CHANGES NOT FOR ALTERATION, SAYS CAMP.

NEW SECTION IS ADDED

Ruling Says Side Making Safety May Bring Ball Out to Their 30-Yard Line.

BY L. H. GREGORY.
ALMOST before we know it the football season will be here. From this writing to September 15, opening day of varsity football practice under Pacific coast conference rules, is less than a month. The colleges already have forgotten baseball. They are thinking only of football.

It looks like a big season. Everybody, of course, will be out to beat California. With that great seven minus only two of its stars, Majors and Pesky Sprott, the chances for doing it are not particularly bright. But that will not keep the boys from trying.

Oregon gets the first conference game at California. Their game will be played at Berkeley October 22. California will be a known quantity. Oregon a question mark. It is a team of veterans, with full eleven of substitutes all nearly as good as the men they are trained to replace. Oregon will be dry, fast field. But with last season's freshmen, they may be stars or dubs. No one knows, not even themselves or their coach, for they never have been tried.

California on top of this will have the advantage of good training weather and a dry, fast field. Both mean a lot, especially at that early stage of the season. It looks now like a victory for California.

The next conference eleven that will try to take a fall out of the Beavers is Washington State. It is a team of veterans, with full eleven of substitutes all nearly as good as the men they are trained to replace. Oregon will be dry, fast field. But with last season's freshmen, they may be stars or dubs. No one knows, not even themselves or their coach, for they never have been tried.

Word "Illegal" Added.
In rule six, the word "illegal" has been added so that the rule applies not only to an incomplete forward pass, but also to an illegal one. Rule seven has been altered so that it now accords with custom. The rule formerly provided that the captain should toss for choice of goal. No one can remember when the captains did this. The referee has tossed the coin for years. The referee has made his choice, he may not thereafter change his decision, which must stand.

Rules nine, 17 and 23 have undergone some slight changes in wording, thereby making them more meaningful. These changes are not likely to alter the play. Rule 23, dealing with unnecessary roughness, has been made to cover the various cases arising under its jurisdiction.

One of its sections has been subdivided into sections, each dealing with a different phase of the play. The penalty for fouling a man who has made a forward pass are grouped under another head. Unnecessarily running into or tripping one's opponent is obviously out of the play either before or after the ball has been declared dead and unnecessarily roughing a man who has made a forward pass are grouped under another head. The penalty for fouling under the first head is loss of 15 yards from the spot where the foul was committed.

For the second list of offenses the penalty is loss of 15 yards from the spot where the ball was put in play.

New Section Added.
A new section has been added to rule 14, which will be gratefully appreciated by the spectators, as well as by the unfortunate team forced to make a safety touchdown. This new ruling provides that the side making a safety may bring the ball out to their own 30-yard line, while the side making a touch-back may bring the ball out only to their own 20-yard line as before.

For the principal reason for this alteration was to enable the spectators to know at once when the ball was touched back. It is a matter of fact that the referee is not to be faulted for not knowing that goal, whether it was a safety and so scored two points for the opponent, or whether it was only a touch-back, which scored nothing.

It seemed fair also that a side so hard pressed to be forced to make a safety should be entitled to a somewhat greater distance in which to protect their touchdown. The referee given the team which merely had made a touch-back.

Quite a number of so-called "approved rulings" are appended to the rules by the committee. These will be explained and dealt with later by the writer.

CYCLE RACE MEET SURE

TWO-DAY EVENT SCHEDULED ON TACOMA TRACK.

Paul Schneiderman of Portland Arranges Speed Contests for Labor Day Feature.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 20.—(Special)—Paul Schneiderman of Portland arrived here yesterday morning to start work on his plans for staging a two-day motorcycle race meet at the local speedway September 4 and 5. Schneiderman managed two successful motorcycle race meets in Portland this summer, and says he will have riders here for the coming meet who will be able to give the speed fans more thrills than they ever have experienced at the local auto races.

This will be the first opportunity local fans have had of witnessing motorcycle races, and it will be the first time that the two-wheelers ever have competed on a board track in the northwest. Official sanction has been granted by the Motorcycle and Allied Trades association, which is the governing body of all motorcycle race meets, for holding the coming races.

The best time ever made by the auto racers on the local two-mile track was 18 seconds and Schneiderman says the motorbikes will be able to do better than 100 miles an hour in the coming meet. One motorcycle racer already has been "clocked" at 107 miles an hour.

Eight-valve motors will be used in the coming meet instead of the pocket-valve type which has been used in the dirt track races through-out the northwest. The eight-valve machines are capable of doing six seconds better to the mile than the pocket-valve racer.

Some of the most famous figures in America's motorcycle racing game will be here to compete. The list of possible entries includes Otto Walker, Wells Bennett, Ralph Hepburn, Bob Newman, Dutch Woolfifer, J. L. Vail, Red Cogburn, Ray Washier, Fredricks and Seymour.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL SEASON WILL OPEN SEPTEMBER 15

All Teams in Pacific Coast Conference Look Upon California as Chief Opponent—Washington State Seems Best Runner-Up.

This is as good a time as any to publish the 1921 football schedule for the Pacific coast conference varsity teams. Here is the list, including also some of the early-season practice games which have no bearing on the conference race:

September 24—California vs. St. Mary's college, at Berkeley.
October 1—Oregon Agricultural college vs. Gonzaga, at Corvallis; Oregon vs. Willamette, at Salem; Washington State vs. Alameda, at Pullman; California vs. Nevada, at Reno.

October 8—Oregon Agricultural college vs. Multnomah, at Tacoma; Stanford vs. Oregon, at Palo Alto; California vs. Washington State, at Pullman; Washington vs. Whitman, at Seattle.

October 15—Oregon vs. Idaho, at Portland; Oregon Agricultural college vs. Willamette, at Salem; California vs. Pacific coast, at Berkeley; Washington State vs. Gonzaga, at Spokane; Stanford vs. St. Mary's, at Pullman; Washington vs. Montana, at Seattle.

October 22—Oregon Agricultural college vs. University of Washington, at Corvallis; Oregon vs. California, at Berkeley; Washington State vs. Washington, at Pullman; California vs. Stanford, at Palo Alto.

October 29—Washington State vs. California, at Portland; Oregon Agricultural college vs. Washington State, at Corvallis; Oregon vs. Stanford, at Palo Alto; Washington vs. Whitman, at Seattle.

November 5—Oregon vs. Washington State, at Portland; Oregon Agricultural college vs. Washington State, at Corvallis; Washington vs. Whitman, at Seattle.

November 12—Oregon vs. Washington State, at Portland; Oregon Agricultural college vs. Washington State, at Corvallis; Washington vs. Whitman, at Seattle.

November 19—Oregon vs. Oregon Agricultural college, at Eugene; California vs. Stanford, at Palo Alto; Washington State vs. Washington, at Pullman; Washington vs. Whitman, at Seattle.

December 6—Washington State vs. Southern California, at Pasadena.
December 13—Oregon vs. University of Hawaii, at Honolulu.
January 2—Oregon vs. All-Hawaiian team, at Honolulu.

Seattle still has a chance at the Pacific coast league pennant. As this was written the Suda had broken even with Sacramento in their first four games, while San Francisco and Vernon were fighting it out, game for game. This left Seattle seven games behind the Seals, with six weeks in which to make up the gap. From Sacramento to the Suda, 60 to Los Angeles and tackle Vernon, which is a tough team to tackle right now. After that series they take on the Seals on the San Francisco lot. Except for one thing, it would be then or never for Seattle.

GEARHART GOLFERS' TWECCA THIS WEEK

Entries for Links Tourney Are Numerous.

SALT LAKE STAR INVITED

Many Will Make Use of Opportunity to Practice for Amateur Championship Meet, St. Louis.

GEARHART, Or., Aug. 20.—(Special)—That the golfing and social center of the Pacific northwest will be shifted to Gearhart Wednesday is indicated by the large number of entries received for the annual championship tournament which is to take place here from August 23 to 27. Prominent golfers from every section of the northwest will be present to compete for the handsome prizes offered for the winners.

With the amateur championship scheduled for St. Louis next month many of the leading golf figures in the northwest will come to Gearhart preliminary to making the eastern trip. Many have expressed their intent to be present for the keen competition expected in the coming tourney.

Several Washington cities will send their best players and every club in Oregon will be represented. Ercel Kay, who defeated Russell Smith in the final round last year, is expected to be present to defend his honors. Douglas Nicol, the youngster from the Portland Golf club, is on hand to give the older players some trouble.

Edward Smith, the Belgian player now in the Canadian Rockies, is expected to arrive on the links in time for the play. He has been playing all summer on various courses in Canada and golf enthusiasts are hoping that he will stop over here.

Noted Golfers Invited.
Many of the golfers who stood in the limelight in the northwest championship play at Portland are expected to enter the competition here. Invitations have been made to George von Elm, H. Chandler Egan, Russell Smith, Philip White, Clark Spier, Bob Stein, Dr. William, Clark Griswold and other golfers who are expected to compete in the amateur championships. In many respects the Gearhart course resembles that of the Sunset Hills at St. Louis, where the national event will be staged. This particular course has tended to attract many of the country's best golfers to Gearhart.

The women's championships are proving to be a drawing card. A large number of entries have been received for the women's round and with many of the feminine golfers under a hundred the competition should be the best in the history of this feature.

Owen A. Merrick, who is in charge of the tournament this year, reports that the course is in excellent shape. It has proven very popular among the numbers of vacationists who are residing here. A new green has been placed at the No. 2 hole. This will be used for the first time at the tournament.

Lowest 16 to Qualify.
The play will begin at 9 o'clock on Wednesday with medal play on the first 18 holes. The lowest 16 scores will qualify for the championship round. The women's championship will begin at 2:15 in the afternoon. Following the second 18 holes of the men's qualifying round, the women's play will begin at 4 o'clock. The women with the lowest eight qualifying for the championship play.

There will be two elimination rounds of 18 holes each for the men's championship round on Thursday, with one each for the women's championship, women's flights, and men's flights. The men's championship semi-final of 36 holes will be staged on Friday with the final on Saturday. A mixed foursome handicap will be held on Saturday.
