THIS past week there was a lull in social activities. The rush of the holiday season was over and no one wanted to give any large or formal festivities. But as soon as society had rested for a day or so its leaders commenced to plan for "Our City's Ball" which will be held January 18 in the municipal auditorium for the benefit of the woodyard project that the city conducts as a means of providing jobs for the unemployed. This is a most worthy and practical cause. It means a chance for the man who is down and out financially to get work and provide for his wife and little children. Society has heard the call of this splendid enterprise, and with Mrs. William MacMaster as chairman of the municipal ball, society will rally to the support of the undertaking. Mayor Baker named Mrs. MacMaster chairman because she possesses those attributes of leadership that assure success—fact, judgment, womanliness, fairness and sincerity. Mrs. MacMaster is rallying about her a corps of earnest workers who are determined to make this charity ball the biggest and best affair of the social season. Everyone who possibly can do so will purchase tickets and gladly will help the cause that gives the jobless man a chance to help himself and provide for his family. Mrs. Henry Ladd Corbett and Mrs. Cameron Squires are among the prominent young matrons who are assisting. They are vice-chairmen. The money derived from the ball will enable the city to carry on its enterprise which affords help to so many deserving families.

One of the pleasant affairs of the week just closed was the tea given yesterday by Mrs. Loring K. Adams for Mrs. H. C. Wortman, who but a short time ago returned from a trip around the world. The Loring Adams residence was artistically decorated with choice flowers. Among the guests were many of the women of the Wednesday art class, who are devoted to the study of art and who are especially interested in the journeying of Mrs. Wortman in that she visited so many of the leading art centers, galleries and exhibits of the old world. Mrs. Warren E. Thomas, Mrs. Charles E. Sears, Mrs. Edwin Caswell and Mrs. Thomas H. Williams were among those who assisted the hostess yesterday.

Tomorrow Mrs. Edward D. Kingsley and her daughter, Mrs. Medford Reed, of Hood River, who is spending the season here, will entertain at a tea for Mrs. George Archibald Kingsley (Anna Mae Chipping), who is a recent bride. Mr. and Mrs. Kingsley returned from their wedding tour a short time ago. They were married in Hood River and motored from Portland through California for their honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George T. Gerlinger have returned from California. They made the trip in their car and found the roads in fine condition. They were accompanied on the journey by Miss Georgianna Gerlinger and Miss Elizabeth Fox of Eugene.

Society from now on to Ash Wednesday, March 1, will be busy. Several weddings are scheduled for the latter part of this month.

Society at the post continues to be interesting, with many events honoring the various newly arrived members of the army set and those who plan to leave soon.

Last Tuesday Mrs. Thomas A. Hartis entertained in compliment to Mrs. Blatchford, wife of the commanding general. Those present were: Mrs. Arthur W. Bradbury, Mrs. Channing Delaplaine, Mrs. William P. Inglin, Mrs. Edward C. Rose, Mrs. Ponting, Mrs. William P. Currier, Mrs. Keith B. Wise, Mrs. Clyde Kelly and Mrs. J. L. Blachoff.

On Wednesday Mrs. R. M. Blatchford was hostess at a luncheon at which she honored Mrs. Inglin, who soon will leave for California. Among the other guests were Mrs. Bradbury, Mrs. Currier, Mrs. Channing Delaplaine, Mrs. Earl Pickle, Mrs. Lord, Mrs. H. F. Kendall, Mrs. Powell and Mrs. C. E. Dentler.

Wednesday evening Mrs. Clyde Kelly, wife of Captain Kelly, of the barracks, entertained at a dinner party at their quarters, honoring Mrs. Inglin. The same evening Mrs. Ever-at S. Prouty was hostess at a dancing party at the Frigate quarters at the barracks.

Thursday Mrs. Earl Pickle was hostess at a tea at her home, 599 East Fifteenth street North, honoring Mrs. Blatchford. Many of the army set and society folk of Portland attended.

On Friday Mrs. Blatchford gave a tea for Mrs. Hubert S. Miller, the bride of Lieutenant Miller. The women of the post were invited to meet the bride. The hours were 3 to 5 o'clock.

On Friday night Colonel and Mrs. Channing Delaplaine were hosts at a theater party for Mrs. Inglin.

Mrs. W. V. Dinmore of Piedmont, Cal., is coming to make her home in Vancouver barracks for a time with her daughter, Mrs. William McC. Chapman, wife of Captain Chapman and for the visitor Mrs. Chapman will give a tea next Tuesday.

On January 11 Mrs. Everett S. Prouty will be hostess at a tea for the army set, honoring her mother, Mrs. J. A. Lakin of Palo Alto, Cal.

At the reception given New Year's day by General and Mrs. Blatchford, Mrs. Delaplaine and Mrs. Rose poured and those assisting were Mrs. Wise, Mrs. Harrison G. Travis, Mrs. Thomas A. Hartis and Mrs. Inglin. The officers were all in full regalia and the air of festivity and good cheer prevailed.

At the New Year's "at home" of Colonel and Mrs. Bradbury, which was an afternoon affair for society and the post set, Mrs. Frank C. Baker poured. Assisting were Mrs. Albert Samuel Peake, Mrs. Andrus, Mrs. Pegram Whitworth, Mrs. C. E. Dentler, Mrs. Prouty, Mrs. H. F. Kendall, Miss Dentler, Miss Andrus, Miss Ariel Whedon and a few others.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cleveland announce the engagement of their daughter Maude, to Selma E. Woodworth of San Francisco, Cal.

Miss Cleveland and Mr. Woodworth were students together at the University of California, where she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta and he of Beta Theta Pi. Both have distinguished war records overseas.

It will be remembered that Miss Cleveland left a professorship at the University of California to go to France as a volunteer worker in a French hospital in 1917. In recognition of her service with the American army after the entrance of the United States into the war she was twice decorated, and is one of the very few women wearers of the distinguished service medal. Her career as a European relief worker ended last month with her return from Belgium to her home in Graham.

Mr. Woodworth is a metallurgical engineer, and is a member of the San Francisco firm of Hamilton, Beau-chance & Woodworth. He distinguished himself during the war as an officer with the destroyer fleet in European waters.

Announcement of this engagement will be received with great pleasure by a large circle of friends in this city as well as in university and social circles in San Francisco and the bay region.

Mr. and Mrs. Reade M. Ireland (Allis MacMaster) are being congratulated on the arrival of a baby girl, born Tuesday.

More than 60 members of the Portland Hunt club, who had gathered at Metzger park last Monday to witness the finish of the New Year paper chase, stayed over to the hunt breakfast afterwards and toasted Fred A. Martin, who won the Evered cup in the annual classic. By a coincidence Mrs. Martin had been appointed hostess of the day, so the honors lay to the Martin family.

The clubhouse at Garden Home had not been so crowded with local hunt folk nor so festive for many a month. The riders of the chase and those who had ridden out, but did not go through, joined the crowd despite muddy boots and logs. It was the most typical hunt gathering of the year and stimulated the rising enthusiasm of the club to future events like it. Seven more chasses and breakfasts are planned for the season.

An old plan revived during the afternoon and soon to be put in force is to follow the Friday night musical rides with club dances twice a month. These and other parties are to be announced as soon as a new entertainment committee is appointed.

Events for the club this week begin this morning with a cross-country ride from town to the club for breakfast and the ride back to town in the afternoon. Wednesday night a special drill at the riding academy for the tailors, who will be in convention this week, and a reception by the tailors to the club afterwards, when a style show of riding clothes will be held. The reception will be at the Multnomah hotel. Next Saturday afternoon there will be a closed paper chase for seniors and Mr. and Mrs. Martin will lay the course.

Those who assisted Mrs. Martin as hostess at the club breakfast last Monday were Mrs. W. U. Sanderson, Mrs. Earl Bernard, Miss Helen Zimmerman, Mrs. Ambrose Cronin, Miss Nell Osborne, Miss Jean Skene and Miss Sallie Sabin. Women who rode through the chase were Miss Martia

Babb, Miss Sallie Joyce, Miss Alice Moore, Flora Jane McBride, Mary Louise and Susannah Platt, Miss Helen Parker and Miss Helen West.

Mrs. Robert C. Smith was hostess for a smart tea Thursday at her home on Portland Heights, honoring Mrs. John Fenton of Vancouver, B. C. At the tea table were Mrs. Hamilton Boyd and Mrs. John Dickson. Assisting about the rooms were Miss Helen Moody, Miss Mary Clancy and Miss Marion Smith.

The marriage of Mrs. Crete M. Donald and Boyd M. Hamilton, which was solemnized Thursday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Keeler, parents of the bride, was one of the surprise affairs of the season. The Keeler residence at 504 East Twenty-sixth street North was attractively decorated for the occasion. After a supper for the bridal party and relatives attending, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton departed for a trip to California.

An attractive tea for members of the younger set was given last week by Miss Catherine Overbeck who entertained for about 75 of her friends. Mrs. George W. Brown poured and Mrs. Harry Humphrey cut loaves. Assisting about the rooms were Miss Ellen Cook, Miss Imogene Lewis, Miss Virginia Edwards, Miss Marian Bowman and Miss Charlotte Malbone. Miss Muriel Withers played piano selections during the afternoon.

Mrs. Charles W. King and her daughter, Mrs. Roland M. Lockwood, are spending an enjoyable month traveling in California. Mrs. King expects to visit her son Charles in Palo Alto, where he is attending Stanford university.

At an attractively appointed tea yesterday the engagement of Miss Jeanette Wiggins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Wiggins, and Lynn Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Davis of Altoona, Pa., was announced. The tea was given in the Wiggins residence on Clackamas street and the bride-elect and her mother received. The wedding will be in April and prior to that date many social affairs doubtless will be given for Miss Wiggins, who is a popular Irvington girl. For the announcement party the rooms were decorated in yellow flowers and the tea table was centered with tulips. Ravinella and other gay and fragrant spring blossoms. Little Jane Reynolds, who was stationed at the door, presented each
