

COX IS ASKED ABOUT STAND ON LUSITANIA

Mr. McArthur Wants to Know Why Sinking Was Defended.

R. N. STANFIELD TALKS

Progressive and Constructive Policy for Promoting World Peace Declared by Candidate.

Members of the Roosevelt Republican club at the Benson hotel yesterday noon heard Robert N. Stanfield, republican nominee for United States senator declare that the republican party had a progressive and a constructive policy for promoting world peace and heard Representative McArthur challenge James M. Cox to explain why his newspaper defended the sinking of the Lusitania.

Peace Supreme Issue.

"Interest in the campaign is growing intense," said Mr. Stanfield, "and there is a widespread demand for such action at the polls on November 2 as will forever preserve and protect our country from such terrible conditions of disorder and misgovernment as prevail in Russia, for example."

"In the opinion of a majority, perhaps, of the leaders of both parties, the question of paramount importance to be decided at the coming election is the share the United States is to take in the world movement to prevent future wars. This supreme issue will be determined by the next president of the United States."

"If the senate should have a majority of democrats, then heaven alone knows what sort of a compromise the republican party would be forced to accept at the hands of a democratic senate."

Harding's Position Outlined.

Mr. Stanfield said that the great criticism of the Wilson covenant is directed at the surrender of American national rights to a super-government, composed of thirty odd nations, large and small. He quoted Senator Harding's speech in which he said the nations of the world looked to the United States for a policy of peace, but as an armed force."

Peace Not to Be Deceived Again.

He quoted Senator Poinsett as saying that America does not propose to be made the guardian of the world and to contribute our resources and the chief energies of the nation to the handling of the affairs of other nations. He contended that the recent elections showed that the trend of the sentiment of the voters was against the Wilson league. The American people, he said, were deceived by one slogan, "keep us out of war," they will not be deceived again."

Protective Tariff Advocated.

He declared that Senator Harding's position for the relief of the American farmer was constructive, that the American farmer needs a protective tariff to preserve the high standard of living in America and that they could only get that from the republican party.

PROHIBITION DEAD ISSUE

on matters pertaining to prohibition as against only two dry votes, and these after Ohio had adopted prohibition and re-elected Governor Cox to enforce it.

FACSIMILE OF FAMOUS LETTER ATTESTING COX'S "WETNESS."

848 Broad Street, Newark, N. J. July 22, 1920.

Cabain Bros., Dear Sir and Brother:

The organized liquor trade of New Jersey has set out to do its part toward the election of James M. Cox as the next President of the United States and it becomes my duty to call upon you to help.

The nomination of Governor Cox of Ohio for the presidency by the Democrats is a big victory for our interests and it can be attributed to a great degree to the activity of our trade organizations here in New Jersey and throughout the nation.

This is going to be the greatest the history of the United States has ever known from us.

So that we may know at once just what our resources are, may we not ask you to promptly return the enclosed card filled out with your remittance.

Jump in and help us fight. Give as much as you can afford. This is not merely a battle to save your business but one to preserve something more sacred namely, your personal liberty.

Yours fraternally, Geo. T. Randall, PRESIDENT.

Francisco platform and other questions. No reply was made by the governor.

Another demand for a statement on prohibition and article X came from a woman prohibition leader of Tacoma.

The governor had been contemplating a statement for some time and on his train today after conferences with Mr. Cotterill and other advisers decided to make his statement tonight.

His Seattle speech was the climax of Governor Cox's Washington campaign. Starting at Bellingham early this morning upon arrival from Walla Walla, the governor made three other speeches today, despite the handicap of severe hoarseness, at Mount Vernon, Everett and Tacoma.

Quiet Sunday Planned. The league of nations, the "sensational oligarchy" and further attacks on republican finances and leaders were the principal subjects of all of his addresses.

WET LETTER DAMAGING

State supreme court has thrown the question of prohibition squarely into politics. It is the vital issue in the campaign that is now under way.
