

POLES ARE BLAMED FOR SILESIAN ROW

Filibusters Supplied With Arms and Ammunition.

ALLIED DUTY HELD CLEAR

New War Held Danger as Result of Insurgency—Russia Feared as Aggressor.

BY GEORGE N. BARNES, Ex-Member War Cabinet.

(Copyright, 1921, by The Oregonian.) (After ten weeks spent in travel, Mr. Barnes has returned to London and today resumed his editorial duties on the Silesian situation. Replacing Mr. Arthur Henderson, who substituted for him, Mr. Barnes comments interestingly on the Silesian controversy, the German reparations treaty, America's entry into allied councils, and the British mining strike.)

LONDON, May 21.—(By Wireless.)—While the United States may take a detached view of the Polish Silesian situation, her participation in the deliberations of the supreme council places her in a position to help very effectively. The Polish Silesians are ominously. The Polish filibusters have again broken loose. Worse still, they are being supplied from somewhere with arms and ammunition, and that, too, at a time when Germany has been compelled to disarm and is denied the opportunity of fighting effectively for the retention of territory she has held for 200 years.

The Poles well know they have agreed that the adjustment of the border line is a matter for the allied and associated powers to determine after a poll of the people. Yet while knowing this they have been disloyal to the treaty and those who won for them their freedom. This latest act of base ingratitude, on a part of the escapades of Zeligowski in Vilna.

Allies' Duty Clear. The duty of the allied and associated powers is clear. The Poles must be brought to heel. Further, any shuffling can only have disastrous results. There can be neither the peace nor security which the world needs so long as irresponsible filibusters are allowed to play such pranks as those of Pilsudski, of Vilna, and now in upper Silesia.

There is in fact, a danger of the Polish insurgency bringing on more war. Russia is watchful. She may seek the restoration of her one-time territory and might plead hostility in justification of renewed hostilities by her perfidious neighbor.

If, therefore, Poland is to be maintained as an independent state, she must hold sternly to her bond.

There is no doubt in my mind that the world has escaped an ugly situation by Germany's acceptance of the allied terms on the reparations question. For it is not likely now that the French ever will occupy the Ruhr valley.

Germany to Issue Bonds. Many persons would have made the terms to Germany harsher, but after all permanent peace would have been impossible under conditions of permanent serfdom. The Germans are at least bound to issue bonds in the near future at the face value of $12,000,000,000 and pledge themselves to other $20,000,000,000 to be issued, if and when the reparations commission may think fit. The latter provisions probably are designed to satisfy French feeling and are not likely to mature. The Germans will be well advised now to make a real effort to comply with the immediate requirements of the accepted terms so as to put themselves right with the world.

In all the turmoil about our ears the hope of the future is the resumption by America of her place in the allied councils. The interests of the modern world are too closely interlocked to admit of so great a country as the United States standing aside in isolation.

Mining Strike Drags. Lack of agreement may be in the supreme council in regard to Japan and many matters, but agreement is much more likely to be reached by close personal contact than by diplomatic sparring at long range.

The British mining dispute still drags its weary course, although there are at the moment renewed efforts to bring the parties together in conference. The government offer of a $10,000,000 loan to ease wages down to an economic level failed to effect a settlement, and, in fact, but helped to revivify revolutionary elements and their dupes to distort the dispute into one as between the government and the miners.

This was unfortunate for the miners, of course. The promises of support for the miners, held out by frothy sections of the community, amounted to little in actual performance. This last lesson in the futility of fury may not be lost in the future.

Radicals Without Influence. We have in this country the same noxious elements as those who rallied on Mr. Thomas in New York the other day. But they are without influence except when labor is excited or confused. If the titular leaders of labor would but act in the future in the light of that knowledge it would be a great gain. The latter must stand up against those who shout in terms of class warfare and must think for themselves in terms of citizenship. Until they do there will be senseless conflict with attendant misery to be borne mainly by the workers of the world.

Meantime my sympathies are with the miners. The mine owners precipitated the dispute by the arbitrary and provocative termination of contracts. But the consequent initial advantage to the miners has been lost by undue emphasis being laid on an issue but faintly understood and by the rancorous ravings of revolutionaries, whose association with the miners' cause has created a prejudice against it in the public mind.

GOVERNOR NAMES TAX PROBE GROUP

Committee to Study Ways to Equalize Burdens.

SUBPENA POWER GIVEN

Real Estate Said to Bear 85 Per Cent of State's Load and Relief to Large Taxpayers Sought.

SALEM, Or., May 21.—(Special.)—Names of the men he will ask to serve as members of the committee on tax investigation, created by an act of the last legislature, were announced by Governor Otcott today. The new law becomes effective next Wednesday.

The personnel of the committee, subject to acceptance on the part of the members selected by the governor, include: Henry E. Reed, Portland, tax expert and for several years county assessor for Multnomah county and at present connected with the Hartman & Thompson bank in Portland. L. N. Day, Portland, representing general business interests. Mr. Day is a student on taxation matters and was a member of the special committee appointed to investigate before the legislature met to investigate a similar question in regard to taxation. C. S. Chapman, Portland, forester for the Western Forestry and Conservation association and secretary-manager of the Oregon Forest Fire association.

Coe A. McKenna, Portland, president of the Portland Realty Board and vice-president for Oregon of Interstate Realty association. Walter M. Pierce, La Grande, farmer and livestock breeder. E. H. Smith, Lakeview, county judge of Lake county and president of the State Association of County Judges and Commissioners. Charles A. Brand, Douglas county, agriculturist and horticulturist and a former member of the legislature from that county.

Committee to Organize. The law provides that this committee shall, within ten days after its appointment, meet at the capitol in Salem and organize by electing one member thereof to the position of chairman, one member to the position of vice-chairman and by electing some competent person to the position of executive secretary.

The committee has extensive powers to investigate tax questions and is authorized to require the attendance of any persons in Oregon as witnesses and the production of any book, paper, document or other evidence, and may issue subpoenas requiring the attendance of such witnesses.

The committee is required, on or before November 1, 1922, to file with Governor Otcott a report containing such data, information and recommendations as it shall believe to be of public benefit or touching on such suggestions as shall be required by the governor. The committee is to present to the governor, with a report, properly prepared bill on the subjects covered by the act, this bill to be submitted to the next biennial session of the legislature.

The committee is authorized under the act to procure from the commissioners of internal revenue or from any other federal authority any data or information which the committee shall believe of assistance and it also may make application to congress or any other authority for any data.

Love's Illusion Dispelled. THE DALLES, Or., May 21.—(Special.)—Two years of married life with Tony Mukaida, Japanese, were enough to dispel any illusion of love held by his white wife, Tilly Mukaida. She alleges in a complaint filed in the circuit court asking for a divorce, that the white girl and the son of Nippon were married in Vancouver, Wash., in 1919. Mukaida is working as a cook in a Portland restaurant, she alleges. She asks for her maiden name Tilly Smith.

Punchboards Held Lotteries. SALEM, Or., May 21.—(Special.)—Punchboards are lotteries under the meaning of the statutes, according to a legal opinion given here today by I. H. Van Winkle, attorney general. The opinion was asked by Robert D. Lytle, district attorney of Malheur county.

Man Who Bought Horse Gets $2000 for False Arrest. Two thousand dollars was awarded to J. E. Marsanal by a verdict of a jury in the circuit court yesterday, in his suit against O. J. Brown, alleging false arrest.

Marshall was thrown into jail in Sherman county, transferred to the Multnomah county jail, and freed on the hearing before District Judge Jones, on a complaint sworn to by Brown accusing him of theft of a horse. The animal concerned was "Minnie H" who was sold to Marshall by Brown and resold by Brown.

A dispute between the men resulted in the charges by Brown that Marshall never had title to the horse and the issuance of the warrant.
