

SHOW GIRL'S WORDS AT TRIAL ATTACKED

Prosecution's Efforts Balked in Arbuckle Case.

TESTIMONY IS CHANGED

Court Hails Objection to Miss Zey Prevost's Version, "He Hurt Me"; Coercion Asserted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—Efforts of the prosecution to impeach Miss Zey Prevost, show girl, and one of its leading witnesses, declared "hostile to its cause," were balked temporarily by the court today in the second trial of a charge of manslaughter against Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, in connection with the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress. The court said it would allow authorities on the point other than the ones quoted today.

In her testimony yesterday Miss Prevost stated that she "did not remember" Miss Rappe saying "he hurt me," on the occasion of the party in Arbuckle's rooms in the hotel St. Francis at which, according to the prosecution, he fatally injured the actress. At the first trial Miss Prevost made the positive statement that Miss Rappe said "he hurt me."

An attempt was made by the prosecution to have admitted an alleged statement by Miss Prevost in which she said that Miss Rappe exclaimed "he killed me." This statement was also included in the court's ruling. Miss Prevost testified that she was virtually coerced by the district attorney into making both statements, and she repudiated them. The prosecutor put Walter E. Trefz, secretary to the district attorney and an expert stenographer, on the stand to testify that she made the statements of her own free will voluntarily changing, however, the exclamation "he killed me" to "he hurt me." His testimony was not allowed today.

E. O. Heinrich, fingerprint expert, was called to identify certain fingerprints found on a door of Arbuckle's room in the hotel, and said by the prosecution to be those of Arbuckle and Miss Rappe. He was on the stand at final adjournment.

PRESS RATES PROTESTED

NEWSPAPERS OBJECT TO NEW WESTERN UNION TARIFF.

President of California Association Declares Interests of Public Are Involved.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21.—(Special.)—Friend W. Richardson, president of the California Press association, appeared before the state railroad commission today on behalf of the publishers protesting against the proposed raise in press rates asked by the Western Union Telegraph company. Richardson was represented by Attorney George D. Squires and offered five points against granting the rise. These were:

That the distribution of news was in the interests of the public.

That the Western Union is now earning enough to pay liberal dividends.

That, although the amount involved is small, the principle at stake is large.

That commodities are tending toward a lower level rather than a higher one.

That the Postal Telegraph company, although carrying commercial messages at a 20 per cent lower rate than the Western Union, is not asking for a rise in press rates.

Attorney Beverly Hodghead, representing the Western Union, said the Western Union made no profit on press messages and did not want the business.

detail of officers and the assignment of equipment, together with the payment of certain sums of money to juniors and seniors electing to serve officers' training corps work. Since the time units are one year, it is impossible to make any alterations of the contract in the midst of the season.

In the meantime it is extremely desirable that the morale of the corps be maintained at the very highest level. Every interest will be served by the work being both well and cheerfully done by everyone connected with it. The corps is already measuring well up toward the distinguished service class, and this goal should be won if possible. Whatever the university does ought to be well done. The commandant and officers are putting their hearts into the work and they are deserving of the most loyal support by every member of the university.

Investigation Being Made.

Since the place of the reserve officers' training corps in the training system of the army is at the present time being considered by the committees on military affairs in congress, and a widespread investigation is being made of the whole question of military training in the colleges, we can well afford to await the report on those findings before arriving at an irrevocable decision in our minds.

The matter is one of national bearing, involving not only the University of Oregon but some 200 other institutions. If the committees of congress, all men in civil life, decide either for or against the continued maintenance of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, their conclusions should receive very serious and respectful consideration by us all. They are in a position to know all the facts, both national and international, more fully than we, and if they think the welfare of the government calls for a continuance of military training in the colleges, even for a limited period of time, until some important questions of treaties are settled, we may all be serving the country in the best way by acquiescing in their opinion until we know certainly that they are wrong.

Personal Sacrifice Urged.

Even if a little personal sacrifice either of time or of opinion is involved, it is much best to take the safe course of supporting the government until we are absolutely sure that no need exists of doing so. The whole matter is sure in the long run to receive the fullest consideration on the narrow grounds.

No statement was made at any time by the reserve officers' training corps personnel, which consists of the commandant, Major Rowland, Captain Lewis, Lieutenant Knowles and five regular army sergeants.

university immediately after the start of the war, succeeding the student army training corps. The university's indefinite contract, which is without time specification, agrees to maintain the department of military training, provided the war department will assign certain personnel.

Work Is Compulsory.

The work is compulsory for men students not exempted for physical disability or previous training to the extent of six credit hours, and these are credited upon the degree. Reserve officers' training corps work is quite general in both land grant and non-land grant higher educational institutions, a statement recently published asserting that 100,000 American

Prior to 1917 no military work was given at the University of Oregon, whose students and alumni, however, flocked in great numbers to the colors as soon as the United States became involved with Germany. Dozens of these men speedily became officers, and many officers and men were killed or wounded in action.

AUTO SHOW BIG SUCCESS

Dealers Report Decided Gain in Trade as Result.

ROSEBURG, Or., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—A record crowd attended Roseburg's first automobile show tonight. The show has been a great success, not alone from the standpoint of enrollment, but also from the standpoint of the automobile business in this city.

Automobile dealers report a decided gain in trade as a result. There was a large crowd all three days, but tonight the army, where the show was held, was not large enough to accommodate all those who attended.

MORE KILLING FROSTS DUE

Imperial valley were said to be a total loss.

Accurate figures on the crop damage resultant from the cold wave will not be available for about ten days, it was stated.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 21.

Southern California continued to experience a cold wave, with heavy frosts this morning in the person of one Jack Frost, whose fly-by-night sojourn has resulted in the southland taking on the appearance of what visitors and residents alike term "regular old eastern winter."

Frozen water pipes and low gas pressure have handicapped the early housewife in several sections of the city in her preparation for breakfast while her husband has been obliged to get out the old fur overcoat he used to wear "back east" to protect him against the cold.

An unusual sight on the downtown streets was that of several pedestrians wearing large caps with fur earflaps, relics of days spent in colder climates of other sections of the country, brought once more into active service.

Thousands of motorists were confronted yesterday and this morning with frozen radiators, and it was not an uncommon thing to see an automobile parked at the side of the road while the impatient driver watched great clouds of steam spurt through the radiator cap.

Citrus growers, distributors and horticultural commissioners met here and at Riverside today to discuss relief measures. Picking of oranges will be halted until February 5, and shipments will be held up, until it can be determined the condition of the pickers is all right.

Experts and growers agreed that any attempt to estimate the loss would simply be a matter of guess work, but the weather conditions of the next week or so will be the determining factor. While indications

Oriental Rug Sale Still Continues to Attract Buyers

JUST as an example of our great reductions in Oriental Rugs—we are offering nearly 100 Mosul and Hamadan Rugs, sizes averaging 3 1/2 x 6, at from $39 to $55.

And these but begin to tell the story of the actual bargains in by far the largest and most select assortment of Oriental Rugs in the West.

Unparalleled are the prices quoted on our extra large stocks of Chinese Rugs, while Saruks, Irans, Lelahans, Dazars, Joshahan and other varieties are almost unbelievably low.

The word "sale" here means reductions that are real.

are that the major part of the navel crop, of which some 70 or more per cent is on the trees was frozen, the method of thawing out will determine the loss.

Cool weather will save the fruit, but sudden warmth would dry it. With this in consideration the citrus growers and distributors have agreed to protect the industry by halting all deliveries to market until the condition of the fruit can be determined.

The lemon crop is affected similarly, but possibly more seriously, as the late crop for the summer market may be seriously affected. The crop of Valencia oranges, a late crop, is reported not seriously affected.

Los Angeles in the past 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock had a temperature range of 35 to 59, with official observations indicating slightly higher temperatures for the next 24 hours. Other southern California sections reported similar conditions.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—A chinook wind today brought relief from the long cold spell, the mercury climbing to 39 degrees in a few hours from the low mark of 16 early this morning. The chinook reduced the depth of the snow about two inches by packing and melting. Streams of the county so far have shown little indication of filling up, though continuation of the melting will bring them up rapidly, it is stated. The warmth had the effect of stimulating business today.

RIVERSIDE, Cal., Jan. 21.—Citrus growers meeting here today with D. D. Sharp, county horticultural commissioner, discussed conditions resulting from the freeze and agreed to halt shipments of oranges and lemons for a week and determine future action next Saturday. Relief was expressed from the freeze and agreed to halt shipments of oranges and lemons for a week and determine future action next Saturday. HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 21.—Fire, starting in the postoffice block late last night, wiped out the main business section of West Columbia, an oil town of 2500 persons in Brazoria county and the first capital of the Texas republic. Early this morning the fire was reported under control. The main business street is four blocks long and crowded with one and two-story frame buildings.
