

KINGS AND QUEENS OF 1920 CROWNED BY JUDGES AT TENTH ANNUAL PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL LIVESTOCK SHOW.

SUNSHINE TRACTS
THOUSANDS TO SHOW

Day's Attendance Is Estimated at 12,000.

EXHIBIT IS OPEN TODAY

With Admission Cut in Half, One of Biggest Crowds Seen at Exposition Is Expected.

Sunshine drew thousands to the doors of the Pacific International Livestock exposition yesterday and insured a record-breaking house for the night horse show. The attendance for the day was estimated at more than 12,000 by Dan Freeman, superintendent in charge of admissions. Total attendance for the week is expected to reach 75,000.

Today, with the buildings held open for those who have been unable to visit the exposition during the week and the admission cut to half price, one of the largest crowds of the week is expected. Campbell's American band has been retained for concerts during the afternoon, and an impromptu programme by some of the best riders of the horse show will be staged in the main arena. Most of the stock exhibit will not move before Monday.

Juvenile riders handling some of the best mounts at the horse show were the star performers at the matinee horse show. Margie, beautiful sorrel mare owned by Miss Prudence Talbot, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Talbot, took blue ribbons in each of the three events which she entered. In the first event for girls' saddle ponies she was ridden by her little mistress. Later, with Jack McDougal as rider, she took first prize in the saddle pony class and in the hurdles. In the latter event she was the outstanding entry with her grace and willingness to take the barriers and her easy stride.

Spectacular Event Staged.
James McCleave's horses took all four places in the four-farall high jump, the most spectacular event of the afternoon. Indian Princess took first, while Indian Maid, Indian Queen and Victory were placed in the order named. Doris McCleave, graceful and daring girl rider, who handles all mounts from Shetlands to the mightiest hunters, was warmly applauded on each appearance she made in the arena. During the afternoon she showed Colorado Silver Dancer, which won high honor at the night horse show Thursday for her owner, H. S. Burnham, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The Shetlands were given loud applause in each of four events in which they were shown. Admiral Dewey, James McCleave, Victoria, B. C. won the blue ribbon in the riding event while Babe and Buttons, Curtis Ruby, Portland, were winners in the pair event for saddle ponies. Admiral Dewey also took first in the single harness showing and Babe and Buttons in tandem harness.

The record sale of the 1920 exposition was made yesterday when two-year-old Hollywood Payne Segla, one of the best in the breed, was sold to farm Holstein herd, was sold for $2500 over long distance telephone to E. H. Rohrer, Eugene, chairman of the agricultural committee of the Oregon State Bankers' association. Judge Segla, deposed grand champion, is sire of the young record-breaker, M. Plummer, general manager of the exposition, conducted negotiations on behalf of the Hollywood farm, while Mr. Rohrer made the purchase for McCutcheon & Son.

Sheepmen Boost Finances.
Sheep breeders boosted the exposition's finances by subscribing $2500 for stock at a meeting yesterday noon. W. H. Ayer, Portland, member of the board of directors, who has been one of the most liberal supporters and strongest backers of the exposition, put up $1200 for the total raised by the sheepmen.

Stock sales closed yesterday with the auction of milking Shorthorns and Herefords. Thirty-four milking Shorthorns brought a total of $14,250, an average of $419 a head. Charles J. Weaver of Corvallis bought four Shorthorns for his herd, paying $1500. He also paid the record price of the afternoon, $1100, for Dolores Lee, yearling roan cow. Silver Lassie, 7-year-old cow, brought second high money. She was sold for $1050 by the Kirtland Farm, Central Point, Or.

All Shorthorns were offered by Thomas Harrison, Santa Rosa Stock Farm, Santa Rosa, Cal.

tree with a rock and it fell into the creek and was drowned.

Losers Are Good-Fellowship.
In mentioning the good-fellowship existing among the various exhibitors a day or so ago, I mentioned only the case of Lou Simpson and the owner of the Hollywood herd of Holsteins, but the same fellowship has been shown all down the line. No loser has found fault with the judging, no charges of favoritism have been breathed, no charges of "fixing" have been entertained. To illustrate this I will state that Representative Hawley had a Jersey herd on exhibition, and he thought he would win over the Luckiamute Jerseys. But the judge thought differently and gave the awards to the Luckiamute herd. As the decision was made the congressman laughingly remarked: "Well, that judge knows Jerseys better than a college professor knows the alphabet, and his decision was right, even if I am the loser, and I congratulate the Luckiamute owner for winning entirely on merit."

Judges Know Business.
I guess no show ever had a better staff of judges than those who have acted in that capacity during the week just closed, and Mr. Plummer and his associates to be congratulated for securing as good men for the positions as could be found in the country.

Now that the show is over, I wish to apologize to O. M. Plummer, the manager for using his private in apparent levity once or twice, and to say that he seems to be the man to keep the helm as long as his services can be secured. I do not think his equal for an Oregon show, could be found. He has on different occasions sought to be governor or secretary of state, but let me say, and I am sure I voice the sentiments of every director and official for the show and every exhibitor and stock grower of the northwest, that Mr. Plummer is more useful to the people of Oregon in his present position than he could be in any other. He believes if he becomes a politician he will gather more emoluments and make more friends than could any governor or other state official.

YUKON TRAVEL INCREASES

3000 Tons Ore Hauled From Hills to Await River Opening.

DAWSON, Y. T., Nov. 20.—Extensive winter travel has developed between Dawson and the new Yukon silver camp at Mayo.

CHICAGO SHOW RIVALED

PORTLAND LIVESTOCK FAIR PROMISES TO BE LEADER.

Condensed Milk Future Predicts

Wonderful Future for Great Exposition Established Here.

The Portland stock show is rapidly becoming one of the leading rivals of the international exposition at Chicago, according to the belief expressed by E. A. Stuart of Seattle, president of the Carnation Milk company and head of the Carnation stock farm, which captured a large number of prizes at the local show.

Mr. Stuart predicted that the Portland show would, in the near future, become fully as important in the stock-raising world as the Chicago exposition and that it might even outrank the show of the middle western metropolis.

The stock show here I consider one of the biggest assets the west has," he said, "and the exhibits give an idea of the rapid strides this section is making in the development of the stock-raising business."

Stuart and A. M. Gormley, superintendent of the Carnation stock farm, 17 miles east of Seattle, came to the Portland show with a herd of Holsteins and captured 13 firsts out of a possible 24. These included firsts in 2-year-old heifer, first senior and junior yearling heifer, first senior and junior calf, first 2-year-old bull, first aged bull, first young herd, first calf herd, first and third set of sire, senior champion female, junior champion female and senior champion female.

They also captured the C. A. Harrison trophy for get of sire, and the Oregon Journal cup for calf herd.

EUGENE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special).—A carload of pure-bred Shorthorn bulls and heifers has been shipped from the livestock exposition in Portland to Eugene for Lane county breeders, according to a long-distance message from H. The cattle are for Hawley brothers of Lorane, Vernon Sly of Goshen, Cal. M. Young of Eugene and S. Stickley of Goshen, Cal. breeders of Shorthorns. The shipment is said to consist of some of the best cattle of this breed ever brought to Lane county. Mr. Brundage said that the prices of the animals ranged as high as $650.

Salem Minister Dies.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special).—Rev. Charles E. Scott, who retired from the pulpit of the Highland Friends church 18 years ago, died at a Salem hospital today. MISH FURNITURE CO.
188-190 FIRST STREETLIVESTOCK AND HORSE SHOWS
TRIUMPH OVER RAINY SEASON

Interesting Feature of Closing Days of Great Exposition Is Birth of Jersey Girl Calf.

BY ADDISON BENNETT.

YESTERDAY saw the closing of this season's livestock show. It has been a trying week on the officials as well as the exhibitors, but every hoof and hair has been in good quarters, better probably than when at home. By constant work the stalls and walks have been kept in fine sanitary condition, so that there have been no odors arising to do malice to the olfactory organs of the visitors. In every way the show has been a grand success. Even the attendance has mounted to new heights, and the fair balance on the credit side of the ledger.

It may not be—certainly is not—a very great event for a newly-born calf to make its advent into the world at a stock show. And yet a little Jersey that first saw the light about 2 o'clock Thursday morning attracted a crowd last yesterday afternoon. It is a little girl calf—a beauty, bred in the Valley Dairy farm at Skamokawa, Ore., and owned by J. D. Rowe & Son, Davis, Cal. It is still in its very infancy.

The annual meeting will be held here during stock show week each year. When the association will number between 200 and 300 breeders. The present huge buildings were erected it was supposed they would not be filled for a number of years. There were 480 stanchions provided in the dairy wing and the same number in the beef stock wing. Counting the space reserved for calves in the dairy section, about 550 head could be there amply accommodated, and more than 500 in the beef annex. But this year the overflow tent of the dairy stock has more than 200 head and the beef stock overflow tent has more than 100 head. It is nearly as great. Those figures will show that as to numbers the show is remarkably stupendous. And remember, it is still in its very infancy.

But the night horse shows are far more astonishing than any other feature of the show. I think it would be the persistence of J. D. Farrell that gave us the horse show at the state fair and at the livestock show. Of course he found lots of enthusiasts to push the cause along, but where there was one who thought it would succeed there were a score of doubters. Now we know that Mr. Farrell and his fellow horse lovers were correct, and we can look forward to the day in the near future, when it will be considered one of the great events of the west. I should have used the plural, for I refer to the show at the state fair as well as at the stock show.

Oscar Correll Interesting Visitor.
Among the visitors Friday I noticed S. O. (Oscar) Correll of Baker. He is the secretary of the Oregon Horse and Cattle Breeders' association, of which Baker is president. He is a lawyer, and it is largely due to his labors that cattle and horse stealing has become unfashionable and dangerous in the Oregon range country. Mr. Correll is also a trout fisher. A "Brother of the Angle" He does his fishing mostly far from home, in a little stream about half way between Canyon City and Bear valley. I met him there a little more than a year ago and he has been caught in the act. He said no. I asked him if he had ever caught a trout in that stream. He said: "No, but I had a darned good bite in this very hole two years ago last fourth of July." Persistence is Oscar's first name.

FORESTRY POLICY LEADS
OREGON LIKELY TO SET PACE FOR OTHER STATES.

Lack of Quorum Prevents Board From Adopting Plans Said Most Comprehensive.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special).—Lack of a quorum today prevented the state board of forestry in a meeting at Corvallis from adopting what forestry men say will be the most complete and comprehensive state forestry policy ever adopted by any state in the union and which will be a model that other states doubtless will follow.

C. S. Chapman, forester for the Western Forestry and Conservation association, said here tonight that because of Oregon's vast timber resources it is important that the state should take a lead as that represented in the policy to be adopted.

Governor Olney and other members of the board who returned here tonight, declined to make a list of the forestry policy, explaining that they wished to wait until it is adopted, which doubtless will be two weeks from today at a meeting in Portland. The new state policy was drafted by Mr. Chapman and Dean Peavy, head of the forestry department at Oregon Agricultural college.
