

SOCIETY

Mrs. P.H. Leslie and Son Harry Ainsworth Leslie

THE bride and the bride-to-be may claim a large share of society's interest and the visitors are sure to be feted at luncheon, bridge and tea, but when little children appear in a fairy ring, whose mirth and dancing and woodland charm are found, society must bid all other affairs pause while the little people hold court. This will be the rule Tuesday afternoon when society will witness the premier performance of "The Forest Children," an opera by Mabel Helms Parsons which will be presented in the garden of the H. C. Wortman residence on Vista avenue.

For Mrs. Parsons' opera the Wirt Denison has written the music and Howard Barlow has planned the orchestration and production. Society may well feel interested in this artistic production from the fact that clever local folk are its authors and that some of Portland's most attractive little children will participate.

Of course, there will be grown-ups, too, in the show, and youth and grace and loveliness will hold sway and enchanting music will charm the audience until everyone present will feel morally certain it is a real fairy ring that appears before the guests.

Miss Marie Gamble will have an important part and George Natanson, whose rich voice always inspires, will be in the cast. Violet Fenster Blagoe, Eleanor Osborne Buckley and Gertrude Holmes Buckley will be other stars and the drays will be Ruth Barlow, Elizabeth Kirby, Ximena Helling and Imogene Seton. There will be a chorus of butterflies and bees represented by 30 children and a ballet of six elf-like young people.

Mrs. M. Donald Spencer and Mrs. John Pipes are members of the executive staff and George Natanson will give practical aid in directing the stage. Ballet mistress and premier danseuse will be Imogene Seton and Louise Hudley will be assistant conductor and accompanist. Mrs. Blanche Williams Segerston will assist her.

Mrs. Harry Beal Torrey will be mistress of the wardrobe and Mrs. Louis Thomas and Mrs. Otto T. Meyer will have charge of the children's chorus.

And now for the names of the little children who will participate, whose merry twinkling eyes and dimpling smiles will win the hearts of those vivacity and ability as dancers will be irresistible.

The funds derived from this affair are for the woman's building of the University of Oregon as a memorial to Miss Camille Bosch. The sorority girls and society women are patronesses.

Brooke, presiding at the tea table with Mrs. Theodore B. Wilcox and Mrs. Charles C. Wilson. Assisting were Mrs. Charles T. Donworth, Mrs. Hamilton Corbett and Mrs. Carlton Beits.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kerr entertained with a formal dinner on Tuesday evening for Mrs. C. A. Dolph and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Clark III. The large round table was centered with a mass of pink roses.

Miss Marian Whiteside entertained eight young girls on Thursday in compliment to Miss Eleanor Landon of New York.

Miss Lois Nitchy entertained at a tea on Wednesday for about 30 of the younger set. Miss Isabella Nichol of Denver, was honor guest. Assisting the hostess in serving were Miss Ruth Bruere and Miss Muriel Duncan of Honolulu.

Miss Genevieve Thompson and Mrs. Carlton Walker Betts entertained at two attractive luncheons during the week. Miss Thompson honored her guest, Miss Ann Buxton of North Carolina, who was here for a brief visit.

The garden as a place for summer socials is growing daily in popularity. For Mrs. Cyrus Dolph's tea, Monday a place for the serving of punch had been arranged on the lawn with rustic garden chairs placed invitingly about and with a large and colorful Japanese umbrella as a shade.

For Margaret Montague's wedding to Buford Payne last Saturday the garden of the S. S. Montague place afforded a lovely setting. The groves were God's first temples and the thick, soft, green grass is the finest carpet one could wish, and the sweet, delicate odor of flowers growing about the borders and in clusters can provide a perfume better than any that is manufactured, and what surroundings could be more attractive for a wedding ceremony?

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Branch Riley are sojourning in Spokane, where they are being entertained by a host of friends in town and at the lakes. The Spokane papers give accounts of a luncheon of the Spokane chamber of commerce in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Riley at which 500 were present, and at which Mr. Riley was the principal speaker.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Esther Cloutier to John Clarke Pinkington. The wedding will take place July 31 in the home of Miss Cloutier's sister, Mrs. Cushing Baker of Walla Walla.

Miss Cloutier and Mr. Pinkington both have many friends here who will learn with interest of their betrothal. The bride-elect left a short time ago to visit her sister in Walla Walla.

Mrs. Lloyd R. Smith entertained Thursday honoring Miss Marjorie Campbell, whose engagement to Wilson Coffey was announced. About 50 called. Mrs. Elliott Corbett and Mrs. Maxwell Houser presided at the tea table.

FURS AND MYSTERY

By N. M. Ungar. If, through some enlightening miracle, the animals whose pelts are on display in unreliable fur dealers' stores could return to life and get back into their own skins one would witness the world's greatest living collection of misfits and mismomers.

For instance, we would find some poor, puny little fox tripping over his own skin which fits him like a glove before being so tremendously "expanded" after removal from his body.

Then, too, we'd find a group of muskrats strutting about in the skins they once wore, but which, through a variety of treatments and dyes, had taken on the appearance of seal, mink, sable and such like, and whose names they now brazenly bear.

Again, we'd see the little South American coypu, whose trade name is nutria, trying to discover what had happened to its former coat and why it now bore a tag of beaver.

Perhaps the raccoons would feel flattered on seeing their own pelts labeled lynx, and maybe our old friends the opossums would feel the same way about their coats being classed as stone marten. Who knows? Certainly the army of rabbits that would have to be on hand to fill the many skins they once wore would be bewildered at the great variety of colors and names under which their former jackets now went.

And so, in an allegorical manner, we point out to you, friend reader, a few of the many serious substitutions which occur, and warn you in all sincerity to—
