Running—the Dental Gantlet A "Feesable" Method of Extracting "Dead Teeth" From "Live" Prospects

DR. E. G. AUSPLUND, MGR. My Practice is Limited to High-Class Dentistry Only—at Prices Everyone Can Afford.

Some way or other, old-fashioned honesty does not seem to mix with new-fangled ideas. Formerly, when your teeth bothered, you went to your dentist, and if he was competent and honest (as most dentists were) he quickly found out what was wrong and remedied the trouble in short order and for a modest fee.

But, seemingly, that is ALL WRONG NOW—"passe," as it were.

NOW you first visit your physician, who examines you, charges a fee and refers you to the radiodontist, who makes X-ray pictures of your teeth, charges his fee and sends you to a dentist, who charges another fee, and turns you over to a specialist, who advises "surgical removal" of the teeth, which frequently costs $50 per tooth. Then "curettment of the sockets" means another fat fee, and yet this whole procedure is based upon questionable "facts" and theories, if not plain graft.

Dr. Johnson of Chicago, one of America's ablest men, a dental AUTHORITY and a most fearless opponent of wrongdoing in commenting on this "passing the dental buck," says:

"I do not charge such patients a fee, although my office force wonders why. I tell the patient I am doing this as a courtesy to his physician or dentist, and I get them out of the office feeling that THE CHAIN OF GRAFT IS AT LEAST BROKEN IN ONE PART."

In this dental office we have but one kind of service—the BEST EXPERIENCE AND SKILL CAN SUGGEST.

Our examinations are free, frank and honest.

EXTRACTIONS When desired we use Nitrous Oxide and Oxygen for painless extractions. You go to sleep. When you awaken it's all over. Your tooth is out and you feel fine; no after-effects. X-ray service is given gratis to patients having work done.

Prices are governed entirely by the extent and character of the work, and are always as low as such work can be properly done for. You are told in advance just what work is required, and the exact cost. You need feel under no obligation in accepting this service at our hands. Bear it in mind, when in need of dental work.
