

POPE TO BE CHOSEN IN ISOLATED VATICAN

Doors to Be Bolted When Conclave Opens Feb. 2.

Cardinal Mercier of Belgium Arrives in Rome—Sistine Chapel Sings Tomorrow.

ROME, Jan. 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Only certain religious rites prescribed by canon law in which the cardinals will be participants remain before the sacred college is located within the vatican walls to choose the successor of Pope Benedict XV.

There will be three more requiem masses, while four or five cardinals will take part, and after that the conclave will begin.

On Monday mass will be sung in the Sistine chapel by Cardinals De Smedt, Cardinal Granito, Pompili and Caserio will assist. In the ceremony connected with the burial of the late pope, Cardinal Vico will be the celebrant and Cardinals Francis-Nava, Merry Del Val, Cagiano and Maffi will act as assistants.

Conclave Will Open February 2. All the doors of the vatican will be bolted and the palace will be shut off from the outside world.

On Tuesday Cardinal Vico, who attended the late pope, remained in the vatican. Monks and the whole vatican staff were notified today that their services would be needed, until the end of the conclave, except for a very limited number of employees; these will be sworn to secrecy.

Cardinal Mercier of Belgium reached the vatican this afternoon, and at once went to the Sistine chapel and said mass. None of the foreign cardinals has attracted such attention from the populace on his arrival as did the Belgian prelate. Cardinal Mercier's arrival led to the fact being recalled that the last non-Italian pope was the Belgian Cardinal Van der Meulen, born in Utrecht and elected as Adrian VI in 1522.

Late Pope Is Praised.

The late Pope Benedict XV was hailed as "the pontiff of humanity, apostle of charity, the pontiff of peace," by Cardinal Vannutelli, dean of the sacred college, in responding to a speech of condolence from Marquis de Villasis, Spanish ambassador to the vatican, and dean of the vatican diplomatic corps, when the corps was received by the sacred college today.

Several republican members of the chamber of deputies are considering interpellation of the vatican government upon the advisability of the Italian government officially recognizing the pope. The attitude of the sacred college of the church toward a rapprochement is expected to be defined in its choice of a successor to the late Pope Benedict.

Deputies Are Interested.

The republican deputies became interested in the question when they learned that President de Nicola of Italy, in a speech before the chamber of deputies, intended to pronounce an eulogy for the pontiff when the chamber reconvenes on February 2. The attitude of the vatican government toward the sacred college will convene to choose the new pope.

Several demands for interpellation were placed upon Signor Bonicini's desk yesterday, one protesting against what it termed the "official recognition" of the vatican by the visit of Signor Mauri, minister of agriculture, to the holy see.

The members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the vatican called at the holy see today and officially presented the condolences of their respective governments upon the death of Pope Benedict.

THEATER CROWD CRUSHED

All was confusion for hours after the crash when the firemen, men from the nearby barracks and soldiers from Walter Reid military hospital straggled about the debris and bring forth those buried there.

Scores had been removed from the debris and buried under the debris by the firemen for 24 hours in battling the heavy snow which was unable to be removed. A number of those taken to the hospital or on whether any or how many had died after reaching the hospital.

Every fire station was called upon to send its crew to the scene and the collection of fire fighting apparatus was added to the confusion.

With the arrival of the marines, however, order began to be restored.

HOSPITALS ARE SET UP

Emergency hospitals were set up in the neighborhood, some in the homes of high government officials. When it was found that the tons of concrete and steel of the roof were almost immovably and unpenetrable, the street railway companies and the Washington navy yard were asked to supply activities for the injured.

With these, more rapid progress was made. Belief was expressed in some quarters that the final list of injured and possibly the list of the dead would contain names of well-known persons, inasmuch as the theater was situated in a section of the city in which many government officials live.

The management of the theater, which was owned and operated by the Harry M. Crandall company, declared that the building only recently was inspected and approved and that the collapse of the roof only could have been caused by the tremendous weight imposed by the heaviest snowfall that has visited Washington since 1895.

Pillars Driven Through Floor.

The roof fell with such force as to drive three concrete pillars through the orchestra floor. Up near the stage, however, its force was arrested so that the platform acted as a buffer. For this reason, it was said, several of the musicians escaped unharmed.

Every expedient was resorted to in the work of rescue, volunteers assisting the firemen, police and marines without regard to possible collapse of the walk. A small boy crawled through a small aperture in the tangled mass of concrete, steel and wood to a man, woman and child, who were pinned down, and gave them water.

At the night work on the work of rescue continued feverishly, but some officials expressed doubt if the debris could be removed for several days, leading to the possibility that the last body may not be recovered for some time.

The police, firemen and marines were reinforced also by troops of Boy Scouts, who stood guard through the night.

CREDIT CONDITIONS IN WEST IMPROVING

Federal Reserve Agent Reports on Developments.

INDUSTRIES MORE ACTIVE

Permanent Recovery From Depression in West Must Await Result of This Year's Crops.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 28.—(Special.)—The 12th federal reserve district, being so largely dependent for prosperity upon the agricultural and livestock industries, must await the results of the 1922 crops before they will recover permanently and substantially from the severe readjustment of the past year, John Perrin, San Francisco federal reserve agent, declared in his monthly report issued here today.

"There is already apparent, however," the report said, "pronounced improvement in the credit situation when compared with the beginning of 1921, as indicated both by the strong position of the banks generally throughout the district and by the availability and cost of bank credit for agriculture, industry and commerce."

"Total borrowings of member banks from the federal reserve bank at the beginning of 1921 were $171,211,999 or more than twice as much as borrowed at the beginning of 1922."

"Improvement in the condition of the 67 reporting member banks is reflected in the reduction during the year in the ratio of their total loans and discounts to total deposits, which was 81.3 per cent at the beginning of 1921, and 75 per cent at the beginning of 1922."

"Prevailing interest rates charged by the principal member banks were reported to be easing slowly late in 1921, and it would appear that conservative enterprise in general will not be hampered in its conduct in 1922 either by lack of available bank credit or by its cost."

Crop Values Cut Down. "Customary yearly returns to the United States department of agriculture show that the December 1 farm value of the 15 principal crops of the district was $1,100,000,000, compared with $738,000,000 in 1920, a decline of 33 per cent."

"These figures reflect the substantial drop in the prices of farm products. As a measure of the purchasing power of the rural communities, however, the district shows a decline in the price of farm products of 26.7 per cent between July, 1920, and December, 1921, and particularly in the latter item weights of farm labor are one of the predominant elements and these are reported by the department of agriculture to have been 145.50 per cent higher in 1921, as compared with $72.21 with board in 1920."

"These industrial figures of the district directly allied with agriculture are in appreciably better condition than they were at the beginning of 1921. Sixty-one flour mills are operating at full capacity, and present estimates are that the fruit and vegetable pack in the district during the coming year will be a large one."

Industrial Activity Noted. "In industrial activity the most notable contrast with conditions prevailing a year ago appears in the lumber industry, 1921 orders being more active than customary. Production of four associations of this district was 36 per cent greater than in 1920, and 17.5 per cent in value of permits compared with 1920."

"Business failures continue to be heavy, those for December being the largest reported during the past three years. They were greater by 41.3 per cent in number and 13 per cent in total liability than failures in December 1920."

"Bank clearings of the 20 principal cities during December of 1921, $1,827,365,000, were only 4.1 per cent less than the clearings of December, 1920. This is the smallest percentage of decrease for any month of 1921, when compared with the corresponding month of 1920, and a considerably smaller percentage of decrease than occurred in wholesale and retail prices during the period. It would appear that the physical volume of business is now greater than it was a year ago."

Savings Show Increase. "Notwithstanding exceptions in Seattle and Spokane, savings deposits generally throughout the district do not show the decline which might have been anticipated, but, instead, an increase of 4.5 per cent in amount during the year ending December 15, 1921, as compared with 25 reporting centers."

Local mountaineers and climbers say that the mountain side that snowed from the mountain side, but this theory was disputed by Mr. Pridemore. When the wind blows the snow up the hill, it takes the shape of an inverted cone, he said, and declared the column yesterday looked more like smoke from a locomotive.

KLAMATH BANK SUSPENDS

INSTITUTION RECENTLY REORGANIZED CLOSED.

Quiet but Persistent Withdrawal of Funds Held Responsible for Failure of Concern.

KLAMATH FALLS, Or., Jan. 28.—(Special.)—At 10 o'clock this morning the First State & Savings bank opened as usual for business. Twenty minutes later the curtains were drawn, the doors locked and a notice posted on the window: "This bank is closed. All deposits are being returned to the depositor's order. The state superintendent of banking is in possession of the books and records of the bank. It was just a year ago when precisely the same thing happened. Conditions of the bank, under the management of Captain Siemens, founder of the bank, the people rallied to his support and the bank was reorganized and reopened under what appeared to be most auspicious conditions."

Today the city was plunged in sorrow when the suspension announcement was made.

When the bank reopened in March Captain Siemens was re-elected president and Marshall Hooper, a former state bank examiner, was chosen vice-president and given the general management of the bank. Two weeks ago he resigned and C. E. Wallis, formerly of Portland, was chosen to succeed him.

Mr. Wallis, who was placed in charge as receiver, in a statement issued late today announced that the bank would be able to liquidate its affairs without the depositors or stockholders losing a dollar.

The First State & Savings bank was organized 12 years ago with a capital of $100,000. Upon reorganization the capital was increased to $250,000.

There will be no reorganization of the First State & Savings bank of Klamath Falls, Or., of which Captain Siemens was president and which was ordered closed yesterday by the state banking department, according to an announcement here last night by State Bank Examiner Bramwell. In his opinion liquidation is the only proper thing now and his judgment is that depositors will get practically dollar for dollar, though it may require several years to effect settlement.
