BRIDGE HEARING CALLED

HOOD RIVER ACTIVITIES FOR SPAN FOUND TO HAVE CEASED.

Representative May Attend Meeting Dec. 6—Site Selected Two Miles West of Cascades.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Colonel J. B. Cavanaugh, district engineer of Portland, has announced that a public hearing on a congressional act authorizing the Interstate Construction corporation to build a bridge across Columbia river, near Cascade Locks, has been called. Following the announcement it was found that Hood River activities for an interstate bridge here have almost ceased.

Discussions of the local trans-Columbia bridge were taken up by the commercial club last winter. A committee, appointed to investigate the feasibility of plans, reached the conclusion that the cost of long local spans and fills would make the financing of the bridge impracticable.

It is likely that Hood River representatives will attend the hearing December 6. The site selected by the Interstate Construction corporation is about two miles west of the Cascades, where a suspension bridge, it is said, can be constructed at a remarkably low cost. The site is near the spot where Indian mythology says the bridge of the gods once spanned the Columbia gorge.

WALNUT PRICES GOOD

Growers Around Dayton Selling Their Crop for 26 Cents.

DAYTON, Or., Nov. 19.—(Special)—The walnut growers of Dayton and surrounding vicinity are now disposing of their 1920 crop at good prices. The walnut-growing industry of this part of the state is increasing materially. That this industry is profitable is shown by the following table of the production of a four-acre orchard of 12-year-old trees owned by Martin Miller, two miles from Dayton:

First crop, 1917, 950 pounds, average price, 22¢.

Second crop, 1918, 1410 pounds, average price, 22¢.

Third crop, 1919, 2620 pounds, average price, 31¢.

Fourth crop, 1920, 2800 pounds, average price, 26¢.

The crop for 1920 gives an average return an acre of $142.

POST GETS QUARTERS

Prineville Veterans to Have Use of Building as Money Maker.

PRINEVILLE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The Crook county post of the American Legion has taken over the Commercial hall building and will have entire control of the building, the only conditions being that the post meet all expenses, upkeep and improvements. All profits made will go into a fund for the memorial building, to be built later on.

The men will go to work at once cleaning up and putting the building in shape for occupancy by the Legion. The local Red Cross chapter will give a dance on Thanksgiving to help swell the coffers of the post.

GIRL IS POULTRY EXPERT

Alma Oekfen, 12 Years Old, Makes $451.82 Profit in Year.

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Two hundred and twenty chickens, 54 dozen eggs, value $65.72; cost of production, $199.90. Profit, $451.82.

That is the record of 12-year-old Alma Oekfen's efforts last year as a poultry raiser at McKenna, Wash., and just to show her appreciation of the aid given her by County Club Leader A. T. Dellipain, she is going to present to him a full-grown turkey for Thanksgiving dinner.

Miss Oekfen has just completed her second year as a poultry raiser and a profit of nearly $500 is the reward for her efforts. She also is interested in raising turkeys.

Alma intends to raise poultry for two more years in preparation for an agricultural course at college.

Chinook Melts Snow Rapidly.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special)—The strong chinook wind that has been prevailing for several days, according to Homer A. Rogers, host at Mount Hood Lodge, has melted the snow far up toward the snowline of Mount Hood. "I have never seen the snow melt faster," said Mr. Rogers. "Heavy rains and the melting snow have turned upper valley streams into torrents."

Powell Butte Rancher Dead.

PRINEVILLE, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Henry Hansen, a prominent rancher of Powell Butte, died at Bend Friday following an operation. He was born in Germany and was 50 years of age. The funeral took place at Powell Butte and was in charge of the Redmond Knights of Pythias, of which order Hansen was a member.

APPLE EXPORTS REVIVE

REPORTS SAY ENGLISH MART SHOWS UPWARD TREND.

Hood River Will Handle 65 Per Cent of All Fruit Shipped From Pacific Northwest.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Nov. 20.—(Special)—Latest reports from England, according to Northwestern headquarters of Dan Wullie & Co., located here, indicate that the export apple market is picking up. The trade is being somewhat relieved of the glut of poor barrel fruit, and as the quality of the apples offered is becoming better the trend is toward better prices.

"When the price control was restored on November 15," said Walter Woolpert, of the local Dan Wullie office, "the maximum for apples was placed at 23 shillings and six pence a box, whereas the old maximum was 20 shillings and 10 pence. With exchange at $3.50, this price will net us back here $2.31 a box. It now costs 30 cents a box to ship apples to New York city. The trans-Atlantic freight adds another 70 cents, and incidentals of insurance and dock handling charges will reach another 20 cents. We hope to get the maximum price on our exports."

To date, Mr. Woolpert says, his concern has shipped about 250 carloads of fruit, or 65 per cent of the tonnage that will be handled during the season from Hood River, Newburg and Sheridan, Or., and White Salmon, Lytle and Underwood, Wash. He says that already about 125 carloads have been shipped to England.
