

JAILER IS CLUBBED; PRISONER ESCAPES

Inmates' Pleading Saves Life of Medford Keeper.

POSSES COMBING WOODS

Canadian Arrested for Attempting to Pass Forged Checks; Break Tried Before.

MEDFORD, Or., Nov. 13.—(Special).—George Anderson, whose residence is unknown here, arrested in this city a week ago on a charge of attempting to pass a forged check, escaped from the county jail at 7 o'clock last night by clubbing Jailer Moses over the head several times with a bludgeon made out of a stick of wood when he entered the jail corridor to lock the cells for the night.

W. H. Johnson, president of the defunct Bank of Jacksonville, pleaded with the check forger not to kill the jailer and probably saved the latter's life. Heeding the words of the imprisoned banker, Anderson dropped his club and raced through the jail doors.

Fugitive in Woods. Jailer Moses staggered to his feet and fled at the fugitive. The escaped man is believed to be hiding in the woods.

Anderson evidently was alone in his plot to escape. The floor of the second tier of cells extends over and to one side of the jail door. Anderson lay on his stomach on the upper floor, and when Jailer Moses entered dealt him a heavy blow on the side of the head. He then jumped down and rained blows on the stunned keeper until W. H. Johnson, attracted by the hubbub, arrived and pleaded with the infuriated prisoner to cease his attacks.

Other Prisoners Stay. Many prisoners, including several awaiting sentence on felony charges, were in the jail, but none attempted to escape with Anderson.

Sheriff Terrill, who was in Medford when the jailbreak took place, hurried to Jacksonville, organized a posse, and went in pursuit. Police north and south were advised to watch out for Anderson. Moses was brought to a hospital in this city.

Forgery Is Confessed. Anderson was captured Saturday by John B. Goodrich, Roseburg merchant, after he had attempted to pass a forged check. That same night he attempted to get out of the city jail by picking the lock with a fork. He also tore the straps off his bed. Afterward, it is said, he admitted he was guilty and that his home was in Canada.

Harry Thomas, thought to be from Salem, was arrested this afternoon on a charge of passing a forged check on a local clothing store.

BIG RALLY IS ASSURED

HOME-COMING WEEK AT O. A. C. WILL BE EVENT.

Greatest Crowd Ever Seen on Such Occasion Expected; Football Game to Be Feature.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 13.—(Special).—Home-coming week, November 19 to 21, will be just one continuous round of "big doings" and the largest number of former students and alumni ever to return for such an occasion is expected, according to Charles H. Webber of Portland, chairman of the committee in charge of the event.

Freshman are preparing material for the big bonfire to be set off Friday evening, November 19. A monster rally for the University of Oregon-O. A. C. football game the next day will be held around the fire. The freshman-sophomore bag rush to be held Saturday morning will be a hotly contested affair. Eleven teams will represent each class in the struggle on the lower campus.

Alumni will have a chance to talk over old times at the alumni meeting Saturday noon. Addresses will be given by members of the alumni association and members of the board of regents. Letters have been sent to all alumni, extending special invitations to this meeting.

The big game Saturday afternoon will be the feature of the week-end. It is thought that with the new grandstand and adjacent bleacher space there will be plenty of room for the enormous crowd expected.

CO-ED TEAM IS CHOSEN

Girl Debaters Picked After Tests at Oregon Agricultural College.

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 13.—(Special).—Eight girls have been chosen for the co-ed debate squad, after which the coaches consider the most successful tryout in the history of debating at the college.

Those named for the squad were Doris Jenkins, senior in home economics, from Los Angeles, Cal.; Erna Lebe, senior in home economics, Corvallis, Or.; Elvira von Hoelbeck, junior in physical education, from Walla Walla, Wash.; Hortense von Hoelbeck, junior in home economics, Walla Walla, Wash.; Rovena Rhoads, sophomore in home economics, Portland; Ethel Rogers, freshman in home economics, Woodburn, Or., and Evelyn Clark, freshman in commerce, Corvallis, Or.

Judges for the tryouts were Professor C. B. Mitchell, college debate coach; Professor E. B. Lemon and E. B. Black of last year's college team.

ENGINEERS PLAN BILLS

Chamber to Be Assisted in Effort to Eliminate Canal Tolls.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Portland chapter, American Association of Engineers, held yesterday in the Tilford building, steps were taken to assist the Oregon Chamber of Commerce in drafting proposed legislation and compiling data to submit to congress on important measures, including exemption of tolls through the Panama canal on coastwise shipping.

To be in closer touch with the situation with regard to important matters affecting the welfare of Oregon, the chapter voted to affiliate with the State Chamber of Commerce. The practicing engineers' section, at its meeting, laid plans for acquainting the general public with the function of the engineering profession. The next regular meeting of the Portland chapter will be held November 24 in the headquarters, Tilford building.

An interesting talk on the Peruvian Andes was given at the meeting by G. Edwards, an Oregon engineer who is the chief geologist of the Cerro de Pasco Mining company. The difficulties to be met and overcome by Americans who are endeavoring to develop the resources of Peru were discussed by the speaker.

Among his experiences was a visit to a tribe inhabiting an unexplored jungle on the eastern side of the Andes. These cannibals practice the little-known "art" of head-shrinking. By a process all their own, they

COSTLY DELAY TOLD AT SHIPPING PROBE

Methods Used in Selling Material Is Recited.

NEW WITNESS IS CALLED

Use of Board Funds Without Proper Authority, Point Made by Witness.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The name of Representative Gallivan of Massachusetts was brought into testimony offered here today in the Walsh committee inquiry into the affairs of the United States shipping board.

Robert E. Kline, special representative of the boards' supply and sales department, was testifying as to methods used in disposal of surplus material. He described an effort by his department to procure what he said was an advantageous contract for disposal of scrap material. A bid for its sale on a "six months' supply basis" at a rate of 85 cents a ton over the market price was accepted, rejected, accepted again and once more held up because an official in Washington discovered he had acted without authority, he said.

In the interim another form of bid had been offered. The second bidder alleged he had been discriminated against and, according to the witness, the board secured from Mr. Gallivan a telegram complaining that this bidder, one of his constituents, had not been treated fairly. The first telegram, the witness added, was soon followed by another which he termed "sharp," demanding an investigation into the matter to take the matter to the floor of congress.

Insistence Brings Haate. The insistence of Mr. Gallivan, the witness said, no doubt, caused the home office of the board to give the controversy over the "scrap" contracts quicker consideration. At any rate, he added, he forwarded to the board a complete file of the case. The delay in determining the success of the bidder, however, cost the government money, he declared, for at that time—last June and July—the market for scrap material was much higher than it now is. From shipyard materials and contracts over the country, "scrap" was ready to be shipped, he said. By Captain James A. MacGregor of Baltimore, now general manager for the South Atlantic Maritime corporation, but formerly district agent for the shipping board at Savannah and Wilmington, was called.

He related instances of delays to shipping board vessels, alleged interlocking operating organizations, delays in repairs to ships and congested harbors which he said cost the shipping board money. He admitted, however, that incidents similar to those he described had occurred with private companies, but not to such an extent as they did with the government operations.

Roan Shipments Told. He told of a shipment of rosin from Savannah to Havana which could not be unloaded at the latter port because of congestion. Its consignee raised a "red flag" complaint and he was paid for the rosin by the steamship company which carried it with a check on shipping board funds.

The rosin went with the ship from Havana to Buenos Aires, thence back to New York, thence to Baltimore and back to Savannah, where it was sold at a loss. The shipping board was reimbursed, but the point of the witness was that its funds were used without proper authority.

7000 IDLE IN PORTLAND STATE LABOR COMMISSION SEES NO RELIEF AHEAD.

Closing Down of War Industries and Lumber Mills Held Responsible for Unemployment.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 13.—(Special).—There are approximately 7000 men in Portland out of employment at the present time and a proportionate number in other sections of the state, according to C. H. Gram, state labor commissioner, who is close in touch with the industrial and agricultural conditions in Oregon.

This information was revealed by Mr. Gram following the receipt of a telegram from the national industrial conference board asking for a statement of labor and industrial conditions in Oregon. The falling off in the demand for labor, according to Gram, is due to the closing down of many industries directly or indirectly connected with supplying the government with war materials, and the inability of the lumber mills to operate at a profit.

While the demand for lumber has decreased materially during the last few months, Mr. Gram said it was his opinion that this was not the most important factor in closing down the plants. The high freight rates, he said, affected the inland mills to the extent that they could not compete with plants having water transportation and were compelled to accept the alternative of discharging their forces pending more favorable conditions.

Although deploring any action that may be taken by employers to the end of disturbing industrial conditions, Mr. Gram is of the opinion that many more men will be out of employment after the first of next year. This condition, he believes, will have a tendency to reduce wages in case the cost of commodities is decreased proportionately.

ELECTION EXPENSES TOLD

Statements of Various Candidates Filed at Salem.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 13.—(Special).—Roswell Connor, McMinnville, republican candidate for district attorney for Yamhill county, expended $116.25 in making his campaign practice the general election, according to a statement filed with the secretary of state today.

Other expense accounts follow: E. P. Rump, Roseburg, socialist candidate for presidential elector, $10; W. W. Myers, Oregon City, socialist candidate for presidential elector, $13.99; J. M. MILCH COWS IN GERMANY

First Shipment of American Donations Arrive at Hamburg.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—Seven hundred Holstein cows, comprising the first consignment of milk cows donated by Americans to Germany, arrived in Hamburg today, where they have been quarantined pending action by the American consular and official who will determine their final destination.

An American dairy company which is supervising the fit, enterprise and shipment of the cows, still retains title to them and has demanded assurance from the German government that they will not be included in the cattle levy demanded by the allies.

Where some men fail in a woman's eyes-

Where is the man who can answer this: "Why does a woman often prefer to have a man come home with a little remembrance for her, than with the news that he has swung a big deal?" Give it up! You're wise! For the only possible answer is—"Because she's a woman!" Deep down in her heart is a spot which you can touch in no other way than by a little act of courtesy.

Here's a suggestion—take home today a box of Roof Garden Chocolates

The quality of these, the "chocolates different," makes them just the sort of remembrance a woman most appreciates.

You are sure to please with any of the ten Roof Garden assortments.

Perfect Dentistry

and Painless Methods Are What I Am Striving For

Attainable Ideals THE salient feature in the conduct of this organization is to maintain one high standard of service throughout every department.

DR. E. G. AUSPLUND, M.D. My Practice Is Limited to High-Class Dentistry Only, at Prices Everyone Can Afford.

Our system of painless dentistry has been brought to such a point of perfection at this office that we are now able to guarantee to perform all kinds of dental work without needlessly hurting the patient. This is a matter of importance to you, for possibly you are among the many who have put off having the necessary dental work done on account of being afraid of being hurt. If you are, then we tell you that "you need delay no longer" on this account.

MODEST PRICES Quantity regulates price. This is a fundamental axiom of business that cannot be denied. Therefore, the fact that we do a very large volume of business permits us to take a smaller profit on the individual patient than an office which does only one-third to one-half of the volume that we do can possibly afford to take. So when you compare our prices with others you will find that ours are the lowest, especially considering the fact that we turn out nothing but the very highest grade of work.

BEST OF MATERIALS The best is the only kind of material that we can afford to use. We found this out long ago.

OUR 15-YEAR GUARANTEE —is a binding agreement on our part that if, for any reason whatever, work done at this office does not give you entire satisfaction, come back to us and we will make it right.

SANITIZATION This is a hobby with us. In fitting up our offices we put in all the best appliances for sterilizing instruments. An examination and complete estimate are yours for the asking, and acceptance of the invitation places you under no further obligation.

Open till 8—at night

REMEMBER Our Motto: "Every patient must be absolutely satisfied."
