

$533,661.73 IS GIVEN VETERANS BY STATE

Money Expended Under Educational Aid Act.

4352 MEN RECEIVE SHARE

Practically Every Institution in Oregon Participates in Division of Money.

SALLEM, Or., Sept. 25.—(Special)—Out of a total of $572,087.09 made available for the operation of the so-called soldiers', sailors' and marines' educational aid act, there had been expended up to September 23, the sum of $533,661.73, according to records in the office of the secretary of state. These records also show that a total of 4352 ex-service men have received benefits under the law, and that practically every institution of learning in the state has shared in the funds.

The law authorizing financial aid to ex-service men was referred to the voters by the legislature in 1919, and was approved by them at a special election held on June 3 of the same year. This act went into effect on June 4, 1919. Amendment was made to the original law at the special session of the legislature last January and the provisions of this amendment became effective July 1 of this year.

Efficiency Is Authorized.
The original act authorized the inclusion in the state tax levy of a tax of 2 of one mill based on the total taxable property of the state, to be raised approximately $198,087.09. Because this sum of money was insufficient to pay the claims accruing under the law until the returns of the 1921 tax levy became available, the special session last January appropriated $250,000 from the general fund. This appropriation also was found to be inadequate, with the result that the state emergency board, at a session on June 4, 1920, authorized a deficiency of $225,000.

Although the secretary of state is reluctant to make a prediction, he believes that the money now available will be sufficient to cover the claims until the returns are received from the 1921 tax levy. This money is due on January 1, 1921, and based on a levy equivalent to 4 of one mill will amount approximately $400,000. The amendment to the original act increasing the original levy to 4 of one mill was approved by the voters of the state at the special election held on May 21, 1920.

Estimate Far Too Low.
At the time the educational act was originally approved it was estimated that not more than 2500 ex-service men would avail themselves of its benefits. This estimate proved far too low, however, and the state officials soon found themselves confronted with more than 4000 applications. Because of this situation the amendment creating another tax was made necessary.

The following summary shows the number of students who have shared in the benefits of the educational aid act up to September 23, 1920, the institutions they attended, and the amount of money received by each:

LEGION TO DECIDE POLICY

HANDS-OFF IDEA PROBABLY WILL BE REAFFIRMED.

Conduct Toward Labor Organizations and Industrial Disputes One Topic of Convention.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 25.—The American Legion is expected to adopt in its annual convention beginning here Monday next a statement of its policy to guide its members and posts in their conduct toward labor organizations and industrial disputes. An announcement issued by the legion's news service says that probably its hands-off policy will be reaffirmed and steps taken to enforce that policy on all units of the organization.

"A system to provide means of disciplining members and posts that run counter to the expressed policy of the majority of legion members will be discussed and probably adopted," the statement adds.

"The national constitution fails to provide any means of putting restraint on members who embarrass the organization, and prosecution of those fraudulently wearing the insignia of the leg on are among the subjects to be considered.

Means to improve the war risk bureau, public health service and the federal board for vocational training will be discussed.

The convention, which will bring together delegates from 9600 posts situated in the United States, a dozen foreign countries and United States possessions, representing a membership of close to 2,000,000 veterans of the world war, will adjourn September 29. The delegates are expected to number about 3000, while it is believed 25,000 unofficial visitors will attend.

The program calls for reports from national officers, and committees the first day of the convention. Temporary committees will present their resolutions the second day, and on the closing day officers will be elected. There are half a dozen candidates for the office of national commander, and a hot fight is expected.

All 64 living medals of honor men of the American army and marine corps have been invited to attend the convention as guests of the city of Cleveland.
