew. Perhaps as much depends on actual skill in golf as in any other sport, but still there are days, matches, holes and strokes when good fortune comes to one's assistance and about as often, I should say, ill fortune is a complaint. SEATTLE, Wash., July 24.-Boxing bours held here in the future will be conducted by a new set of rules compiled by the Seattle boxing commission, a city control board which is Hesse-Martin to Meet Canecos in supervising the fistic game here. Many of the commission's rules have been taken from eastern ring codes. One order bark boxers from using the "kidney punch" and another prohibits one fighter from meeting another ten pounds heavier. One referee, ie rules say, will not be allowed to officiate at one entire evening's There must be two referees and they must alternate in handling the bouts.

With a good score in his favor on past occasions, a golfer will look back to that at other times and if he does not approximate it one time or another he is likely to begin to search himself for little faults that he feels that he might have failen into. I trust you understand what I am trying to explain—that a golfer must not become self-satisfied or listless, putt from an extremely unlikely lie 9 yards away at the seventeenth tole which he won for the side with par four. He had had trouble at that hole and had just attempted an approach shot from a deep sand pit under the left edge of the green.

so well through the morning. Kerri-gan played even a better game in the afternoon than he did earlier. Vardon and I have been thrown into contact with this young golfer more than with any other player since we came here. And we like his game. Whereas in the first match he was not quite precise in his putting, in the second it was almost deadly. His driving was they must have been slippery.

The Greenwich is one of the best we have played over. The greens are particularly admirable. I like the whole layout and consider it well fitted for a championship match or any
