

IDAHO REPUBLICAN LATEST FORECAST

Harding Expected to Carry State by Large Majority.

SENATORIAL VOTE CLOSE

Opposition of Non-Partisan League Deemed Likely to Be Overcome by Democratic Faction.

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 30.—(Special.)—Idaho is not a rock-ribbed republican state in the true sense of the word. It has gone republican for president but twice since it became a state. It has gone democratic four times and once was in the populist column. Unless all signs fail, this year Idaho is going republican. It is going for Harding and is likely to go republican for senator, which is really more important than going for Harding. Great emphasis has been laid on that fact. Harding does not carry the state by a large majority, there is a possibility Gooding may be defeated, but not a probability.

When the senatorial situation is discussed, it is found there is a wide difference of opinion. The result will be close. But if Harding carries the state by any of the large majorities claimed, Frank R. Gooding, republican nominee, will be elected to the senate. If Harding does not carry the state by a large majority, there is a possibility Gooding may be defeated, but not a probability. Gooding kept closely within the range of national issues. He discussed the advisability of a protective tariff and the argument won him votes because of the heavy drop in the market prices for stock, for sheep and for all farm produce. Gooding should break even in northern Idaho with Senator Nugent. He will lose the southwest, but should more than make up the loss and gain the margin he needs to win in the southeast, where John Hart, republican national committeeman and prominent Mormon leader, says old-time republican majorities are to be elected.

Obstacles to Be Overcome. To be elected, Gooding has some outstanding obstacles to overcome. First, there is the opposition of the Non-partisan league which is uniform and compact so far as he is concerned. Second, there is the railroad and labor vote, which is generally conceded to be for Nugent. But the labor vote will not be voted solidly for or against any candidate. Gooding's opposition will, of course, act favorably in behalf of his opponent. But he should gain sufficient strength to offset this. The democratic vote deflected from Nugent because of the belief there was a combination with the Non-partisan league to give him support, will go to Gooding. Just how extensive this deflection will be will not be known until after the election. He should hold the rank and file of his own party and should make inroads into the rural vote because of his stand for a protective tariff.

Increase in Judges Likely. It is more than likely that the people will ratify the constitutional amendment, approved by the last legislature, increasing the number of supreme court judges from three to five. Judge Robert N. Dunn of Couer d'Alene will very likely be elected to the long term seat on the bench, succeeding Chief Justice William M. Morgan. That disposes of the vacancy on the bench when Justice Morgan's term expires. Charles E. McCarthy of Boise will be elected to the four-year conditional term and William A. Leo of Blackfoot to the six-year conditional term. All these are republicans. The democratic candidate for governor, T. A. Walters, and the non-partisan gubernatorial candidate, S. D. Fairchild, have not withdrawn from the fight for governor, which assures the election of Governor D. W. Davis.

It is very doubtful on the eve of the campaign if the league leaders expect to see Fairchild successful. They expect he will run better than Walters and a number of them seem confident Fairchild has a chance to defeat Davis. But Davis will succeed himself as chief executive of the state. Walters will probably be second and Fairchild third.

Forecast of Result Given. The election of Davis means the re-election of the balance of the republican state ticket. When the votes are counted on and after Tuesday of next week, so far as Idaho is concerned the result is more than likely to be as follows:

For president—Warren G. Harding. Senator—Frank R. Gooding. Congressman—E. H. Clegg. Justice of the supreme court—Regular long term, Robert N. Dunn; six-year conditional term, William A. Leo; four-year conditional term, Charles E. McCarthy. Governor—D. W. Davis. Lieutenant-governor—C. C. Moore. Attorney-general—E. L. Black. Secretary of State—G. O. Jones. Auditor—E. H. Gallet. Treasurer—Captain Dan Banks. Superintendent of public instruction—Miss Ethel E. Redfield. State Inspector—Stewart Campbell. The legislature will likely be republican, but the democrats and non-partisans have a chance of possible control by pooling their membership strength in the two houses.

BIRD BILL IS CRITICISED

REFUGEE MEASURE DENOUNCED BY STATE ENGINEER.

Official Declares Land Should Not Be Hundreds of Thousands to Oregon Public Schools.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—"The public is entitled to know about Malheur lake and the probable effect of the Roosevelt bird refuge measure to be submitted to the voters at next Tuesday's election," says a statement issued by Percy Cupper, state engineer, here today. "W. L. Finley takes exception to my statement that the lands are now in control of the state land board. The state land board, composed of the governor, secretary of state and the state treasurer, says this bill arbitrarily takes this land from the school children and gives it away to the federal government without a just and due return to the school fund," said Mr. Cupper. "If these are state lands, they are in control of the state land board. If they are government lands, as Mr. Finley would seem to indicate, then the Roosevelt bird refuge measure is useless.

The present measure, according to Mr. Finley, is the result of a compromise between the William Hanley and other irrigation interests of Malheur lake, and the proponents of the measure, and this has been strongly urged as a reason for the passage of the measure. "When we take into consideration the fact that the original measure proposed to give to the federal government all waters tributary to Malheur lake, including Slivies and Bitten rivers, upon which Mr. Hanley and the Swift-Corbett interests must depend for any further development of their holdings, it is not surprising that these interests found it necessary to agree to the compromise measure. "The vote of the Burns Commercial club, 26 to 4 against the measure, would indicate that the section most vitally interested fully appreciates the detrimental effect that the measure would have upon the development of Harney valley. "The 4,000 acres, a large part of which is suitable for agricultural purposes, should be retained for the benefit of the Oregon school fund, particularly upon which Mr. Hanley can be diked off and maintained as a bird refuge and the remainder disposed of so as to net several hundred thousand dollars to the school fund. The matter should be handled on a sound business basis for the best interests of the people of the state of Oregon, and in my opinion this can only be accomplished through defeat of the proposed measure."

Kelso Club House Nears Completion. KELSO, Wash., Oct. 30.—(Special.)—The new home of the Kelso club, which has been under construction for several months, is nearly completed, and will be used Tuesday evening as headquarters for election returns. A wire will be run to the building and a telegraph operator will be on the job there throughout the night.

JOHNSON FILLS HIGH POST

RE-ELECTION OF REPRESENTATIVE HELD VITAL.

Defeat of Member From 3d Washington District Would Be Blow to Restrictive Immigration.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—In official circles there is much interest in the re-election campaign of Albert Johnson in the third Washington congressional district. Attention is being called to the fact that Johnson, as chairman of the committee on immigration and naturalization of the house of representatives, occupies a position of vital importance in the nation's post-war reconstruction program. It is pointed out that Johnson is in favor of restriction of immigration. Should he be defeated, the chairmanship of his committee will fall either to Isaac Siegel of New York or Adolph Sabath of Chicago, neither of whom is ardently in favor of limiting the flow of immigrants to the United States. The fact that restriction of immigration is being looked upon more and more as a necessary enactment for the safeguarding of the industrial and economic situation of the country makes Johnson's re-election a subject of concern. His defeat would be looked upon as a calamity by all who have given serious study to the immigration problem. There is additional interest in the matter in view of the recent action of the American Legion in demanding the removal of Louis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor, whom Johnson severely arraigned last winter for refusal to deport alien revolutionists.

A Few Reasons Why You Should Vote to

Re-Elect C. N. McArthur

to Congress

C. N. McARTHUR

He is the only candidate in the Third Oregon District who will support the principles and policies of the Republican party, including protective tariff for American labor and industry and free tolls for American coastwise ships passing through the Panama Canal.

He is the only candidate who has pledged himself to oppose the Plumb Plan for a railroad soviet in this country and who is likewise opposed to socialistic raids on the public treasury.

He is the only candidate who promises to vote against seating Victor Berger should that convicted seditious again be elected by the people of Milwaukee.

He is the one candidate whose defeat is especially desired by the Socialists, the advance guard of the North Dakota Non-partisan League and all other radicals here and elsewhere. In order to promote the candidacy of McArthur's opponent, the Socialists have made no nomination against him. Their solid vote will be delivered to his opponent.

His three terms in Congress have developed him into an experienced legislator, one who is highly respected by his colleagues.

His record is highly creditable and satisfactory to his constituency. He has voted right on the big measures before Congress and the passage of legislation protecting Portland's water supply and establishing a naval base at Astoria are convincing proofs of his ability to get results for Oregon.
